SNOW BRIGHTENS SIERRA SLOPES

Following recent storms which have deepened the pack at Squaw Valley, a cable car heads upslope, in readiness for the Washington's Birthday weekend ahead. Living Costs Slowing Record Rate Of Climb

Administration Sees Inflation Peril Still

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cost of living rose four-tenths of 1 per cent in January, slightly less than in preceding two months, the Labor Department reported Thursday. The administration, however, said it found no evidence of a real decline in the rate of inflation.

When adjusted for normal seasonal trends, the January consumer price boost was still at the 7.2 per cent annual rate which prevailed in December and November — the highest since the Korean war.

The January increases boosted the consumer price index to 131.8 per cent of the 1957-59 average. That means it now takes $131.80 a week for a city family to maintain theliving standard that 10 years ago cost only $100.

Steeply higher prices for consumer services, especially transportation, and for food and costs of maintaining a household were the major factors in lifting the index to a level 6.2 per cent above January 1969. This was the largest 12-month increase since the year that ended in November 1951.

PRICE BULGE

Because of the price bulge, the purchasing power of factory workers declined for the fourth month in a row in spite of a small increase in take-home pay.

Real spendable earnings, which is the weekly take-home pay expressed in 1957-59 dollars to eliminate the inflation factor, dropped by 13 cents, to $77.78 for the worker with three dependents, the department said. The cutbacks in the automobile, aerospace and some other industries was reflected in a surprisingly large reduction in the average work-week—a half-hour shorter than in December.

Last month's four-tenths of one per cent price rise compared with six-tenths of one per cent in December, five-tenths in November, and four-tenths in October.

HIGHER RATE

Translated into seasonally adjusted figures, however, the rate of increase was six-tenths of one per cent for each month, November through January. This was a higher rate of advance than prevail during the fall.

The unchanged rate of increase in the seasonally adjusted figures for the past three months indicated at least that inflation has not accelerated.

Dr. Joel Popkin, assistant commissioner of the department's bureau of labor statistics, was asked whether this gives rise to hope that a slowdown is coming.

"I suppose so," Popkin said.

The bureau also issued a revised report on the wholesale price index, usually considered an indicator of coming trends at retail. The January climb of wholesale price was eight-tenths of one per cent, up to a level of 116 per cent of the 1957-59 average.

The increase in wholesale prices of industrial commodities was four-tenths of one per cent, about the same as the increase over the past six months.

Ex-Drug Addicts' Campaign

By MARY LEYDECKER

Two 21-year-old self-proclaimed "ex-dope fiends" have turned their San Rafael flat into a 24-hour-a-day center where young persons trying to kick drug habits or just talk about their problems can gather.

Rex Hutchinson and Raymond Menjou, who call their operation at 805 D Street, "Center Point," say that they found a crying need for such a project in Marin, where no facility existsted for people who wanted to quit drugs without entering an institution.

With no support from any governmental or private agency, the young men are trying to gain backing from civic groups such as the Optimist Club of Corte Madera, where Hutchinson spoke yesterday.

The youth told his middle-aged audience that he started on drugs at 15, progressing from marijuana and pills through methedrine and finally to heroin.

Stints in Juvenile Hall and jail didn't change him, Hutchinson said. Finally, when faced with commitment to the state prison hospital for addicts, the California Rehabilitation Center, Hutchinson decided to enter the drug program at Mendocino State Hospital.

"A beautiful thing" was his description of that program, called "the family," where addicts voluntarily gather to kick their habits. He said that his partner in the center, Menjou, had a similar background and finally wound up at Synanon.

"We use the techniques we learned at Mendocino and Synanon at Center Point," he explained to the Optimist. "Games" and encounter sessions are included in the methods they've found to help, but Hutchinson described Center Point as mainly a place where young people can find someone to talk to.

"Kids often can't talk to their parents because they overreact," Hutchinson said. "They can't talk to their friends because they think they have to maintain an image and they can't talk to ministers or psychiatrists because they think these people haven't been through what they have."

"Of course, these are rationalizations," Hutchinson added, "But, anyway, they know we've been through probably more than they have."

Either Hutchinson or Menjou is available at their four-bedroom flat over an antique shop all day long. How have the youngsters found them?

"Well, there's a grapevine in the world of dope fiends," Hutchinson said.

However, they hope that eventually agencies and

Two More Enter Race For Court

Attorneys A. Leonard Bjorklund Jr. and Charles R. Best declared their candidacies for the Marin Municipal Court judgeship being vacated by Alvin H. Goldstein Jr., bringing to 13 the candidates in the June 2 election.

Bjorklund, 43, is a Sausalito trial attorney and former deputy district attorney in Alameda County. He was graduated from Dartmouth College and received his law degree from Harvard University.

"A crisis exists today in our courts that is without parallel in the history of our country," he said today. "Too many of our courts, instead of carrying out their judicial responsibilities, have become timid and vacillating.

"The public has a right to demand that the judge it elects will be fearless and resolute in carrying out all of his judicial responsibilities. If elected I will meet this demand."

Bjorklund is a past president of the Sausalito Chamber of Commerce and the Marin County Heart Assn. He is a director of the Sausalito Rotary Club, and belongs to the Marin County Bar Association.

Bjorklund is engaged in private practice at 765 Bridgeway Boulevard, Sausalito. He and his wife, Marylyn, live at 6 East LaVerne Lane, Mill Valley, with their two children.

Best, 39, has offices at 35 Mitchell Boulevard, San Rafael.

He was born in San Francisco and attended the College of Marin. He received his law degree from the University of California, Hastings College of Law.

"Efficient, effective administration of justice, both civil and criminal, is a fundamental responsibility of all judges," he said today.

"I have more than the minimum qualifications required for the job I am seeking, and I will put them beside those of all other candidates for comparison. I want the job and expect to go after it vigorously."

Nixon Asks Genocide Treaty Nod

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon today urged the Senate to ratify a genocide treaty which has been gathering dust in Congress for 20 years.

The treaty on prevention and punishment of genocide was sent to the Senate in 1949 by President Harry S Truman. Senate hearings were held in 1950, but the Senate itself never acted on the treaty despite the fact that it went into force in 1951.

Seventy-four nations have become parties to the agreement, and it was unanimously adapted by the U. N. General Assembly.

Genocide is a deliberate effort to exterminate a race or people.

The treaty itself goes beyond

Senate Argues Effect Of Integration Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott said today new legislation prescribing a uniform national policy on enforcement of school desegregation is either unconstitutional or unenforceable, and will not become law.

Sen. Mike Mansfield, the Democratic leader, who supported the measure, said if it does remain part of the massive aid to education bill, the courts will have to decide what it means.

Southern senators, flushed with that major victory in their fight to slow Dixie school desegregation, then failed 49-36 to strike the power of federal courts to order busing of school children to achieve racial balance.

Scott and Mansfield discussed their interpretations of the amendment that was proposed, and won, by Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., as the Senate resumed debate on the desegregation issue.

"It either means let's not enforce any of the laws, or let's enforce all of them," said Scott. He said the first interpreation is unconstitutional, the second would be unenforceable because neither Congress nor the federal courts have yet held segregation produced by neighborhood school patterns to be illegal.

Either way, Scott said, the Stennis amendment "is impossible to accept." He said it will be stricken from the bill when House and Senate conferees work out a compromise version.

"What its effect will be I don't know," said Mansfield. "I would expect that if it remains in as it is, the court will have to make that deciseon."

Way Turns Committee Gavel In

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Sen. Howard Way, R-Exeter, deposed 10 days ago as Senate president, today resigned the Government Organization Committee chairmanship assigned him Wednesday by his successor, Sen. Jack Schrade, R-San Diego.

Way told newsmen the resignation was prompted by the fact he is a member of four other committees and lacked time to act as chairman of a fifth committee.

He said the resignation, handed Schrade personally this morning, was in no sense a commentary on Schrade's leadership.

"There just aren't enough hours in the day," said Way, president pro tem for nine months until Schrade ousted him 10 days ago. "Too heavy a workload."

Way is a member of the finance, transportation, agriculture, and revenue and taxation committees.

Sen. James Mills, D-San Diego, deposed Transportation Committee chairman and a staunch Way backer, also resigned from the Government Organization Committee.

Mills added he is considering resigning also the chairmanship of a "select committee" chairmanship on salt water intrusion into agricultural lands, an assignment he branded "a calculated insult" by Schrade who bounced him as transportation chairman.

U.S. Tries Informal Approach In Paris

PARIS (AP) — The United States dropped presentation of a formal position paper at the peace talks today in an effort to move the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong into direct discussions of the issues.

But U.S. Ambassador Phillip Habib, talking to reporters after the 55th session of the talks, said "I didn't find them willing to discuss" the issues "in any meaningful way."

Habib called the change in U.S. tactics "a major effort to engage the other side in the kind of discussions that will be meaningful and to the point."

"I moved quickly" he said "into free discussion of the issues, hoping to bring some kind of back and forth exchange."

Usual procedure has involved presentation of a formal written statement by each delegation. This was then given to the other side and later handed out to the press.

The other three delegations followed this practice today.

Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh, the Viet Cong representative, said in her statement that "the United States has waged and is waging chemical warfare in South Vietnam on an unprecedented scale in the annals of warfare." She said such tactics had brought death or illness to nearly 1.3 million people.

Binh said the tactics have continued with the Nixon administration, citing a so-called massacre at Ba Lang and in Quang Ngai province in early 1969 in which she stated toxic gases were used to kill more than 300 civilians.

The United States was hiding its use of toxic products behind statements that they were only plant killers, Mrs Binh declared.

ROTC Fuss At Syracuse

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Fifty students—including the student government president and several student body officials— occupied Syracuse University's administration building for about 3½ hours today to press demands for a campus referendum on ROTC.

The seizure ended after Chancellor John Corbally met with a student delegation and agreed to address a mass meeting of students shortly afterward.

The main issue on the 18,000-student campus appeared to be Corbally's decision to take the ROTC matter out of the hands of the University Senate. The senate, composed of students, faculty members and administrators, has been considering the Army and Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps programs for several years.

At a meeting Wednesday night a senate committee recommended that credit for ROTC courses be dropped as of 1973 and that military personnel teaching courses in the programs lose their faculty status at that time.

But Corbally rejected that idea and said further consideration of the problem by the senate would not be productive. He said he would establish a university committee to consider the future of the military programs.

Student government President David Ifshin, one of the invaders, told newsmen: "The main issue is simply the chancellor's actions."

He claimed Corbally had conducted the meeting arbitrarily and "left one with the conclusion that the senate was no more than a toy for the administrators to play with."

"We are demanding a campuswide referendum on the issue of ROTC, we will abide by the results. We are asking for democracy," Ifshin said.

Defense Rests

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — Defense attorneys in the Algiers Motel conspiracy trial have rested their case in one day after rushing four witnesses to the stand in 90 minutes.

U.S. Dist. Court Judge Stephen Roth then adjourned the trial of three suspended Detroit policemen and a private guard until Tuesday, when final arguments are expected.

The judge indicated he would consider another defense motion for acquittal. Earlier Wednesday, the judge denied a similar defense motion.

The four are charged with violating the civil rights of eight black youths and two white women at the Algiers Motel in Detroit during the 1967 riot. Three of the youths were shot to death.

Rips 'Vandalism'

MANILA (AP) — U.S. Ambassador Henry A. Byroade sharply criticized the Philippine government today for failing to protect the U.S. Embassy from a mob attack.

Protesting the "wanton vandalism" by demonstrators Wednesday night, Byroade said in a note, "The embassy is being treated as a defenseless hostage, routinely available for physical abuse by any sector of the society with a grievance."

The government closed all schools in the Manila area until Monday after about 2,000 young Filipinos invaded the embassy compound Wednesday night and broke windows, rampaged through the business district and massed near the presidential palace where six persons were killed in an antigovernment demonstration Jan. 30.

Seeks Divorce

YAKIMA, Wash. (AP) — Rep. Catherine May, R-Wash., filed suit Wednesday for divorce from her husband, James.

"There will be no contest, no scandal," Mrs. May said. "We both have a great deal of respect for each other."

The couple have been married 27 years.

Mrs. May, who is 55, asked the divorce on grounds of "separation of more than two years and personal indignities."

She and her husband have lived apart most of the 12 years since she was elected in 1958 as the state's first congresswoman.

They have a son, James, 24, a Marine officer in Vietnam and a daughter Melinda, 19, who is employed in Washington, D.C.

Heavy Casual Ties

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Heavy casualties apparently have forced the North Vietnamese and the Pathet Lao to suspend operations temporarily in their campaign to recapture the Plain of Jars, official sources reported today.

The battle area 100 miles north-northeast of Vientiane was reported "very quiet" today after seven days of hard fighting in which the Laotian government said 17 of its troops were killed and 28 wounded.

The sources said government guerrilla patrols had found the bodies of 174 North Vietnamese troops on the plain, bringing the total confirmed enemy casualties to more than 385 since the North Vietnamese offensive opened last week.

Vote Drive

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — AFL-CIO leaders are planning a get-out-the-vote drive among union members in what they view as a vital fight to keep Congress in the hands of liberal Democrats friendly to organized labor.

Political strategists of the 13.6-million member labor federation announced Wednesday they will spend $850,000 to get union members registered and to the polls on election day.

Al Barkan, director of the labor federation's Committee on Political Education said, "COPE is in a hell of a lot better shape in 1970 and will do a hell of a lot better job than most experts predict."

A survey of union members in 14 states indicated grounds for concern. It showed registration of AFL-CIO members in many areas well below the national average of 50 per cent of all eligible voters.

Marijuana Plea

Folsom Pair Nabbed; Family Held Hostage

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Two Folsom Prison inmates who escaped Tuesday while being transported to Fresno were captured without resistance Wednesday night after holding a Sacramento family hostage for more than 24 hours.

The life-term convicts, armed with a loaded .32-caliber pistol and a butcher knife, surrendered to police in the parking lot at Sacramento Metropolitan Airport. The hostages were not hurt.

Police said the convicts, Lynn Wayne Benner, 27, and Richard Mutch, 29, held the family hostage in their home since shortly after they overpowered a sheriff's deputy and escaped with his gun and car in Sacramento.

Officers said three of the hostages, Clifford Edgerly, his wife Edna and their 19-year-old son, were forced to drive the convicts to the airport.

But the escapers, described by police as "very dangerous," left the Edgerlys' daughter, Pegggy, 21, at home. She called a friend, Alex Adams, who, in turn, notified police.

Officers said Peggy told Adams she thought the convicts and her family were headed for the airport about 10 miles northeast of Sacramento.

Police said they spotted the Edgerly vehicle and trailed it to the airport.

Five officers surrounded the car after it stopped in the parking lot and the escapers surrendered.

Officers said they found handcuffs and a chain in the car. Benner and Mutch were handcuffed when they escaped and the handcuffs were attached to chains wrapped around their wrists.

The convicts were booked at city jail on kidnap, armed robbery, felony escape, assault with a deadly weapon and grand theft charges.

Benner was serving a term on kidnap and robbery convictions in Los Angeles in 1964.

Nixon Picks Labor Umpire

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has announced as his choice for chief federal umpire in company-worker disputes a Chicago lawyer who has specialized in representing management.

Strong labor opposition is expected against congressional approval of Edward B. Miller, 47, for chairman of the National Labor Relations Board.

Secretary of Labor George P. Shultz, who met with Nixon before the Miller announcement Wednesday, said the administration wants a "reasonable" NLRB and this can best be done by staffing it with reasonable people.

Miller said his labor relations work had been "exclusively with management." He had been offered legal assignments by labor unions, but declined them, he said, because they would have created a conflict of interest.

A newsman asked Miller if he thought the NLRB has been unreasonable.

"Even reasonable men can differ," he answered, adding he would not characterize recent boards as unreasonable. Shultz said he agreed with Miller.

Could he fairly assess the legitimate views of organized labor, Miller was asked. His answer: A board member should not look at each case "as a battle to be won. The real name of the game is to find some basis for agreement."

Miller is nominated for a five-year term on the board, replacing Sam Zagoria, who has been under attack by congressional critics who charge the NLRB with pro-union bias. If the nomination is approved, Nixon said, Miller will be designated chairman, succeeding Frank W. McCulloch.

The NLRB recently has been the subject of controversy both from inside the board itself and in Congress.

Order Of Garter Back In Family

LONDON (AP) — Members of the family of Lord Cornwallis, who surrendered to George Washington at Yorktown in 1781, have regained possession of the Order of the Garter decoration he received from George III.

The decoration, which had passed through various hands down the years, was sold at auction by its anonymous owner Wednesday for $1,800. A Cornwallis family group made the winning bid.

Cornwallis received the silver sash and velvet breast star of the order, highest in Britain, in 1786.

Youths Set Cleanup Of Mount Tamalpais

Mill Valley's Youth Commission last night laid the groundwork for a massive one-day cleanup of litter plagued Mount Tamalpais.

The commission tentatively set April 4 as the date for the "clean in" and indicated it hoped to mobilize up to 1,000 persons to gather litter on the mountain.

There have been several small cleanups by single organizations, but the April 4 endeavor — if it comes off as planned — will be the biggest single antilitter campaign on the mountain.

The commission said last night it hoped to get support from groups throughout Marin County, including scouting, church, ecological and civic organizations to help with the cleanup.

The commission said it planned to divide the mountain into sections and assign task forces to clean them.

Representatives from the Marin Municipal Water District and the Mount Tamalpais State Park met with the commission last night and said they would help the group identify the areas with the heaviest litter problems. Both the water district and the park representatives said they would aid in the cleanup by providing trash containers and trucks.

Robert N. Neygren, a park ranger, told the commission that the trails are fairly clean but that the lakes and areas along the roadways through the park are heavily littered. He suggested the cleanup campaign be aimed at these areas.

Also at last night's meeting were representatives from the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Commission, the Marin Ecology Center and Sludge, a group of ecology-minded students from Tamalpais High School. All supported the plan and said they would contribute manpower to the effort.

The commission's next meeting is set for March 4 and chairman Carol Prichard said she hoped representatives from other groups would appear at the meeting.

"What we will need at that meeting is a commitment of manpower," she said. Commission members will be contacting as many groups as possible and notifying them of the March 4 meeting, which is scheduled for 8 p.m. in the Mill Valley City Hall.

B52s Return To Bombing Runs Over South Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. B52 bombers went back to targets in South Vietnam today after 48 hours of heavy attacks in Laos. All 75 of the Strategic Air Command's big bombers in Southeast Asia had been diverted to the Laotian front.

Sources in Saigon said B52 strikes were continuing against North Vietnamese supply depots and the Ho Chi Minh trail through eastern Laos. But the sources said the attacks were not of the magnitude of those flown Tuesday and Wednesday.

The U.S. Command announced two B52 missions in South Vietnam between midnight and 6 a.m. today, a total of 10 planes dropping 300 tons of bombs on base camps and troop concentrations in the western Mekong Delta. The targets were five miles from the Cambodian border and 125 miles southwest of Saigon.

Informed sources said the big bombers for the time being were flying their usual number of missions, about seven every 24 hours in South Vietnam and about two every 24 hours in Laos. This means 35 planes dropping about 1,000 tons of bombs in South Vietnam, and 10 planes dropping about 300 tons across the border.

The U.S. Command never announces planes lost in Laos since it does not admit that U.S. planes are flying combat missions there. But it did announce the loss of three more helicopters in South Vietnam with 19 troops killed and three injured. One was shot down 20 miles north of Saigon, one farther northeast near the Cambodian border, and the other had mechanical trouble 78 miles southeast of Da Nang.

Fourteen American helicopters have been reported lost in the past nine days. In these crashes 38 Americans and four South Vietnamese have been killed and 19 Americans and 52 Vietnamese injured.

The weekly casualty summary issued by the allied commands today showed a 25 per cent decrease in combat deaths among government troops but little change for American and enemy forces compared with the week before. The report gave these figures (previous week in parentheses):

Killed—96 (95) Americans, 222 (298) South Vietnamese, and 2,205 (2,105) North Vietnamese and Viet Cong.

Wounded—589 (637) Americans and 710 (809) South Vietnamese.

Dyk Declines; Six In Race In Sausalito

City councilman Jan Paul Dyk's announcement that he will not run for a third term and a late filing today by a candidate put six persons in the race for two seats on the Sausalito City Council in the April 14 election.

Dyk, 52, a steamship executive for the Holland-American Line in San Francisco, said "two terms are enough for one man," but indicated he will continue to take an interest in municipal affairs.

He supported the candidacy of Mayor Earl F. Dunphy, seeking a fourth term on the council April 14. "I have worked with him and I know what a fine job he does, "Dyk said.

San Francisco Attorney Michael J. Kutsko, 55 Miller Avenue, was a late entrant into the race today, but was in New York and not available for comments on his reasons for seeking a council post. Papers were filed in his behalf.

He joins Dunphy, Marsha Owen (Sally Stanford), owner of the Valhalla Inn; Stephen Fraser, a professor of government at Sonoma State College; Robert D. Bauerle, co-owner of Brotman's gift shop and artist Serge Trubach, who earlier announced their intentions to run.

killing and injuring members of a group. It also includes mental harm, enforced birth prevention and forced transfer of children from one group to another.

Nixon said he regretted having to report that since Truman submitted the treaty, "some of our detractors have sought to exploit our failure to ratify this convention to question our sincerity."

"I believe we should delay no longer in taking the final convincing step which would reaffirm that the United States remains as strongly opposed to the crime of genocide as ever," Nixon said in a message to the Senate.

It was accompanied by an explanatory report by Secretary of State William P. Rogers.

Nixon said Senate ratification would "demonstrate unequivocally our country's desire to participate in the building of international order based on law and justice."

Nixon endorsed Rogers' judgment that ratification would be in the national interest. The President also told the Senate that Rogers and Attorney General John N. Mitchell saw no constitutional obstacles to the treaty.

Weather Hurts Search For Pair

Bad weather yesterday and today hampered the search for two Hamilton Air Force Base men missing since Saturday in San Pablo Bay from their rescue vessel, according to base officials.

Missing are Assistant Fire Chief S. J. Blumberg, 45, of Fairfax and A/1 Bruce B. Scopes, 19, of the barracks.

They took the base's Boston whaler rescue vessel for a three-hour shakedown cruise about 10:30 a.m. Saturday and have not been seen since. The boat with all gear on board was found at 8 p.m. Saturday off Point Pedro.

Helicopters and small boats searched Sunday and yesterday. Only small boats were searching today.

Another In Tiburon Race

Alvin R. Kuhn, a San Francisco stockbroker, filed candidacy papers today to become the fourth candidate in a race for three seats on the Tiburon City Council.

Mayor Branwell D. Fanning, a 44-year-old advertising executive, filed yesterday for a second term. Councilmen William R. Bremer and Thomas E. Drohan have announced they will not seek reelection.

Others in the race, who announced earlier, are Donald L. Batten, president of the Belvero n Homeowners Association, and Albert H. Sennett, a 41-year-old attorney and city planning commissioner.

courts will refer people to them. They already have the whole-hearted backing of their probation officer, Charles Villareal, who says their program works.

The young men realize, however, they can't deal with all addicts.

"Hard core dope fiends we tell to go to Mendocino or Synanon," Hutchinson said yesterday. "We tell them, 'you can't make it and still stay on the streets."

They also hope to do their bit toward preventing drug addiction before it starts by talking to school children and have already set up meetings with PTA groups in the San Anselmo school district.

Hutchinson told his listeners yesterday that he feels the drug problem in Marin and everywhere else in the country is getting worse. "You get kids 10 years old now smoking marijuana and using heroin at 16," he said.

A listener asked if this couldn't be prevented by drying up the flow of drugs. Hutchinson replied that the police can't possibly stop it that much.

"How do you feel about marijuana," another man asked.

Hutchinson replied that he saw "no reason to take any kind of chemicals."

Furthermore, he said that "marijuana makes kids so they can't do anything else but sit around and smoke dope."

But the real danger, according to Hutchinson, is that it puts young people in the drug environment. "It's addictive in that sense," he explained, because sellers often try to push worse drugs at kids who use marijuana.

Hutchinson said he and Menjou have tried to allay fears of many people about their center. First, they have explained to police what they are doing and said they didn't mind being checked to make sure there were no drugs there.

"However, we don't want to be a mousetrap for catching dope fiends," he added.

Further, he is trying to assure parents that their youngsters will not fall into evil ways just because they visit a place where drug addicts are present.

Hutchinson said yesterday that Menjou, who had army medical corps training, works at a local hospital in order to help pay the rent and he himself sometimes repossesses cars to supplement their income.

However, their attorney, J. Patrick Heron, a young Mill Valley man who recently passed the bar examination, said yesterday that Center Point soon will incorporate so that donations will be tax deductible.

The youths then hope to prove themselves so they will be eligible for charitable grants and government programs.

Finally, Hutchinson was asked what does Center Point mean?

"It means looking at yourself and solving your own problems," he said.

vote a resolution of Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., to set up a special 15-member Senate committee to look into problems of equal educational opportunity all over the nation with special emphasis on de facto (neighborhood) segregation in the North.

Mondale said that there had not been a good look at this problem by Congress but that the debate on the pending bill had made it obvious that ways must be found to deal with the situation.

The committee would be directed to make an interim report Aug. 1 this year and a final series of recommendations by Jan. 31, 1971.

President Nixon met for about a half hour during the morning at the White House with Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., and later with Sen.Richard B. Russell, D-Ga.

Verdict Stirs Clashes Between Youths, Law

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

An unruly crowd of 1,800 persons clashed with city police in Ann Arbor, Mich., following a University of Michigan rally called by Students for a Democratic Society to protest the Chicago riot trial verdicts.

Five persons were arrested Wednesday night, 13 suffered minor injuries and windows were smashed at four stores, two banks and a police car.

In Lawrence, Kan., 50 demonstrators stormed the courthouse, shattered a window and painted on walls. Three were arrested.

In Iowa City, Iowa 35 teen-agers invaded a courtroom and chanted antiestablishment slogans but fled before Judge Ansel Chapman could don his robes and make good on a vow to fine them for contempt of court.

In New York City a crowd of 2,200 filled a Hunter College assembly hall to hear speakers denounce the Chicago verdicts and the New York trial of 13 Black Panthers. Plans to march to Times Square were canceled after scores of police assembled outside the hall.

The Ann Arbor street battle followed another incident in which nine University of Michigan students and four other persons were arrested trying to block General Electric Co. recruiters. SDS then called a night rally to protest both GE recruiting and the Chicago verdict. After the rally police charged into marchers, who were headed for City Hall, after someone lobbed a bottle over their heads and through a patrol car window.

Rallies to protest the verdict were planned for today in Boston, Salt Lake City and Eugene, Ore.

Francisco Boulevard Link Is Discussed

The topic of discussion at last night's meeting of the San Anselmo Homes Association was a possible road link from Francisco Boulevard in San Anselmo to San Rafael, Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. announced.

A news story in Tuesday's issue of the Independent-Journal said the discussion would be on a road connection between Sleepy Hollow and Terra Linda. "It wasn't Sleepy Hollow but Francisco Boulevard extension to connect somewhere in San Rafael," said Arrigone.

Chicago 7 Case Far From Ended

CHICAGO (AP) — The government has won a split verdict in its prosecution of seven men accused of inciting violence at the time of the 1968 Democratic National Convention, but defense lawyers plan to contest the validity of the federal anti-riot law in higher courts.

A U.S. District Court jury convicted five men Wednesday of crossing state lines with the intent to incite rioting during the convention in August 1968.

But the jury of 10 women and 2 men acquitted all seven defendants of conspiracy to promote the bloody confrontations between police and antiwar demonstrators.

Two defendants, Lee Weiner and John R. Froines, were cleared of conspiracy and of a charge of teaching the use of incendiary devices. Froines and Weiner both resided in Chicago during the summer of 1968 and were not charged in the indictment with crossing state lines to incite rioting.

Convicted were David T. Dellinger, 54; Jerry C. Rubin, 31; Thomas E. Hayden, 30; Abbott "Abbie" Hoffman, 31, and Rennard C. "Rennie" Davis, 29.

Each man could be sentenced to a maximum of five years in prison and fined $10,000.

Judge Julius J. Hoffman did not set a date for sentencing.

All seven defendants are being held in the Cook County jail on contempt sentences imposed by Judge Hoffman last weekend. The sentences ranged from 2½ months to 2½ years. The judge has refused to grant bail on the contempt charges pending appeal .

The defense lawyers, William M. Kunstler and Leonad I. Weinglass, also were given prison terms for contemptuous conduct during the five-month trial —Kunstler 4 years 13 days, Weinglass 20 months 5 days. The judge stayed execution of their sentences to May 4.

Weinglass said late Wednesday that he hoped to file a motion by Friday seeking to have admitted to bail the five men convicted of inciting to riot.

He said appeals on the convictions themselves will be filed "as soon as possible."

Although the jury acquitted all seven men on the conspiracy charge, Weinglass said the conviction on the second count would provide an equal test of the federal statute's constitutionality.

Weinglass declared the statute "is unconstitutional to begin with" and that "there were so many errors in the course of the trial" that there would be many avenues of appeal.

"For one thing," Weinglass said, "the way the jury was picked." The defense contended that since the jury was selected from voter registration lists it omitted many young persons and black persons who did not choose to vote in the 1968 election.

Weinglass said the verdict "is obviously a compromise. The jury was deadlocked and they broke the deadlock by negotiating."

Kunstler said, "I would rather have them hanged than compromised."

Neither the lawyers nor their clients were prepared to hear a verdict when they entered Judge Hoffman's courtroom Wednesday. They came to argue a defense motion that the jury be declared deadlocked and a mistrial be ordered.

Judge Hoffman's bailiff reported, "The jury has reached a verdict."

The defendants were busy reading newspapers. Weinglass repeated the statement, "A verdict."

Rubin turned toward his wife Nancy, who was sitting with newsmen in the third spectator row. He said, "A verdict." He turned his thumbs downward.

The judge then granted a government motion to remove all families of the defendants because of their past behavior. The wives of Hoffman and Rubin, Dellinger's 13-year-old daughter, Weiner's girlfriend and Froines, mother-in-law were ejected.

Anita Hoffman, Abbie's wife, shouted at the judge, "The ten (the original eight defendants and their two lawyers) will be avenged. We'll dance on your grave, Julie."

Rubin's wife shouted from the hallway, "My husband is being sentenced and they won't let me watch."

Michelle Dellinger sobbed to her father, "I love you, daddy."

After the spectators were removed, the court clerk began reading the verdicts handed to him by Edward T. Kratzke, the jury foreman.

After reading the five guilty verdicts, the clerk announced Weiner was innocent of both charges. The defendants applauded. When the clerk read the innocent verdict for Froines, the defendant sobbed openly and was comforted by Kunstler who embraced him and began crying himself.

After the verdicts, the defense requested the jurors be polled.

The strain of 40 hours of deliberation in the 4½ days since the jury retired appeared to show on at least two jurors.

Jean Fritz was visibly shaken during the reading of the verdicts and was hardly able to speak when it was her turn to affirm the verdict.

The defendants had been convinced that Mrs. Fritz, a fortyish blonde with children in college, was sympathetic to their cause.

Kay S. Richards, 23, the youngest juror, also spoke in a wavering voice when she affirmed the verdict.

The jurors refused to discuss their deliberations or details of the trial with newsmen.

Judge Hoffman set Friday for "dealing appropriately with the matter" of trascripts containing conversations of the defendants which the government admitted were obtained by wiretapping.

The judge said prior to the trial that in the event of a conviction he would rule after the verdict on whether the government used the wiretapped information in its presentation of evidence.

Policeman Dies Of Bomb Attack Wounds

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Police Sgt. Brian McDonnell, father of three and a 20-year veteran of the department, died Wednesday of wounds suffered in a bomb attack on a Haight-Ashbury police station.

Flags were lowered to half staff throughout the city—and voices were raised throughout the state in protest against the senseless bombing, which injured even other policemen Monday night.

The bomb, packed with inch-long industrial staples, exploded on the window sill of McDonnell's office at Park Station in Golden Gate Park. His jugular vein was severed and one of the staples lodged in his brain.

The attack occurred a few hours after hundreds of demonstrators protesting the Chicago conspiracy trial rioted in downtown Berkeley, causing an estimated $163,000 damage to 100 business establishments.

A similar bombing last Friday injured two policemen and destroyed two cars at the Berkeley Police Station.

Shortly after McDonnell's death, Gov. Ronald Reagan asked Attorney General John Mitchell to investigate "cowardly acts of terrorism and destruction" in the San Francisco Bay Area.

In a letter from his Sacramento office, Reagan told Mitchell that Berkeley, home of the University of California, has suffered "from a long series of violent confrontations planned by mindless revolutionaries who are dedicated to the overthrow of our democratic system of government and free way of life."

The governor said he wanted to know if anyone involved in the "recent terrorism crossed state lines to incite riots, or for other unlawful purposes."

Mayor Alioto, who earlier offered a $5,000 reward for information leading to capture and conviction of the bomber, promised to pursue McDonnell's "murderers relentlessly and ...vigorously prosecute all those involved in terrorism and violence."

Hearing Tuesday

Michael Edward Fenn, 31, of 327 San Francisco Boulevard, San Anselmo, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of possessing a check with intent to defraud. A preliminary hearing was set for next Tuesday.

Egyptian Warplanes Again Hit Israelis Along Canal

TEL AVIV (AP) — Egyptian planes attacked Israeli positions along the Suez Canal today for the third day in succession, but an Israeli spokesman said there were no casualties.

An Egyptian broadcast claimed all the planes returned safely after hitting targets "with precision" and accomplishing "the missions with success."

A Soviet correspondent reported from Cairo today that an Egyptian air force pilot who recently shot down the first Israeli Phantom jet has been made a hero and is known popularly as "Phantom One."

Although the correspondent did not say so, the Egyptian apparently was flying a Soviet-built MIG21, one of the approximately 200 such fighters delivered to Egypt about a year ago.

Israel received its first Phantoms last December. They are considered vastly superior to the MIG21s.

U.N. Secretary-General U Thant met in Geneva with Gunnar Jarring, his special representative for the Middle East, but said today they agreed that for the moment "there is no sufficient basis" for Jarring to renew his attempts to lay the groundwork for Arab-Israeli peace.

Pierhead Line Still Big Issue

The location of a pierhead line, which has a bearing on development, is still an issue in the long-discussed central waterfront plan for Sausalito.

Sausalito planning commissioners focused on the pierhead line last night as they started reviewing 30 amendments to the plan proposed by the city council.

As planned, the pierhead line would be straight along Railroad Avenue, an underwater street. Commissioner Violette Autumn contended it would be better if the line, which would mark the outer edge of any development, were curved in the shape of a cove.

Her motion to recommend a curved line was passed by a 2-1 vote with Chairman Robert L. Nissen dissenting and Virginia Pasquinucci abstaining. Commissioner Thomas H. Gildersleeve, reportedly ill, was absent.

There was some doubt that two votes were sufficient for passage, but a check of the by-laws revealed that it was, since only a majority of those voting was necessary.

E. Elmore Hutchison, president of Sausalito Properties, contended property owners wouldn't be able to do anything under the curved pierline proposal.

At the start of the meeting Planning Director H. Eric Borgwardt explained that the council proposed maintaining the interior bulkhead line along the present shoreline.

The new proposals change the concept of the original plan, regarding inboard and outboard use, he explained.

Under the original plan by William E. Spangle and Associates, there could have been fill jetties, piers and piles over water. The proposed change doesn't eliminate piers, but limits the amount of construction on piles over water.

Now the outboard area would be for yacht harbor, limited fueling facilities and boatels, boat rentals or charters.

Commissioners can recommend a line of demarcation between the bulkhead line and pierhead line, a line dividing high intensity use inboard and low intensity use in the water area, he said.

Commissioners agreed with the concept of limiting off-street parking in the area to serve only adjacent businesses where parking is essential to the business.

They also agreed that traffic circulation should be planned to minimize disruption to the residential area, and there should be separation of pedestrian and vehicular traffic.

They also approved a proposal by the council that the site for a city hall, library and city park be designated the Litho Street-Bridgeway area, thus indicating such facilities could be east or west of Bridgeway.

There was some dispute about whether the council intended to indicate two blocks, from Litho to Napa streets, east of Bridgeway for a city park area.

Nissen pointed out the original area designated for park was from Locust Street to Bee Street. Commissioners agreed to defer action until the proposed park boundaries were clarified.

Commissioners also agreed with a proposed change to deemphasize parking in the sandspit area, and said boat harbor use should be expanded north of the sandspit.

They also agreed that business in the Caledonia Street area should be developed primarily to serve Sausalito residents.

Commissioners also approved a series of changes in wording, that didn't change substance, and less than halfway through the list at midnight agreed to meet again at 8 p.m. Wednesday at city hall to continue reviewing the proposed amendments to the plan

The planning commission also continued until March 4 at 8 p.m. at city hall a hearing on an application by John W. and Maxine Mackey for a lot split at 65 Monte Mar Drive, which was opposed by a petition, with 17 signatures, citing traffic problems because of narrow streets in the area.

It also took under study a protest from 22 persons in the vicinity of the 500-600 block of Sausalito Boulevard against gunniting of a slide area at 529 Sausalito Boulevard.

BILLIONAIRE'S HANOI PROJECT

Marin Pilot Relives Perot Mission

BY GEORGE NEVIN

It's been said that a man can't serve two masters, but Capt. George N. Phillips of San Rafael didn't find it hard to work both for Braniff International Air Lines and Texas billionaire H. Ross Perot.

Perot is the would-be Santa whose efforts to fly 26 tons of Christmas gifts to American captives in Hanoi in December were unsuccessful, but not futile.

Phillips, of 1787 Gallinas Avenue, was the pilot who flew Perot from Hong Kong to Vientiane to Tokyo to Anchorage to Copenhagen in an attempt to deliver the goods.

"Working for Ross Perot was the easiest thing in the world," the blue-eyed, 48-year-old ex-Marine said yesterday. 'You'd never know he's worth a billion. It doesn't change his outlook one bit."

Although Perot's name was constantly in the news for almost two weeks, Phillips said that "the trip wasn't for publicity."

Instead the 39-year-old former International Business Machine salesman, said to have built a personal fortune of $1.5 billion in eight years with his Electronic Data Systems in Dallas, has made plain he did it for "purely humanitarian and non-political reasons."

Phillips, who ordinarily flies scheduled runs for Braniff, first got word that he would be involved in perhaps the year's most bizzare game of hide-and-seek when he was told to fly to Hong Kong to take over a charter flight.

There Phillips was told his part in the mercy mission: To fly the 707 jet transport with Perot, 30 members of the party and 26 tons of gifts and food to Vientiane.

Another Marin resident, Braniff stewardess Karin Freytag of Sausalito, now vacationing in Europe, played a vital role in the mission: She interpreted for Perot in French and German at various embassies.

BILLIONAIRE'S PILOT — Capt. George N. Phillips of San Rafael looks over the only relics of the 12-day, 35,000-mile flight — snapshots and newspaper clippings. "We were too busy to go out and buy souvenirs," he said. (Independent-Journal photo)

"We hit our first snag in Laos," Phillips said. There Perot and Miss Freytag sipped tea with North Vietnamese diplomats for an hour and a-half, only to be informed that Hanoi would not permit them to deliver the presents to the Americans.

"He didn't seem too disappointed," Phillips recalled. "He just wanted to know what to do next."

The cue came from the balky North Vietnamese, who said the only way to get the gifts into the country would be to fly them to Moscow in time to mail them by Dec. 31.

"I don't think they expected us to take them up on their suggestion," Phillips said. But Perot surprised them by directing Phillips to file a flight plan to Moscow via Burma, India and Rome.

The Burmese first gave airspace clearance, and then withdrew it mysteriously. India would not even acknowledge the request.

"I'm sure they thought they had us stopped right there," Phillips said. But they hadn't reckoned with the self-made billionaire.

"We were within 260 miles of Hanoi and we had to turn around and go the other way," said Phillips. This time it was to Anchorage, Alaska, via Tokyo.

"When we got to Anchorage we stopped long enough to unload the plane, rewrap the cargo in six-pound parcels, and reload." Phillips said this was necessary to mail the packages through the Soviet postal system.

Then they were in the air again, flying the polar route to Copenhagen. "The weirdest part of the trip was the 32 hours of constant darkness from Alaska to Denmark," Phillips said. "We were just too far north to see the sun."

In Denmark Perot and friends finally discovered what they had suspected all along—the Soviets had no intention of letting them fly the 800 miles to Moscow. The mission had proved impossible.

It was a disappointed but far from silent group that flew back to the United States Jan. 1. "We celebrated the New Year with a little champagne," Phillips admitted.

Back in Dallas, Perot said his efforts hadn't ended. "The cargo is still there waiting for the Communists to change their minds," Phillips said. "Perot has a complete staff working on getting the goods to Hanoi."

Does Phillips think there will be a next time, another chance to brighten the captivity of American prisoners caught in the impersonal grip of Vietnam?

"I hope so," he said, "and I hope I'll be the pilot the next time, too."

Kidney Ailment Fells Novelist

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — Novelist Erle Stanley Gardner, whose favorite character "Perry Mason" never lost a case in court, appears to be winning a serious bout with a kidney ailment.

The 80-year-old novelist was reported much improved Wednesday night in Riverside Community Hospital.

A spokesman at the author's 3,000-acre Ranch del Paisano near Temecula, 40 miles southeast of here, said Gardner had been hospitalized about three weeks.

Peace Symbol Adorns Checks

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The peace symbol leads the American eagle in popularity as a design for "personality extension checks," says a bank check manufactuer.

Richard Hewitt, vice president and general manager of the Los Angeles firm that prints the checks for banks to sell to their customers at $2.95 for 200, added Wednesday that both designs trail a psychedelic print as the most popular check his firms prints.

One bank spokesman said "Our 276 branches in the state are introducing the peace symbol check to compete better for the huge youth market."

Jail Riot Flares In Santa Clara

SAN JOSE (UPI)—About 100 angry inmates at Santa Clara County Jail set fire to their mattresses and smashed other furnishings and windows Wednesday night.

Sheriff's Capt. Melvin Riley said the violence broke out shortly after a television news program which showed scenes of the "Chicago Seven" trial.

Eventually, about 50 officers were called to restore peace. Several deputies suffered minor injuries and one prisoner was hospitalized with a head injury.

Fall Victim Fair

Claire B. Bottleson, 81, of 2126 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael, was reported in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital with a fractured left hip substained around midnight when she fell down her back stairs, according to police.

Drinking and eating places constitute the major portion, 24.3 per cent, of Alaska's retail establishments.

Study Slated On Juvenile Delinquency

Marin County juvenile delinquency prevention commissioners agreed yesterday to develop a profile of juvenile delinquency in Marin.

The study will cover the amount, type and rate of delinquency and its variations, the extent of communication and coordination among agencies involved in dealing with delinquency, educative or preventive programs involving specific delinquency problems, dispositions and followup procedures.

The study is the first step in the development of a coordinated plan for delinquency prevention throughout Marin, the commission declared in a statement of purpose.

Commissioners joining in teams of two will gather the information by interviewing law enforcement, school, probation department and juvenile court personnel.

To get moving on the study, commissioners agreed to meet again March 4 at 4 p.m. at Room 400-A at the Marin Civic Center, two weeks eariler than the regularly scheduled meeting date.

Rare Surgery Done To Curb Blood Pressure

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A tiny artery from the groin of a 7-year-old Australian boy was transplanted to the youth's right kidney by a team of UCLA urologists in a rare operation Wednesday.

The boy, Peter Sarandopoulos of Sydney, was flown here to be cured of a rare form of high blood pressure in children. The affliction was due to a narrowing of the arteries that served his two kidneys.

Doctors said the operation appeared to be a success but indicated it would take at least a week to be certain.

The piece of the artery taken in the transplant was only a quarter-inch long, doctors said.

Immediately following the surgery, doctors said, the boy's blood pressure dropped to normal after being extremely high for the last four years

Collier Profits In Schrade Coup

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — The Senate's old guard, back in the catbird seat with the election last week of Jack Schrade, R-San Diego, yesterday rewarded 11 supporters with committee chairmanships.

The key change was replacement of Sen. James Mills, D-San Diego, with Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, as chairman of the transportation committee.

Collier, "father of California freeways," chaired the committee for 20 years until dumped last year when a coalition of younger, urban senators displaced the old guard with Sen Howard Way, R-Exeter, who lasted 10 months.

Collier's return to the chairmanship spelled the death again of legislation to use gas taxes for transit, observers agreed.

Mills said that Collier's chairmanship meant that the "highway lobby known as 'Randy's ratpack' will ride high." It also meant that the controversial Southern Crossing from San Francisco to Alameda, opposed by conservationists and transit proponents, will be pushed through, Mills said.

Also rewarded for his support of Schrade was Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, who got the chairmanship of the Insurance and Financial Institutions Committee.

Mills, in what he termed "a calculated insult" by Schrade, was named chairman of the Senate Select Committee on Salinity Intrusion in Agricultural Soils.

Schrade also enlarged the committee system from Way's streamlined 15 to 17, a move ratified, 30-0. The new committees are the water committee, split off from the natural resources and wildlife committee, and the public utilities committee, split off from McCarthy's committee.

The chairman of the natural resources committee, Sen. Robert J. Lagomarsino, R-Ventura, said he had mixed feelings about the division of his committee, the upper house's "environmental" committee.

He said it would make his workload easier, but might lessen the importance of the committee.

Schrade named Way to chair the Government Organization Committee, but to do it bounced a Way supporter, Sen. Louis F. Sherman, R-Oakland.

Other Schrade backers named as committee chairmen were Sen. Fred Marler, R-Redding, agriculture; Sen. Alfred Song, D-Monterey, business and professions; Sen. James Whetmore, R-Garden Grove, elections and reapportionment; Sen. Alan Short, D-Stockton, industrial relations; Sen. Ralph Dills, D-Los Angeles, public utilities; and Sen. William E. Coombs, R-Rialto, water.

Way loyalists retaining posts were Sen Albert S. Rodda, D-Sacramento, education; Sen. Donald Grunsky, R-Santa Cruz, finance; Sen. Anthony C. Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills, health and welfare; and Sen. Gordon Cologne, R-Indio, judiciary.

Retaining their chairmanships were two Schrade supporters, Sen. John G. Schmitz, R-Tustin, local government, and Sen. Walter W. Stiern, D-Bakersfield, revenue and taxation.

Jones, Allen Unopposed For Seats

Ross mayor Frederick S. Allen and Vice Mayor Roy F. Jones have filed for reelection to the Ross Town Council.

The two incumbents will be unopposed in the April 14 primary election.

Allen, 58, is a graduate of Harvard University. He was appointed to the council in 1960, and elected to four-year terms en 1962 and 1966. He was elected mayor in 1964 and 1966.

He is a member of the American Society of Naval Engineers, the American Ordinance Association, the California State Firemen's Association, the Ross Volunteer Fire Department and the Marin Audubon Society.

He and his wife, Barbara, live at 131 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Ross. They have four children.

Jones was born in San Francisco and has spent most of his life in Marin County. He has been a partner in the realty firm of Farrington Jones and Son since 1946.

He was elected to four-year terms on the council in 1962 and 1966 and has also served as a member of the Town of Ross Citizens Advisory Committee and as a director of the Town of Ross Property Owners Association.

Jones, 44, is a member and was secretary for eight years of the Marin County Real Estate Board. He belongs to the American Rights of Way Association and is a life member of the Marin County Historical Society. He and his family live at 20 Olive Avenue.

Mayor Putnam To Accept Prize

Petaluma Mayor Helen Putnam will leave for Washington, D.C., Sunday to accept the city's distinguished achievement award for its beautification campaign.

The award will be presented Tuesday as part of the National Congress on Beautification sponsored by the National Clean-up, Paint-up, Fix-up Bureau.

Mrs. Putnam will also attend sessions of the congress and trade plans for beautification with representatives of other cities.

Petaluma won the national award for its spring and fall clean up campaigns directed by Agnes McGilvra of radio station KTOB. A scrapbook detailing community activities was prepared by James Morris, an art teacher at Petaluma Junior High School.

Ivy Baker Priest Set To Run For Reelection

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—State Treasurer Ivy Baker Priest, first woman elected to a California statewide office, today announced her candidacy for reelection to a second four-year term.

Mrs. Priest, a Republican, promised to fight for a "return to investment market stability" and added this depends in part on "confidence that investors have in national and state efforts to combat inflation."

"Investment managers who purchase public securities must be convinced that California's fiscal affairs are being guided by experienced leadership, a leadership dedicated to low-cost government and fiscal integrity," she said in a statement.

Mrs. Priest, treasurer of the United States under President Eisenhower, defeated Democratic incumbent Bert Betts for the state post in 1966.

She is expected to be unopposed in the Republican primary.

No Democrat has formally declared his candidacy for treasurer.

Mrs. Priest said that since 1967, investments by the treasurer's office earned more than $250 million.

She said that by the end of her term "our investment program will have realized a return of more than $350 million in interest for the four-year period. This is the highest figure in history for any state in the nation." includes previous

Parolee Booked In Drug Probe

A 44-year-old San Rafael paroled convict was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on suspicion of possessing marijuana and parole violation.

Keith George Van Bree of 637 Mission Avenue, paroled from the California Men's Colony at San Luis Obispo where he was serving a sentence for armed robbery,was to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

A parole agent investigating a fraud complaint against Van Bree discovered a plastic bag containing what was believed marijuana and cigarette papers, a butt and three pipes in his closet at 8:50 p.m., police reported.

Pair Hurt In Head-On Crash

A Sausalito motorist and his passenger were injured yesterday when their auto was involved in a head-on crash on Mount Tamalpais.

The injured, driver Gerald W. Beisler, 27, of Gate 6, and Ramond D. Moffat, 12, of 34 Catalpa Avenue, Mill Valley, said they would seek treatment by their own physicians. Beisler complained of knee pains and Moffat suffered a cut nose.

The California Highway Patrol said the accident happened at 2:40 p.m. on Panoramic Highway near the Pan Toll ranger station when a car driven by Robin F. Buckley, 16, of 625 Robin Drive, Corte Madera, swerved over the center line into Beisler's auto. Miss Buckley said she swerved to avoid a squirrel in the road.

CONSTRUCTION SITE — This is the construction site at the Bonnerplatz in Munich where the city's new subway line passes on the way to the 1972 Olympic area. There will be an 11-minute run from downtown Munich to the games. (AP Wirephoto)

DUE FOR OLYMPICS

Munich's Subway To Open April, '72

MUNICH, Germany (AP) — An important event in the 1972 Olympics will be an 11-minute run: from downtown Munich to the Olympic site 4.2 miles away.

It will be via a new subway which this centuries-old Bavarian city is building to keep from being slowly strangled by street traffic.

A test strip is already being used and hundreds of workmen are toiling to complete the section leading to the Olympics. George Sarkoezy, a spokesman for the subway authority, says 9.6 miles will be open by April 1972.

As a corollary the government-operated railway system is building a 2½-mile tunnel through the center of Munich to connect its main and east stations. The railway and the subway will cross and provide connections at Marienplatz underneath Munich's 100-year-old City Hall and near such landmarks as the Munich Hofbrauhaus.

The Marienplatz station, which will contain the electrical brains of the subway system, is now a 100-foot excavation. Workmen swarm over a structural steel skeleton in which four levels of tracks and station platforms are taking shape.

The subway construction is disrupting traffic. This is a headache to Munich officials and motorists, but a necessary one.

Munich is near Alpine vacation areas and is a gateway to Italy. It is West Germany's fastest-growing city. The population jumped from a half million in 1950 to 1.1 million in 1963 and 1.3 million today.

Lord Mayor Hans Jochen Vogel says creation of an underground transportation system "is one of the conditions for saving the city center, as the heart of Munich, from drowning in the flood of motor traffic."

The first subway section, due to open late next year, will run from Goetheplatz in the city's southern section to Marienplatz, through the university district and to Kieferngarten in the north.

Just past the university area, the line will branch off to the Olympic site. The tunnels are completed and now the finishing work has to be done.

One three-mile section is already open for testing, driver training and demonstration rides. Hundreds of visitors each month take a brief ride in cars painted blue and white—the col-

Mill Valleyan Seeks Water District Post

Herman C. Zwat of Mill Valley has announced his candidacy for a seat on the Marin Municipal Water District board.

Zwat, the first to file papers for the water district election June 2, seeks to represent Division 4. William A. Marcus of Kentfield, whose term is expiring, is incumbent director from that division.

Seats for Division 1, held by Dr. Leo L. Stanley of Fairfax and a Division 3, Jordan L. Martinelli Jr. of Kentfield, are also open to election.

Zwat, 42, president of Zwat Associates, an engineering representative firm in Sausalito, said he advocates better utilization of the district's $40,000,000 assets.

He said he would work for responsible planning for future requirements and closer scrutiny of long term objectives and immediate needs of the district.

"As an engineer and businessman, I feel I can make a significant contribution to the plans and policies that the MMWD will be called upon to develop," Zwat said.

He is a member of the Audubon Society, Marin Conservation League, Marin County Taxpayers Association, and California Homeowners Association.

An eight year resident in the county he lives with his wife, Denise, son, Nicholas, 4, and daughter Kristin, 2, at 85 Helens Lane.

Subway For Munich To Open April, '72

ors of the Wittelsbach dynasty that controlled Bavaria for 750 years.

The electronically driven cars are 9½ feet wide, roomier than most systems have.

Munich's system is built so it can be operated automatically without conductors or engineers on each train, but it will start out with engineers.

"It's for psychological reasons," said Sarkoezy. "Bavarians tend to be a bit conservative and if we didn't have drivers a lot of people might not climb in."

It won't be a particularly fast system such as that planned for the San Francisco area. Top speed will be 48 miles an hour but the trains can accelerate to that in 40 seconds.

Construction costs are financed from tax revenue. The first north-south section will cost the equivalent of $187 million with the federal government paying half this from taxes on gasoline and oil. Of the remaining half Munich will pay two-thirds and the state of Bavaria one-third.

The Olympic line will cost $44 million with the federal government, the state and the city each paying a third.

While the immediate goal is the Olympics, the subway system will be expanded after 1972 and is expected to reach a total length of 60 miles by 1990.

New Librarian For Petaluma Is Announced

Alice M. Hanna, Kings County librarian, has been named Petaluma city librarian effective April 1, according to Kenneth M. Wightman, president of the library board.

Miss Hanna will replace Edna R. Bovett who retired July 1. Doris Cole, who has been acting librarian, will continue in that capacity until Miss Hanna arrives.

A native of Missouri, she is a graduate of Northwestern Missouri State College with a bachelor's degree in education with an English major. She taught school for two years and attended the University of Illinois Library School for a second degree.

She moved to California in 1946 as head of the school department for the Kern County Library and later was librarian for Siskiyou County Library, Klamath County Library, Klamath Falls, Ore., and in 1955 became head librarian for Kings County.

Her salary range will be $736 to $894 per month.

Roast beef is the most popular meat dish in Britain, but a poll indicates steak is gaining favor.

Sausalito Parents Dismiss Criticism

The Marin County Grand Jury's criticism of the Sausalito School District were dismissed yesterday as "an incredible mixture of innuendo, opinion, outmoded value judgments and facts taken out of context" by a group of parents whose children attend schools in the district.

Meanwhile, Citizens for Excellence in Education, a group that has been highly critical of the Sausalito district board and administration in the past, scheduled a meeting at 8 p.m. tonight in Campbell Hall of Christ Episcopal Church, Santa Rosa Avenue and San Carlos Avenue, Sausalito.

In a statement prepared for an impromptu press conference, the parents group charged that while the jury had found no evidence of misconduct or crime in district operations, their report "had polluted the air with unsubstantiated allegations, misstatement of fact and dredging up of old anxieties."

Answering the jury's criticisms of black militant activities in district schools, Mrs Joel Kudler, who has one child in a district school, said she felt the district had dealt with the matter in a realistic way.

"Black militants are part of the scene, what's happening all around us," she said, "Can we pretend this is not happening—our children don't live or go to school in a vacuum."

"I think the Sausalito schools are attempting to reach black children in a way that no other district has tried," she said, "and I feel I and my children can deal with black militantism."

Stuart Miller, father of two children who attend schools in the district, rapped the jury's statement that Martin Luther King was the only school in Marin to fall below national and state averages in standard reading tests.

"The national average for black students is much lower than for whites, and we believe this is a condition of racism," he said, and was applauded by several members of the small audience of parents who attended the conference.

Miller said it was "ridiculous and illogical" to apply the standards applied for all white districts to integrated schools, and indicated he thought the Sausalito district was making significant educational progress and would make greater strides in the future.

He also criticized the jury's contention that enrollment in the district has dropped sharply because parents are dissatisfied with academic programs. He said most schools in the country are experiencing a drop in enrollment due to a declining birth rate and the fact that the children of the post-war baby boom are for the most part out of school.

In addition, Miller declared that Sausalito is becoming an adult community — "80 per cent of the housing built in the last ten years has been apartments"—which increases the adult population of the city but does not add substantially to the number of children. Miller went on to say that Sausalito is also becoming a community of wealthy persons who "will send their children to private schools no matter what the public schools are like."

Session On Foreign Travel Is Wednesday

Work or Study Abroad, a national firm with a Menlo Park regional office, will conduct a meeting at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday for students and parents interested in studying and traveling in foreign countries this summer.

Among the 22 trips the firm will be running, three—to Innsbruck, Austria; Oxford, England, and Nairobi, Kenya—will me staffed by Marin high school teachers.

Four Panthers Acquitted On Nuisance Count

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Municipal Court Judge Harry Low found four Black Panthers innocent Wednesday on charges they committed a nuisance by selling Panther literature on Market Street.

Those acquitted, all of San Francisco, were Dennis Rogers, 20; James Burford, 20; Rubin Scott, 17, and William Hill, 18. They waived the right of jury trial.

The judge said he based his ruling on the police report.

He said there was a basis for police to make the arrest last May for investigation, but there was insufficient evidence to bear out charges of "willfully and maliciously obstructing the free movement of people on the sidewalk."

Stop Smoking Clinic Scheduled

A smoking withdrawal clinic will be offered by the Redwood Adult School in Larkspur beginning at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Classes will also meet March 2, 3, 4, 5 and 9.

The clinic is cosponsored by the Marin Inter-Agency Council on Smoking, which is composed of the county tuberculosis and heart associations, department of mental health and the American Cancer Society.

Three previous clinics have resulted in 60 percent of the participants reducing their smoking 50 percent or more after 2 months, the school reported.

Year's Major Project: Special Viet Packages

The sending of 700 ditty bags containing gifts to servicemen in Vietnam at Christmas time was among the special programs undertaken last year by the Marin County Chapter, American National Red Cross.

In its recently released annual report for 1968-69, the chapter reported that the ditty bags were sewn by San Quentin inmates who volunteered their labor.

A shop class at Davidson Junior High School in San Rafael constructed two wooden chests for Vietnam, which were stocked with health, educational and recreational supplies by the Red Cross High School Youth Council, for use in refugee camp schools.

Listed as other highlights of the year were the creation of a new post, community programs chairman, formation of a canteen service for disasters, start of an institute to train men to become First Aid instructors, a hospital arts and crafts program at Hamilton Air Force Base and an information night program at the base to acquaint military families with Red Cross services available.

There was a $1,037 deficit in chapter operations during the fiscal year July 1, 1968-June 30, 1969, reported Charles Convis, treasurer. The chapter had $135,743 in operating income, but $51,014 was disbursed to the American National Red Cross, leaving $84,729 for chapter operation. The chapter expenditures for the fiscal year were $85,766.

The chapter noted that next month has been designated Red Cross Month by Presidential proclamation, and asked for both financial and volunteer support.

Machines Taken

A thief stole two electric adding machines valued at $200 each and a $513 movie projector from the adult education classroom at Terra Linda High School between last Wednesday and Monday, San Rafael police reported yesterday.

1,400 Will Join In National Show

More than 1,400 4-H Club members and Future Farmers of America including Marin and Sonoma County youth scheduled to enter the Grand National Junior Livestock Exposition March 21 through 25 at the Cow Palace in South San Francisco.

Deadline for arrival of steers, hogs, sheep and dairy cattle at the Cow Palace is 3 p.m. March 21, reported Graham Kislingbury, public relations director.

There will be a hog auction, March 24, lamb and cattle auctions, March 25.

Petaluma Plans Commission Asks Member Increase

A recommendation to increase its membership from five to eight members was made Tuesday night by the Petaluma Planning Commission.

The members said that if the commission were larger, a three-man board could serve as a zoning board of adjustments and hear requests for rezoning and variances.

The commission said the other five members could then be free to consider only planning matters. Members would rotate service on the two groups.

The recommendation will be considered by the city council March 2.

The Petaluma Planning Commission also:

REZONING—Approved the request of Jack Garrison to rezone 1796 East Washington Street from single family residential to professional-medical and community commercial. A restaurant, stores and medical offices are planned.

NAME CHANGE—Recommended that the city council change the name of McDowell Road to North McDowell Boulevard to conform as the extension of South McDowell Boulevard.

USE PERMIT—Deferred until March 3 the application of Vonsen Milling Co. to enlarge its building at 205 Second Street.

Candy, Coins Taken

Burglars took candy and coins from a pinball machine at the Town and Country Billiards, 29 Kentucky Street, Petaluma, sometime Tuesday morning, police reported yesterday. They said a window on a rear door had been broken to gain entry.

Richard Tam's Triple-Theme Show

By EDITH M. LEDERER

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Designer Richard Tam ushers in spring with a peek back to lush Medieval days of Camelot, a splash of current Oriental splendor and a whimsical dash into the space age of the '70s.

In his triple-theme show, which he took to Chicago yesterday, long-haired hippies in crocheted minidress vied with Kabuki-wigged mannequins in Oriental motifs and regal-looking models in cleavage-revealing ball gowns.

The 28 - year - old Chinese American designer, a native San Franciscan, says women now have total fashion freedom and will not become absolutely dependent on either the mini, midi or maxi look.

"I think the midi will become an acceptable length," he added, "but women aren't going to have all-midi wardrobes like they did after the war in 1947 because now you can wear anything you please."

In his spring collection, hemlines are mostly above the knee. As Tam explained, "I didn't think that the customers were ready for all that fabric around their ankles for spring and summer, but some hemlines certainly will be longer for fall."

"This business," Tam said, "reflects so much the momentary values of our society. Like now, society is unsure of itself and afraid so it's reflecting back and picking up the '30s length, the '20s look, the Renaissance.

"We're going into the space age, but we're not ready for it so we revert back to the past, to costumery, to some period we feel secure in.

"Eventually," Tam said, "people will catch up with the age we are living in, but we're not there yet."

'Revolution' Of The '60s Leads To New Set Of Morals

NEW YORK (UPI) — The 1960s brought right out into public erotica that would have the Victorians reeling in their graves. Openly sexual themes and acts moved onto stage and screen. New sexual permissiveness became the talk and act of youth.

All this "revolution" was in the decade just ended. What of the decades ahead? Answer: A swing into a whole new pattern of mores, a whole new set of morals in the next three decades.

SEX, JUST for procreation's sake, will be rare. It will become instead a "communicative act with another person."

A learned discussion of sex by the year 2000 shows in the current edition of the Journal of Home Economics, official publication of the American Home Economics Association, and a woman does the discussing, Dr. Marjorie East, head of the home economics education department of the College of Education at Pennsylvania State University.

Her predictions for changes in the outlook on "that ever popular topic"—sex—is part of a comprehensive article called "Family Life by the Year 2000."

Dr. East predicts that sex will get less interesting, less exciting "as a subject anyway."

SHE SAYS: "When all girls are inoculated against ovulation at, say age 10, and need to take out a baby license before they can get the pill or shot that temporarily allows fertility, then sex becomes something very different from the dangerous social explosive that we have to worry about and make moral rules about.

"Quite likely, it will become not only possible, and fashionable, but a legal necessity to control the number, the sex, the genetic inheritance of children, and also the kind of parental relationships they inherit."

". . . It seems to me," she continues, "that sex with intention to commit parenthood will be rare, but sex as an intimate communicative act with another person will not be rare, or confined to the family as we think of it today. If we define a family as a father, mother and child or children, a license representing the permission of society may be necessary before beginning a family."

But she says, "A marriage, or one of the less committing relationships between two people: engagement, being pinned, going steady, etc. may not require social approval of the same kind as the family license. Margaret Mead, the anthropologist, is suggesting such a differentiation between short-term companionship and long - term parental commitments."

DR. EAST states emphatically that, "I do believe the family is here to stay."

The educator continues, "I do not mean to slide over the importance of marriage or whatever we will choose to call that intimate commitment of two people to each other.

"It seems to me that in the interdependent, tightly populated, urban organization we will have for a society, the sense of private individuality and personal feelings of worth will be found in this close marriage of two people.

"Indeed, without this level of intensity and honest communication with another fellow human, we are less than human, less an individual temple of God or soul or person. . .

"This communication is not always with one other person for a lifetime, not always with another person of your own age group . . . in the world to come there will be private pockets of communication and oneness between people."

Dr. East concludes that the changes in the family structure will make new demands on educators who must bury hypocrisy and "be sensitive to the wide diversity of positions that are taken by people."

Over-The-Counter Drug Facts

By BARBARA HOSMER

Some facts and fantasies about non-prescription cough syrups, vitamins, cold pills and tiredness tonics were discussed by a Berkeley pharmacist in the consumer education series held in San Anselmo Tuesday.

"The rate that non-prescription drugs sell surprises me and often may not be connected with what is needed," said Adolph Kamil, pharmacist for the Co-op's Berkeley store.

"A substantial portion of drugs that people have in their bathrooms are of no value in their use," he said. "Vitamin C, for example, is harmless, but if you are thinking of economy you should know the facts," he told the women attending the program.

He cited the common belief that vitamin C will prevent or cure a cold.

"There is no evidence that it has any relation to colds at all. We try to give this information to the customer but it's hard because they may want to believe it helps," he said.

He said that the consumer generally gets information from television, word of mouth, books and periodicals, some which have a faddist approach and give wrong information about drugs.

The people, for instance, who say that vitamin C helped them cure a cold are honest but they don't understand that drugs react differently in different people and also differently at different times in the same person, as his physiology varies, Kamil said.

"WITH A COLD you get well anyway without taking anything," he pointed out, adding that sometimes a person may feel better simply because he has taken something and received a psychological lift.

There is wide variation on non-prescription drugs' effectiveness, said Kamil. Aspirin is a very effective and generally safe drug, he said, but he cautioned that any drug taken has some side effects, although they may be relatively harmless.

Kamil added that some decongestants can be effective, and that vitamins such as C are, of course, effective for deficiency cases, but that generally enough vitamins are taken into the body from a balanced diet. Much money is wasted on vitamin supplements, he said, and advocated vitamins be dispensed only by prescription.

He stated that the idea that an iron tonic can be remedy for tiredness is a myth, and that gelatin can strengthen fingernails is unproven in testing. But he pointed out that the psychological factors are hard to isolate in testing a drug's effectiveness. Anti-smoking capsules, for example, were difficult to test because it was hard to tell whether beneficial effects came from the drug's action or that the mere idea of taking something helped, Kamil said.

FEDERAL LAW now demands that every new drug marketed must be shown effective as well as safe. But the provision that old drugs continue to be tested in coming years has not been of much use, Kamil said, because it is difficult for the Food and Drug Administration procedurally to put it into effect. Hearings must be held on a drug's effectiveness, the FDA decides, and then the drug companies can delay withdrawal of their ineffective products through legal appeal.

"Though a prepondurance of scientific opinion may have found them ineffective, many old drugs are still on the market," the pharmacist said.

Labeling laws require that only the active ingredients of a drug be listed, not binders or fillers, and that the label does not have to say how much of an active ingredient a drug contains. But the dosage on the label must be correct—saying how often to use, how much and what the hazards may be, Kamil said.

"READ THE labels carefully before using the drug, follow the dosage and generally you will be safe," he told the audience.

Before a drug is marketed it must be proved safe, and many drugs are rejected by the FDA, he said.

He stated that sometimes a drug's safety is hard to test. Calling himself a conservative on drug use generally, the pharmacist recalled the Thalidomide disaster of a few years ago when deformed children resulted from its use during pregnancy.

"All the tests they could think of came out all right. Then some years later it was shown that severe birth defects correlated with use of Thalidomide. No one could have predicted it, nobody is to blame. It's just that drugs can have unpredictable results.

"With marijuana no serious harmful effects are showing, but risks may be evident later."

THE MOST important point, Kamil emphasized, is that there

She exists, you know. The woman who cares about fashion, but doesn't want to live in pants or discard her underwear. Perhaps you share her feelings and are wondering where to turn. If so, why not turn to us. We don't think over-29 is over-the-hill—and we have clothes to prove it. Real suits. Smashing little dresses and costumes. HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Many Happily Married People Wrote To Tell What It Takes

DEAR READERS:

When I told you last week that cats and Santa Claus stirred up the most comment in recent months, I hadn't yet received the deluge of answers to "Swinging Single" (who wondered if all young marrieds were as out-of-love as most appeared to be.)

I'll print all I can squeeze into a couple of columns and ship the rest on to SS with best wishes for an early change of heart.

Forthwith:

DEAR HELEN:

You asked to hear from happily-marrieds. I'm sure you'll get more than enough letters without mine. But I'm so deliriously, ecstatically happy I'd like to shout it, and HHU is a great microphone. Now hear this world:

We both waited for, and now work at, being happy. My husband's first marriage was not. He's the first to admit, however, that both made mistakes. RULE NO. 1: It takes two to make or break a marriage.

Second, I had gotten all my "single swinging" done before marriage. Women need this as much as men do: Bright lights, loud music, late hours, intimate dinners for two, the whole bit. Have a ball and keep an open mind. Don't look so hard for a mate. Don't worry so much about the future. Enjoy life and take your time. RULE NO. 2: If you run hysterically toward, (or from) a specific place or thing you'll miss much along the way, and be out of breath when you get there. Result: An eventual feeling of loss or resentment.

Also, my husband and I have a sense of humor about ourselves. It helps to be able to chuckle over some minor catastrophe. It also helps to know when not to laugh. The strong arms that hold you and the kisses that dry weepy eyes; and the soft gentle hand that caresses his hair, mean so much and cost so very little. RULE NO. 3: Humor and tenderness are the tranquilizers of marriage.

These things, however, need a springboard to put them into action. You've got to have human understanding and strength of character, sometimes enough for two when your partner falters, or takes out his (her) frustrations on you. You need empathy. RULE NO. 4: Use your head for more than a hatrack.

So there it is Helen. Don't know how newsworthy happiness is these days, but this is one gal's formula.—KAY

DEAR KAY:

Happiness is the best news in the world. Thanks for sharing. —H.

DEAR HELEN:

No, "Swinging Single", marriage is not a drag. Maybe your friends put on an act so they'll look more sophisticated and "married." We acted that way too, at first, to avoid kidding. Then we realized this was becoming a habit — we weren't showing affection even in private; we were putting each other down and making smart cracks when we should have said "I love you."

I'm glad we woke up in time. Now we aren't afraid to hold hands when we walk down the street, and show the world we really care, though not to the point of being soupy. To express it, without embarrassment, makes us feel it all the more. We're a lot more considerate of each other now, and getting — MORE HAPPILY MARRIED EVERY MOMENT

DEAR HELEN:

I have been married nine months to the most wonderful man. He is 21, I'm 19, and if "Swinging Single" could see us and many of our young married friends, she'd change her tune. We've found the right partner and we're proud to say so, though we don't make nuisances of ourselves about it.

Romantic couples don't just change — they mellow. Love is different before and after marriage. Romance is less passionate and more meaningful, and love grows deeper.

In November my husband left for a ten-month tour of duty in Vietnam. I knew when we married that we'd soon be separated, but I chose to wait as his wife, not as his fiancee. I'll always be thankful that I did. The relationship we share, even during separation, is beyond my greatest expectations. — MEANINGFULLY MARRIED said.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

Medicine Chest Syrups And Pills Often Useless, Says Pharmacist

is no drug that has no side effects somewhere.

"The human body is so complex that if you change one thing you are bound to change something else.

"With any drug you have to weigh the risks against what good it does. A prime example is contraceptive pills. You have to ask what's more harmful—risk of pregnancy or overpopulation versus the Pill's possible side effects.

"Side effects such as blood clotting can also be gotten through pregnancy," Kamil said. To aid the consumer, Kamil said that there is no assurance that the higher priced brand will be better. "There is not much correlation between price and quality of non-prescription drugs. With ordinary simple compressed products such as aspirin, buy the cheapest," he advised.

And it is not economical to buy the "large economy size" drugs, he said. "You don't need that much."

COMBINATIONS OF drugs can be very dangerous, Kamil cautioned. They can interact on the central nervous system causing depressing shock "and you're gone," he said. Combinations of sleeping pills, tranquilizers and alcohol cause central nervous system reactions and may cause death, such as in the case of many Hollywood stars, Kamil stated.

"I'm even more cautious of such drugs that affect the mind," the pharmacist said.

The program was the final in the consumer education series sponsored by the Marin YWCA, the Association of California Consumers and the Marin Co-op store.

Age Of Aquarius

If you doubt this is the Age of Aquarius, take a look at your favorite jewelry counter. Astrological earrings, pendents, bracelets and other dangles and tinkles are all over, either spotlighting Aquarius or available in your very own birth sign.

Cheese And Tuna

Blue cheese and tuna make a delicious meatless main dish salad. Combine 1 cup (about 5¼-ounces) of blue cheese, crumbled, and 1 can (about 7 ounces) of tuna, drained and flaked with 3 cups of cooked, cooled macaroni and 2 tablespoons of minced onion. Blend ¾ cup of mayonnaise with 2 tablespoons of milk or cream, 1 teaspoon of lemon juice, ½ teaspoon of salt and a dash of pepper. Mix into solid ingredients and chill well. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Light Important

The bathroom is used for much more than baths, showers, facewashing, and toothbrushing. It's a place for hand laundering, hair brushing, shampooing and styling, touch-ups and tinting, shaving, putting make-up on and taking it off, manicuring and pedicuring, and "doctoring" cuts and bruises. Lighting is important for all of these activities. So provide adequate lighting. The mirror is the focal point of grooming, and, therefore, the hub of lighting for the room. There should be light sources on both sides of a mirror or medicine cabinet and on the ceiling above it to obtain shadowless lighting on the head, face, and neck.

Anne Bancroft Is A Welcome Delight

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — "Anie, the Women in the Life of a Man," on CBS Wednesday night shaped up as the freshest, brightest hour of television entertainment since the original "Laugh-In" special.

Anne Bancroft emerged with fresh laurels as comedienne, chanteuse and tongue-in-cheek femme fatale in an hour that combined keen wit, perceptive humor and unfailing good taste.

The theme was woman and Miss Bancroft played a dozen or so different ones. She was a bride having panicky doubts in the midst of the wedding ceremony; and ex-career girl facing happily the fact that "marriage is better;" an Elizabethan lady cavorting with knights in armor; a 1920s flapper; a society lady on a psychiatrist's couch and many more.

The men in various lives obviously were chosen for their special contributions—Robert Merrill singing a passionate love song with a snapper ending; Lee J. Cobb playing a psychiatrist without a line to speak but his face expressing volumes; Dick Shawn as a nervous bridegroom, and Arthur Murray in the most dramatic role in his career.

Among the funny sketches was one serious moment. Dick Smothers, in a World War I doughboy's uniform singing an antiwar song to his mother—Miss Bancroft in a gray wig. It was effective drama.

The program arrives when television seems overgrown with variety shows featuring loud music, humor pegged on shock value and guest stars who seem to do the same thing show after show. This special may start a new and welcome trend and certainly is worth an encore.

NBC and CBS are expected to start lining up sponsors for their 1970-71 programs within days or even hours, and ABC is expected to follow along within a week or 10 days.

At this point it seems that survival is unlikely for CBS' "Get Smart," "Lancer" and — suprise — "The Red Skelton Show." Jackie Gleason, who has resumed negotiations with the network, may return in some specials instead of a weekly show.

It appears that NBC's "I Dream of Jeannie" "Debbie Reynolds Show," "Daniel Boone" and "Bronson" are soon to leave, and it is likely that "My World and Welcome to It" is likely to be a casualty at the end of the season.

ABC, whose midseason replacements have helped improve its ratings, still has a lot of decisions to make. It is expected that "The Flying Nun," "Here Come the Brides" and "Paris 7000" will be scuttled and possibly "The Englebert Humperdinck Show" and the new Pat Paulsen half hour.

Visiting Cellist Sparkling

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

SAN FRANCISCO — Jacqueline DuPre, 25-year-old English cellist, was the major success with the audience last night at the Opera House in the third of Seiji Ozawa's guest conducting weeks with the San Francisco Symphony. But there were other high points in the program, too.

Works performed were the charming Symphony in C Major written, incredibly, when Georges Bizet was only 17 years old; the Haydn Concerto in C Major for Violoncello and Orchestra, rediscovered in 1961; "Central Park in the Dark" by America's possibly first avant-garde composer Charles Ives and Ravel's Rapsodie Espagnole.

For me, Miss DuPre's performance was of great interest because I had never heard this world-renowned young artist before nor the newly discovered concerto. Had she not been playing an unmistabably Hayden work requiring classical elegance, restraint and lightness of style, I would have been surprised in view of her reputation for flamboyance as a cellist whose forte is the opulent romantic mode.

Only occasionally in her mannerisms did this show. Her tone was pure and richly colored but so fragile that it was fortunate the orchestra was reduced to chamber size for this number and that Ozawa kept the dynamic level very soft. The total impression was ethereal and dream-like. Some lightning fast fingerwork in the final allegro attested to her superlative technical skill.

It might have been more exciting to hear her play something suited to her temperament and interesting to know whether she could produce a robust tone.

"Central Park in the Dark" was brief but fascinating because of its unique polytonal and polyrhythmic fabric. Setting the mood of the night sounds and silent darkness of Central Park with a barely audible susurration of the strings, Ozawa achieved a two-orchestra effect by turning over string direction to concertmaster Jacob Krachmalnick while he stepped to the rear to direct a small group of woodwinds, brass and percussion, including two pianos, in a cross current of many kinds of noises and tunes coming from the surrounding city. The impact was electric.

Some of the most truly beautiful music was heard in the opening Bizet symphony in its song of the violins and oboe. Special commendation was due the horns (except on a brief solo passage for one instrument) and trumpets in the allegro vivo and the oboe for the hauntingly memorable refrain in the adagio. The final allegro vivace was exquisitely delicate.

Ravel's Spanish rhapsody was a brilliant finale ranging in a palette of irridescent impressionistic colors from misty evanescence to fiery corruscation.

Full Disclosure On Pollution Snagged

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO — A five-monthbattle to get full public disclosure of data on firms contributing to industrial air pollution was stymied yesterday in a 5-5 vote by Bay Area Air Pollution Control District directors.

Instead, directors voted to start releasing the data only on firms that violate district regulations.

The long battle has been waged by the Citizens Against Air Pollution,a San Jose-based citizens group critical of the district's performance. Full disclosure of the data on all firms, not just those caught for violating district regulations, would provide the only valid test of whether the regulations are effective, the citizens group has argued.

D. J. Callaghan, the district's chief administrative officer, declined to estimate how soon he could start releasing data on violators, but the point may be moot in the light of the citizens group's suit against the district.

The group filed legal action against the district last week to force it to disclose the data--now kept under wraps on the theory that this arrangement assures industry's voluntary cooperation with reporting requirements.

The first public response to yesterday's action came immediately after the vote–with the serving of notice that a second suit to force disclosure had been filed against the district.

The second suit, filed yesterday in Santa Clara County Superior Court by three University of Santa Clara law students, asked the court to issue a peremptory writ of mandate forcing the district to release all records "for each and every stationary industrial source."

It asked for a court hearing on March 4, but the district's counsel, Mathew Walker, said he would ask for a delay because that is the date of the board's next meeting.

Walker commented that "we are in some rather interesting situations as far as litigation is concerned."

Both suits were filed under the California Public Records Act of 1968, authored by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael. The act obliges challenged public agencies to justify their refusal to disclose records.

The directors did not comment as legal notices of the suit were handed to each of them by one of the students.

There was no repeat yesterday of the melee that disrupted the board's last meeting on Feb. 4, when dozens of militant youths forced adjournment of the board. None of the youths was present yesterday, but three policemen were stationed in an adjacent office with walkie-talkies to communicate with their station a block away.

A solid row of tables stretched across the open space in front of the press, as claimed by a disform, looking more like a barricade than additional seating for the press, as claimed by adistrict spokesman.

Marin's two representatives on the board split on the issue of full disclosure, with San Rafael City Councilman John A. Miskimen voting for full disclosure, and Supervisor William A. Gnoss voting against it.

There was lettle chance of the board reversing itself, since one of the missing directors, William C. Blake of San Francisco, has told newsmen he was opgood compromise."

Gnoss termed the partial disclosure, limited to violators, "a goodcompromise."

The compromise, passed 7-3 when Miskimen and another director favoring full disclosure switched to avoid a stalemate on partial disclosure, provided that the district publish monthly lists of all firms violating regulations during the previous month. Quarterly reports would link these firms to the tons of pollutants each contributed, broken down into particulates, oroxides and carbon monoxide.

San Mateo County Supervisor Robert B. St. Clair, who proposed partial disclosure, said full disclosure would not be fair to firms that met district regulations. Full disclosure also would cause the district unnecessary "expense and trouble," he said.

Mountain View Mayor William R. Jelavich, a strongadvocate of fulldisclosure, blistered its opponents for "withholding enformation from the public that is theirs. We're sitting here making judgments we've no business making."

Chairman Laurence D. Kelly, Piedmont city councilman disagreed with Jelavich, saying, "there are a lot of people who approve of what we're doing, and they probably outnumber those who don't."

A motion by Jelavech that the district conform to state law by requiring all sources of pollution to report emission data to the district was tabled for two weeks. The distruct should drop its policy of solicitingindustry's cooperateon supplying the data, he said.

Belmont City Councilman Morton L. Podolsky, who moved to table Jelavich's motion, said he needed time to study the law that created the district.

Jelavich suggested that copies of the law besent all directors "so they may become familiar with the law."

Correct Name

Through an error in Tuesday's Independent-Journal, a member of the 1970 Marin Grand Jury was incorrectly listed. His name is Joseph Wright, of Novato, a real estate broker.

More Funds For Probe Of Union

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate labor subcommittee has been given an extra quarter million dollars for staff investigators and other costs for its investigation of the United Mine Workers Union.

"This will give us the tools for a thorough investigation" of the UMW election and the union's welfare and pension fund, a subcommittee staff member said.

The Senate labor subcommittee, chaired by Sen. Harrison A. Williams Jr., D-N.J., held hearings two weeks ago into the UMW's disputed December election with testimony from the son of slain mineworkers' insurgent Joseph Yablonski.

Yablonski was one of those, both in and outside the union who have accused UMW officials of misusing and mismanaging the multimillion-dollar fund to their advantage.

A TREE GROWS AT REDWOOD HIGH

Mary Heassler (left), a tenth grader at Redwood High School, shovels dirt around a tree in the back parking lot of the school. Mary and her friend, Patti Mengel, were among a crew of students who paid for trees out of their own pockets for Plant-a-Tree Day yesterday. It's part of a project both to beautify the school and make it a source of pride and pleasure to the students, faculty and community, according to Chris Martin, student organizer of the project.

Bales Announces Reelection Hopes

Marin County Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales today announced his candidacy for reelection June 2.

Bales, 46, was first elected in 1966, after being appointed to the post by county supervisors in 1964.

"I pledge to the people of Marin County that I shall continue to prosecute vigorously but fairly, to protect the rights of all to safety of person and property, and to preserve in Marin a law enforcement climate free from organized crime or corruption," Bales said in announcing his candidacy.

Before being appointed, Bales served as chief assistant district attorney from 1960 to 1964, and as deputy district attorney from 1953 to 1960.

A graduate of the University of California and Boalt Hall Law School, he practiced law in San Rafael for four years before joining the district attorney's office.

During World War II, he served in the Navy in the Iwo Jima and Okinawa campaigns.

Critical crime problems today, he said, are "narcotics, dangerous drugs, street safety and home and property security." These problems "demand continued professional, experienced and dedicated leadership in law enforcement in Marin," he said.

"My 17-year career in the district attorney's office here has given me the training and experience required for coping with the ever-increasing problems faced by law enforcement in protecting the public," he said.

Bales lives at 16 Loma Linda Road, San Rafael, with his wife, Jo Ann, and their three children.

A past president of the Marin County Junior Chamber of Commerce, San Rafael Exchange Club and Marin County Centralized Police Services Council, Bales is vice president of the Marin County Peace Officers Association.

He also serves on the Police Science Advisory Committee of the College of Marin, the Joint Police Chiefs Association of Marin County, and Marin Council of Boy Scouts of America.

He is an active member of the Marin, California and American bar associations, California District Attorneys Association, National District Attorneys Association, Native Sons of the Golden West, Marvelous Marin Breakfast Club, San Anselmo Post of the American Legion, and Elks Club of San Rafael.

Finns On Wheels

HELSINKI (UPI)—There will be a car or truck for every fifth Finn in a few years, traffic officials predict. Ten years ago such vehicles numbered about 300,000. Now the total is approximately 750,000, the officials said. The million unit mark—Finland has a population of about 4.5 million—will be passed in the early 1970s.

Redwood's Long-Haired Runners Get Help From Tam High Staff

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO—The long-haired runners of Redwood got a lift in U. S. District Court yesterday when coaches and administrators from Tamalpais High School District testified that long hair does not hamper athletes.

The four athletes were bounced off the Redwood High School track team for violating an athletic department rule against long hair, and sued to be returned to the team. They claimed their constitutional rights were violated by the rule. "Discipline comes from within, and I don't think it's possible to achieve it by controlling the length of hair," said Bruce Grant, head track coach at rival Tamalpais High School, which has no short-hair rule.

Tamalpais runners use headbands if they need them, said Krieg S. Vezie, assistant track coach at Tamalpais.

Earlier, Supt. Robert D. Torrey and director of instruction James L. Pierce testified against the hair rule, which was voted in, 3-2, by the district board and then upheld, 4-1, when the Redwood athletes appealed against it.

Torrey testified he had advised against adopting the rule, and Pierce said he felt hair length had nothing to do with education.

The four suing students, Kevin and Brian Pusser, David Silverman and Bryan Tracy, all carry a B grade average, they testified yesterday.

Their attorney called doctors in support. Greenbrae opthalmologist William G. Filante said hair in front of the eyes might actually improve vision for a near-sighted person, rather than impeding it.

Filante said his son was thrown off the Redwood track team for long hair while a faster teammate with longer hair was not thrown off.

San Francisco physician Forbes Norris, a 1948 Olympic swimmer, said long hair presents no problem so long as it's kept clean.

"We all know what happened to Samson when Delilah cut his hair," Forbes said.

Donald Kreps, Redwood principal, was called as a defense witness and testified that grooming rules are part of the approach used by coaches to build team morale. Such measures are necessary to help the team, Kreps said.

The hearing before Judge George B. Harris was to conclude today.

Senators Cancel Out Each Other

WASHINGTON (AP) — California senators took opposite sides in both votes Wednesday on national desegregation policies.

In the first vote, Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., favored an amendment sponsored by Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., to ease a uniform national policy on school desegregation.

George Murphy, R-Calif., voted no.

The measure failed 48-46.

In the second vote, Murphy voted for an amendment by Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., requiring enforcement of school desegregration equally throughout the nation. Cranston voted against.

The measure carried 56-36.

Conviction In Petaluma Shooting

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA—Walter Lee Hale, 52, of Petaluma, was found guilty today in Sonoma County Superior Court of the Nov. 7 shooting of Petaluma police officer Vilho Ahola.

Judge Kenneth M. Eymann set sentencing for March 12 at 10 a.m. The charge of assault with a deadly weapon on a police officer carries a 1-to-15-year prison term.

Ahola was shot in the neck while assisting Hale's estranged wife, Helen, remove belongings from their home at 718 I Street. The officer remains paralyzed from the waist down.

Public Defender Marteen Miller, in the two-day trial, attempted to show that Hale was intoxicated and under great emotional strain at the time of the shooting.

He said that Hale may have had suicide in mind and that the shooting took place in a struggle for the gun and could have been accidental.

Woman Reports Assault Try

A man, about 25 or 28, assaulted a 24-year old San Rafael student in a secluded spot at the rear of a San Rafael home yesterday, police reported today.

According to police the man grabbed the woman around the neck at 8:42 p.m. while she was walking west on First Street and dragged her to the rear of a home at 17 First Street.

The man was frightened away by a witness who saw the girl struggling and stopped to investigate, police said.

Seven Hopefuls Crowd San Anselmo's Ballot

The April 14 San Anselmo city council election shaped up as a free-for-all as five more candidates filed nomination papers today and yesterday, making a field of seven competing for three council seats.

Filing this morning were incumbent Mayor Woodrow V. Capurro and long-time former councilman Arthur W. Smith.

Yesterday three candidates filed, Dr. Martin G. Blinder, Sarah Nome and Lewis W. Stewart, whose candidacy was announced earlier.

Blinder, 33, is a psychiatrist with offices in San Anselmo and San Francisco. He is a member of the San Anselmo human rights commission, the San Anselmo Homes Association, the San Anselmo Chamber of Commerce and the Sierra Club, and is a director of Travelers Aid.

He is medical director of the Family Therapy Institute in San Rafael, a consultant to the superior courts of Marin and San Francisco, and specializes in family and group therapy.

He and his wife Dorothy have one child and are expecting another. They have resided at 50 Idalia Court for 18 months, moving there from Sausalito. A native of New York, Blinder has lived in the Bay Area 10 years.

He is a clinical professor at the University of California at Berkeley, and teaches at Mendocino and Napa state hospitals and the Pacific Medical Center.

Mrs. Nome, a native of Oakland, is a museum registrar in San Francisco. She is a member of the Women's Propeller Club, the Navy League of America, the American Association of Museums, and the San Anselmo Homes Association, and worked on local Cancer Society and Heart Fund drives.

She ran for the Marin Junior College District board in 1966 and for the San Anselmo School District board last year.

A widow, she is the mother of two children.

Smith, who will be 69 next Monday, served 25 years on the council, including four terms as mayor, before being defeated for reelection in 1968. He ran Art Smith's variety store in San Anselmo for 25 years.

He was first appointed to the council in 1943 to complete an unexpired term, then was elected in 1944. He was mayor from 1946 to 1952, and later was elected mayor for three more one-year terms.

Born in Los Angeles, he moved to Marin in 1938 and opened his variety store in 1943. He sold the store in 1967 and retired, but later began working part-time at a hardware store.

Smith and his wife Alma live at 15 Bank Street. They have three grown children.

He is a member of the San Anselmo Chamber of Commerce, San Anselmo Rotary Club, and the Kentfield Lions Club, nine Masonic groups, the Elks, Native Sons of the Golden West, the Odd Fellows Lodge, the Druids, the Eagles, the Marin County Reserve Police Officers Association and the Bay County Peace Officers Association.

Capurro, 49, was elected to the council in 1962, and was appointed mayor in 1965 and 1969. He is a superintendent for Weber Plastering Co. of San Rafael.

He is a former semiprofessional baseball player, a past president of Lathers Union Local 268, a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and former coach of a San Anselmo Little League team. He is an Army veteran of World War II.

Born in San Francisco, he attended Tamalpais High School and College of Marin. He and his wife Jermaine, who live at 79 Lincoln Avenue, have two children.

Candidates who filed earlier are Warren R. Perry and incumbent Duane C. Ragan.

Belvedere Council Races Wide Open

The contest for two seats on the Belvedere City Council was thrown wide open today when the two incumbents, Sally Mathews and John R. Moore, announced they will not run. Both have served on the council for eight years.

Left in the April 14 race were three challengers for the two seats being vacated. In the contest are Beatrice S. Mann, a member of the Belvedere Parks and Recreation Commission, who announced her candidacy Tuesday. Filing today was Vernon E. Perry. Alan Steinau filed yesterday.

Mrs. Mathews, a 15-year resident of Belvedere and the wife of a surgeon, Dr. Benton D. Mathews, said she had thoroughly enjoyed her council experience but felt "it is time to give someone else a chance."

Moore, 36, a San Francisco stockbroker, said he thinks the council needs "some new blood, persons with a lot of energy, enthusiasm and the business experience necessary to solve some of the city's problems which will require large expenditures of funds."

Perry, 35, making his first try for public office, is manager of the municipal consulting division of J. Barth and Co. in San Francisco. He is also a member of the Sierra and Lions clubs.

Because of his experience as municipal consultant, he said, he felt he could give the council "help with sound fiscal planning and financing of the city's needed capital expenditures."

Perry gave high priority to "improving relations with Tiburon."

The candidate, a resident of Belvedere for 18 months, lives with his wife and two children at 89 Bay View Avenue. He said he wants to assist in "conserving, improving and guarding the natural beauty of Belvedere."

Steinau, 43, a Belvedere architect, has lived in the city for 16 years. For two years he served as chairman of the Belvedere Parks and Recreation Commission and is a former commodore of the Belvedere Sailing Society.

He is a member of the Belvedere Lagoon Property Owners Association and was the group's president for two years. He is vice president of the Belvedere-Tiburon Landmark Society, assistant scout master for Boy Scout Troop No. 9 and a member of the Order of the Arrow, a scouting organization.

Steinau, who lives with his wife and two sons at 32 Windward Road, said he is a candidate for the council because "I have been living and working in the community for a number of years and I have a feeling about what has to be done."

He sees flood control and drainage as the city's major problems and would like to see concrete action taken to devlop a new sewer system. In addition, Steinau said he would work for more cooperation and joint action between the cities of Belvedere and Tiburon.

Homeowners Hit Deaths Decision

The San Anselmo Homes Association, shocked by loopholes in a state law allowing laymen to pronounce a person dead, fired off a letter yesterday to the Marin County Board of Supervisors asking it to review the matter.

The controversy started Feb. 11 when a Bay Cities Ambulance crew declared a coronary victim, Emilio F. Maschio of San Anselmo, dead when they found no pulse beat and refused to transport him to a hospital on the grounds that law forbade transportation of the dead.

The San Anselmo homeowners want the supervisors to study the matter recommending that death be determined only by a physician and that ambulance transportation be provided to a hospital so that a death can be verified.

I-J Special Report

HEALDSBURG — Julius E. Nervo of Healdsburg yesterday announced he will be a candidate for Sonoma County supervisor from the Fourth District in the June 2 primary election.

He joins three other candidates including incumbent supervisor Arthur Ruonavaara of Healdsburg; Albert Giorgi, former Healdsburg police chief, and Henry Spomer, a Windsor rancher.

Nervo ran unsuccessfully for the post in 1962. He has been employed by the Greyhound Bus Lines for 33 years and plans to retire this year. Nervo is also part owner of the Nervo Winery, Geyserville.

Two More In Corte Madera Council Race

Two more candidates for the Corte Madera Town Council returned nomination papers yesterday to produce a crowded field of six for the April 14 election when three councilmen will be chosen.

Filing yesterday were David I. Freed, 27, an attorney, and Herber C. Leney, 61, retired attorney.

Freed, whose practice is in San Francisco, is acting president of the Marina Village Homeowners Association. He reactivated the association last June after a lapse of five years.

He is a graduate of the Boalt Hall School of Law at the University of California at Berkeley. Freed, his wife, Elaine, and their two children live at 35 Harbor Drive. A native of Chicago, he has lived in California 23 years and in Corte Madera 18 months.

He is a member of the Boy Scout Council for Troop 90, and reported he has attended every regular town council meeting for the past year in preparing to run for the council.

Leney, a retired Army officer, as well as attorney, is vice president of the Mariner Cove Improvement Association, former president of the Redwood High School Parent-Teacher Association, secretary of the Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission, a member of the Corte Madera Sanitary Commission, and a member of the Tamalpais Savings and Loan Association advisory board.

A 10-year resident of Corte Madera, he and his wife live at 318 Golden Hind Passage. They have two children.

Other candidates who have filed are Patricia Friend and incumbents Holmes S. Norville, Harold B. Wagstaff and Mayor Edward W. Colthurst.

College Chief Vows To Fight For Program

FRESNO (UPI)—Dr. Karl L. Falk, acting president of Fresno State College, says he will join other state college presidents to fight for the Educational Opportunity Program.

The program, which provides minority students with an opportunity to attend college, has been attacked by state officials including Gov. Ronald Reagan, who wants the State Coordinating Council for Higher Education to operate it.

Falk has been criticized by minority students for refusing to pledge "full commitment" to the program.

The acting president said Wednesday he is committed to the program and is willing to join with other state college presidents in fighting for its continuation.

Falk says the EOP at Fresno State will include more minority students next year if the state provides enough funds.

Insinsting he has little control over the number of students admitted, Falk said more than 300 applications have been sent to minority students who have expressed interest in the program.

This year Fresno State College has 182 students in EOP but was alloted only 150.

Falk said he received a memo from the state college chancellor's office which says FSC will be unable to open its doors to any more students under terms of the program until the state determines the future of EOP.

He said as many students "as we are allowed" will be able to enroll in the program next year.

Falk also pledged his support of the ethnic studies program at FSC.

No Charge Filed

No charge was filed Tuesday in Marin Municipal Court against Steven Scott Schuster, 18, of San Rafael, who was arrested earlier in the day on suspicion of car theft.

HE WASN'T TOLD TO DUCK

Truck driver Glenn Fossum, 46, of Long Beach, escaped injury when this rack of 60-foot steel girders crushed his truckload of lime water. He failed yesterday to see a 12-foot clearance warning beneath a freeway ramp under construction. On Tuesday, another truck knocked down the girders and they had been replaced two feet below the legal clearance minimum. (UPI Telephoto)

Student, 26, Leaves Note Before Fall

A 26-year-old San Francisco man apparently leaped to his death from the Golden Gate Bridge today, leaving a note which said, in effect, he "didn't want to be a burden to his family"

The California Highway Patrol said the body of Dennis John Marinos, a student at the University of San Francisco, was recovered by the Coast Guard at One Mile Rock.

The patrol said the victim's car was parked and running at 4:05 a.m. on the span. A wallet and note were found on the front seat.

The patrol said they couldn't quote the note exactly because it had been turned over to the San Francisco coroner, but that it had ended with the words, "Don't tell mother until morning."

The body was also taken to the coroner's office.

Collision Hurts Novato Driver

A 16-year old Novato youth was hospitalized with a cut head yesterday received in a two-car accident at 1:45 p.m. on Olive Avenue at Summers Street, Novato police reported.

In good condition today at Novato General Hospital was James R. Aggas of 609 Plum Street.

Police reported that the Aggas car, eastbound on Olive Avenue, hit the rear of an eastbound car driven by Patricia Ann McDonald, 35, of 1110 Rosalia Drive. The Aggas car swerved onto Summer Street and hit a utility pole. Aggas, according to police, said that he lost consciousness after hitting the McDonald car.

Guard Dog Handler Slain During Fuss

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A guard dog handler was fatally shot Wednesday night during a street argument, but patrolman James Jackson said the dying victim refused to tell what the argument was about.

Homicide Inspector Telferd Slettvett said the victim, Joe Zalaco, was delivering guard dogs in San Francisco to clients of Dog Power, Inc.

Zalaco, 27, was shot twice while arguing with two men at Potrero Avenue and 25th Street, police said. He died an hour and a half later at Mission Emergency Hospital.

Police said witnesses reported Zalaco stopped his vehicle when two men drove alongside and exchanged heated words.

Gunfire burst from the assailants' car when Zalaco started to get out of his van, police said.

He was struck in the chest and left thigh. The other car drove off as Zalaco fell to the pavement.

Small Car Stolen

A black and aqua 1969 four-door Toyota sedan with license ZIW 588 was stolen around 2:15 p.m. yesterday from the driveway of Dorothy E. Blondo, 47 Knight Drive, San Rafael police reported today.

STACKS OF LETTERS — Virginia Knauer, who is President Nixon's troubleshooter for consumers, looks over a stack of letters which she receives weekly. She, too, has had her problems recently — trying to get a faculty sofa repaired. (AP Wirephoto)

A BROKEN SOFA

First-Hand Taste To Consumer Woes

By G. DAVID WALLACE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's consumer advocate is getting a first-hand taste of the citizen frustrations which pour into her office daily.

Virginia Knauer, a homemaker, mother and grandmother when she's not fielding the complaints of consumers, can't seem to get her sofa fixed.

"The buyer has the right to register his dissatisfaction and have his complaint heard and weighed when his interests are badly served," said President Nixon in his "Buyer's Bill of Rights" last October.

But Mrs. Knauer says she's had a little trouble getting satisfaction since a new sofa was delivered to her home last August.

"Can you imagine sending out a sofa with a broken leg?" she asks. "And badly ... badly stitched together. I could have done a better job."

Mrs. Knauer is pleased with the response she gets when she approaches manufacturers about the 2,000 to 3,000 letters and complaints she gets in her office every month.

She managed to convince a floor tile firm it should replace a cracked floor for one woman. For one man she managed to get his refrigerator warranty extended because the appliance had been in repair shops for half the original three-year warranty.

But what's happened with the sofa replacement she was promised?

"Now they're not even sure that they ordered the one they promised to deliver sometime between August and the first of October. I think the first of November at the latest they would have had the new sofa," she says.

"So at this point I've gotten a little defeatist about it," she says. She jokingly suggests calling a news conference, but she doesn't mention the name of the large Washington department store involved.

"And this isn't schlock furniture. This was good furniture. Which shows that maybe I should have stuck to antiques.

"I think this is unconscionable. I'm so busy solving other people's problems. I don't have time to take care of my own."

Minor Injuries

Donald S. Williamsen, 12, of 1373 Lincoln Avenue, was treated at Marin General Hospital yesterday for a scraped and bruised right leg sustained when his bicycle struck a parked car near 1424 Lincoln Avenue around 7 p.m., San Rafael police reported today.

Glass Door Broken

A burglar who broke a glass door at Loma Verde School in Loma Verde Monday apparently took only a statue of unknown value from the school library, sheriff's deputies said yesterday.

Woman's Leg Broken In Crash

A 75-year-old San Rafael woman remained in fair condition today in Marin General Hospital with a fractured left leg suffered when her car collided Monday with another auto on northbound Highway 101 near the Richardson Bay Bridge.

Hospitalized is Augusta G. Haas of 67 Summit Avenue. The other driver, Ralph D. Bettencourt, 23, of 821 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Kentfield, was treated at the hospital for a head bruise.

The California Highway Patrol said the accident happened at 11:10 p.m. when Mrs. Haas's car spun around south of the bridge and Bettencourt was unable to avoid hitting her.

Mayors For Regional Payroll Tax Proposal

I-J Special Report

OAKLAND — A regional payroll tax has been endorsed by the mayors of four major Bay Area cities, Oakland Mayor John H. Reading said yesterday.

Mayors Joseph L. Alioto of San Francisco, Wallace Johnson of Berkeley, George Livingston of Richmond and Reading endorsed the idea during the taping of a television program, "Forum," which will be shown over KRON, Channel 4, at 10 p.m. tomorrow.

Under the proposal, designed to ease property taxes, a tax would be imposed on the gross income of all persons working in those four cities, not just on commuters.

Alioto has proposed such a tax on commuters, but it was ruled unconstitutional in a court test.

Reading yesterday requested City Atty. Edward Goggin to initiate talks with the attorneys of the other three cities over the legality of such a tax on all workers. Reading said he would push for such a tax, but only if the other three cities agreed to it.

Alioto told newsmen yesterday that such a tax would be considered only if the Legislature failed again to make good on its promise to provide tax reform this year.

Office Is Looted

A $175 electric typewriter, a $5 clock and a $15 radio clock radio were stolen between Friday and Monday from the office of Bay Area Construction Opportunity Program at 918 C Street, San Rafael police reported today.

Third Filing For Council In Larkspur

Raymond C. Kesner, a San Quentin Prison correctional officer, filed nomination papers today as a candidate for the April 14 Larkspur city council election.

Kesner's candidacy assures a contest for the two council posts, incumbents Alfred J. Malvino and Mayor Neil R. Brixon having filed earlier.

Kesner, a retired Army sergeant, has lived in Larkspur for 13 years. He is chairman of the Larkspur Support Your Local Police Committee, a committee of the John Birch Society.

He and his wife live at 113 Sycamore Avenue.

Car Stereo Taken

A thief stole stereophonic equipment valued at $100 from a car owned by Albert L. Vorhies parked near his home at 120 A Ross Street Tuesday or yesterday, San Rafael police reported today.

Loudspeaker Stolen

A $200 speaker was stolen Tuesday between 3 and 6 p.m. from the rear seat of a car owned by David R. Stohe of 1048 Los Gamos Road and parked at the Terra Linda High School parking lot, San Rafael police reported today.

Four Seek Two Novato Council Jobs

Three candidates filed yesterday and one this morning for two seats on the Novato City Council at the April 14 election.

Mayor Harley A. McAskill, Joseph Bonomolo and Betty Machado filed yesterday. F. Wayne Sartain filed his papers this morning. Mrs. Machado and Sartain had previously announced their candidacies.

The seats of McAskill and Councilman Babe Silva are up.

McAskill is running for his second term, Joseph Bonnomolo is making his third try for the council and Mrs. Machado, 45, of 1424 Dawes Street, is making her second run. Sartain of 141 San FelipeWay, is running for the first time.

McAskill, 47, of 291 San Felipe Way was a candidate for Novato's first city council at incorporation 10 years ago, running sixth among the 26 candidates then. He was the first chairman of the first planning commission. He made a successful try for the council four years ago, serving two years as councilman and two as mayor.

He is a member of the Elks, the Novato Druids, the Novato Chamber of Commerce and Novato Rotary Club.

A native of Petaluma, he graduated from Santa Rosa Junior College. During World War II he served in the Navy in the South Pacific.

He and his wife, Betty Jo, have two sons, Kevin and Scott.

"As councilman and mayor, I have worked to give the people of Novato the most for their tax dollar. At the same time, I have worked for the preservation of the creeks, trees, open spaces and general beautification of the city," McAskill said.

He said he wants more improvement to the city streets and a broadening of the tax base through proper development of the city.

"During my four years on the council, we have always had time for any citizen's criticism and complaints. I believe that the council should represent all of the citizens and we can do this better when we hear their views," he added.

Bonomolo, 53, of 201 San Felipe Way, is making his third try for the city council, having run in 1966 and 1968.

A native of New York City, he has lived in California for 31 years. He operated a garage in San Francisco prior to moving to Novato seven years ago. He is owner of B and B Richfield service station in the Novato Fair Shopping Center.

He and his wife, Celeste, have five children, Frank and George of Petaluma and three daughters, Gracetta Bullard of Pacifica and Antoinette Lear of Novato, and Carla, 16, a student at San Marin High School.

Bonomolo said that he believes that planning in Novato should be long term planning, making provisions for open space and green belt areas. It should include some compatible industry for a payroll for Novato.

"Annexation should go slow so that it will benefit all concerned." he said.

He also believes that all special districts should be consolidated into the city to eliminate double taxation.The city should plan for new public buildings.

"I would include the youth of the community in its planning for the progress for the future," said Bonomolo who was one of the organizers of the Boys'Club of Novato.

Robbery Suspect Denies Charges

John Charles Batts, 18, of 209 First Street, San Rafael, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of holding up a San Anselmo service station attendant Feb. 11 and having a switchblade knife and hypodermic needle when arrested Sunday.

A preliminary hearing was set for next Tuesday.

Batts is accused of being the person who held up an employee of the Minto and Son station at 805 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and escaped with $150.

GMC Recalling Buses For Chassis Checks

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — General Motors' GMC Truck & Coach Division said today it is recalling 4,269 school buses and 21,681 trucks with GMC chassis for inspection of possibly defective brake hose retaining springs and rear steel brake lines.

The tracks and buses involved are 1968-69 models. GMC said recall is a precautionary measure to prevent the possibility of brake line chafing which could result in the loss of hydraulic brake fluid.

The firm said some of the vehicles will require installation of new brake hose retaining springs and some will require inspection and possible alignment or replacement of a rear steel brake line.

GMC said each 1968-69 GMC chassis used for school buses and some of the trucks involved have a dual brake system and an instrument panel light that automatically signals a loss of hydraulic brake fluid in either part of the system.

Because of this dual brake system, GMC said, a loss of brake fluid at either the front brake hose or rear brake line would not result in a complete loss of hydraulic brake action.

Pleads Innocent

Michael Edward Semorile, 20, of San Francisco, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal court to charge of possessing marijuana Feb. 7. A preliminary hearing was set for March 17.

Proxmire Plans Bill Aimed At Secret Accounts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., announced today that he will sponsor in the Senate a bill aimed at stopping frauds and tax evasion by use of secret foreign bank accounts.

The bill will be similar to a measure introduced in the House by Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., he said.

At a House-Senate Economic Committee hearing, Patman described such secret accounts as permitting possible scandals equal in importance if not greater than Teapot Dome of the 1930s.

Patman's measure is designed to require reporting by bankers and people with foreign accounts in an effort to halt frauds and tax evasions through accounts in countries such as Switzerland which have bank secrecy laws.

Young Woman To Youth Authority

Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court has sent an 18-year-old Marin City woman, who was convicted of two counts of assault with a deadly weapon, to the California Youth Authority for a 90-day period of evaluation.

Patricia Ann Fusilereia was found guilty of the felony counts stemming from a stabbing in a Sausalito market May 23. She had become involved in a heated argument with a woman employee of the Big G supermarket when she thought the clerk made fun of her miniskirt.

Mrs. Fusilierea pulled a five-inch hunting knife from her purse and lunged at the clerk., but another employee stepped between the two women and was stabbed in the left shoulder.

Bomb Threat

WASHINGTON (AP) — A telephoned bomb threat brought about clearing of maintenance personnel Wednesday night at the National Archives, Federal Trade Commission and Justice Department buildings. No bombs were found.

What is this strike all about?

For the first time in its 108-year history the Independent-Journal is faced with a work stoppage by its union employees who belong to San Francisco Typographical Union No. 21.

What is the strike all about? How did it happen? The answers to those questions are not simple because it should not have happened. We suspect the unions agree with that.

First of all let's tell you what it is not about. It is not about wages. I-J printers and all other union employees are paid the prevailing scale of wages in the Bay area, one of, if not the highest in the United States. The scale of wages was not in dispute. In addition, I-J printers participate in a generous voluntary profit-sharing plan never negotiated by the union but voluntarily initiated by the late Publisher Roy A. Brown in 1956.

It is not about hours. It is not about holidays. It is not about vacations. It is not about fringe benefits--health and welfare or pension funds or sick leave which have been agreed on and are being paid.

What then are the issues on which negotiations broke down?

First is the issue of "reproduction" or "deadhorse" or "bogus" as it is variously called. This is a practice, dating back to 1872, by which the union requires that advertising matter which is supplied to the I-J ready for publication must, after publication, be set in type, proofread, corrected, and then thrown away. The practice is archaic; it serves no useful purpose and is costly; once required in all printers' contracts by the I.T.U. general laws, it has in the past three years been removed from the I.T.U. general laws and made a negotiable item. It is universally despised by publisher and printer alike. In 1960 I.T.U. international representative Joseph Baird of San Francisco made a study of this practice for then I.T.U. President Elmer Brown and estimated that only 2 to 5 per cent of the locals he visited were actually doing "bogus" reproduction.

The I-J made a generous offer of added job security based on the elimination of reproduction. Although it continues to claim this item is negotiable, San Francisco Typographical Union No. 21 never made a single proposal in negotiations for its elimination.

Second is the matter of appeals from discharge. The past practice was that a printer discharged for cause had only to appeal to his coworkers at the unit or union local level for reinstatement. Final recourse was to the I.T.U. Executive Council and the I.T.U. convention. The publisher could plead his case but had no voice in the decision. It is sometimes called the "mother-in-law" clause because the publisher is in the position of a husband appealing to his mother-in-law to settle an argument with his wife. It is rapidly disappearing from I.T.U. contracts as being both unfair and largely unworkable.

The I-J proposed an appeals procedure similar to that in its other union contracts: Appeal to a joint standing committee consisting of representatives of both the publisher and the union with the discharge to be submitted to binding impartial arbitration if the joint committee could not resolve the issue. The union refused to budge and insisted on continuing the unfair past practice.

Third is the procedure for the settlement of other grievances. Both the I-J and the union propose that grievances be settled by appeal to a joint standing committee representing both publisher and the union with final recourse to binding arbitration. However, the I-J insists that it be entitled, as any employer would be, to control the work during the prompt settlement of the grievance; the union insists that the "status quo" be maintained. Experience has indicated that it usually is not possible during the dispute to agree on what the "status quo" is. The only union with which the I-J has ever had a formal grievance procedure is the typographical union, all other grievances having been settled by amicable conferences between representatives of the publisher and of the other unions.

Fourth is the issue of the foreman being required to be a member of the union. The National Labor Relations Act as confirmed by Federal courts says that the foreman is not properly a member of the bargaining unit. The courts have ruled that while the union may bargain on this issue it may not strike because of it. In effect, the union continues to insist on the power to fine or otherwise discipline the publisher's representative and supervisor, the foreman, for carrying out the instructions of the publisher.

There are minor issues which lend themselves to settlement by negotiation.

This then is what has caused the disruption of the production and distribution of the Independent-Journal and deprived some 60-odd union employees of their regular livelihood.

How did it happen?

The I-J's agreement with San Francisco Typographical Union No. 21 expired November 2, 1968. Prior to its expiration both the union and the publisher made comprehensive proposals. On September 13 the union notified the publisher in writing that as of November 13, 1968, "any agreement--written, oral, or implied--or any conditions of employment or other understanding now in effect between San Francisco Typographical Union No. 21 and the San Rafael Independent-Journal will terminate." Shortly after negotiations began an impasse was threatened over the issue of reproduction, and it was agreed to suspend formal negotiations while the publisher's representative and the president of the San Francisco local sought a mutually acceptable solution to this issue. Frequent informal meetings were held between the publisher's representative, the president of the union local, and later the international representative of the I.T.U. At no time did the union make any proposal other than its original one for the settlement of this issue.

At the tenth meeting on March 14, 1969, the international representative of the I.T.U. asked the publisher's representative to submit a new proposal, a "best offer" on all unresolved issues. "Let's get up to the 5-yard line." The publisher's representative acceded to the request.

The Independent-Journal then prepared and submitted a new proposal including all items then agreed and substantially modifying the proposal on unresolved issues.

On April 29, 1969, this new proposal was rejected on 14 points, the union making no counterproposal of any kind. It was agreed that an impasse in negotiations had been reached, but both parties agreed not to close the door finally on an attempt to reach a settlement.

At the request of the union, the publisher's representative on June 2, 1969, traveled to the international headquarters of the I.T.U. in Colorado Springs for informal meetings with the international officers and a formal meeting with the Executive Council and San Francisco union representatives.

The meetings were amicable, the international officers indicated that all the unresolved issues were negotiable, and the union agreed, as required by law, that the publisher could implement increases in the scale of wages paid to I-J printers to conform to the area scale. This acquiescence by the union, which had earlier been refused, was confirmed during later negotiations with the local committee of the San Francisco union and implemented by the I-J.

Negotiations were resumed and encouraging progress was made on minor issues.

On October 17, 1969, the situation began to deteriorate. An I-J printer was discharged for cause; the union insisted that past appeals practice, which had pertained under the terminated contract, be followed; and the I-J said that it would accept an interim appeals procedure consistent with its bargaining position but not the old practice. The I.T.U. international representative then said, "The union's position is that the condition for any further negotiations is unqualified acceptance by the company of all terms of the old contract on a day-to-day basis pending the final outcome of negotiations."

The publisher's representative demurred and the I.T.U. representative then concluded, "I don't know of any basis on which to schedule further meetings."

The publisher's representative said that he was disposed to meet at any time if there is any remote possibility of a basis on which to proceed, and negotiations were ended.

At the request of other unions with which the I-J had contracts the publisher's representative twice met with a committee of the other unions and the printers' union. The printers' union rejected proposals for interim ground rules both from the other unions and from the I-J.

The publisher's representative met twice more with the international representative of the I.T.U. and the president of another union who offered to serve as a mediator. The meetings were not fruitful. The publisher's representative also offered to meet with an international vice president of the I.T.U. in a last-ditch effort to avoid a strike, but this offer was ignored.

On the evening of January 6, 1970, the Independent-Journal was informed that the San Francisco printers' union was organizing pickets and would picket the I-J the following morning.

A prompt check of composing room equipment revealed that wiring and electronic controls had been damaged and that electronic circuitry had been sprayed with epoxy. During the night tires were slashed on I-J delivery trucks and one radiator was smashed.

The I-J called in executive and supervisory personnel and other employees to repair damaged equipment. When I.T.U. pickets appeared at the I-J at 6:40 the following morning, the I-J proceeded to publish the Wednesday, January 7, 1970, edition using executive and supervisory personnel and other employees. Some union employees reported for work, but members of the stereotypers' and pressmen's union refused to cross the picket line. The 44-page edition was published from 4 to 6 hours late.

Some violence occurred when other employees reported for work and when I-J delivery trucks left the plant. One delivery truck was later forced from the road and damaged with personal injury to an occupant.

On Thursday, January 8, the I-J obtained a temporary restraining order limiting picketing and forbidding violence and threats of violence. The effect of this order was to reduce violence except that slashing of tires on I-J trucks and employees' cars and threatening phone calls continued. On Saturday, January 17, a mass demonstration in violation of the restraining order was held at the I-J plant.

The rally finally dissipated, but picketers returned to the I-J plant and threatened to prevent distribution of the Saturday edition. At the request of the police the I-J delayed distribution for more than two hours, but it was finally determined to start distribution and the police were required to restrain unruly picketers.

Eggs and paint were spread on the building and tires were slashed.

Since the beginning of the strike no attempt has been made by officers of the printers' union or other unions involved to initiate discussions designed to bring an early halt to the strike.

I-J publisher Wishard A. Brown has said: "We have full legal rights and moral obligations to continue publishing the Independent-Journal without interruption."

Teacher Has Sports Book Hot Off Press

Albert "Cap" Lavin, Supervisor of English for the Tamalpais High School District, has authored a book hot off the Harcourt, Brace & World, Inc. presses titled "Action! An Anthology of Writing About Sports."

Cappy's collector's item (that's an anthology, Agnes) includes some of the fanciest chronicling in the annals of sweat and strain, with the likes of John Steinbeck, William Faulkner, Federico Garcia Lorca, E. B. White, Budd Schulberg, Irwin Shaw, Edmund Hillary, James Thurber and Heywood Broun among 28 contributors.

The English text book, highly readable and suitable for upper-grade high school students, is splendidly illustrated by photographs selected by Robert Creamer, Senior Editor of Sports Illustrated.

It's a dandy book and Lavin, a former basketball star at USF (1951-52 vintage), is to be congratulated on his excellent taste of printed English.

Can Become Lost In This World

However, students who use it as their guide may become lost in the real sports world where the King's English takes an awful beating.

To further prepare Lavin's students who might stumble into the vivid colloquy of sportsdom, here are some foreign phrases they may encounter:

The portside pill projector ogled the enemy willow wielder through orbs of Bethlehem, then burned a high hard one across the dish for the final whiff in the initial stanza.

The banjo batsmen, who strokes dying quails and rainmakers as a rule, suddenly turned tiger in the fourth heat and ripped a clothesline shot through the keystone and followed it up in the sixth canto by muscling a Ruthian four-ply swat just beyond the outstretched 14 karat receptacle of the starboard pasture security officer.

What About The Elongated Rook

Editor Lavin, well-versed in basketball, should at least have found room in his English book to tell about the elongated rook who stuffed a deuce in the waning ticks of the final canto to give the home heroes the coveted gonfolan, or about the court magician with the slick mitts and fleet feet who ripped the cords with the casaba at the business end of the rapid fracture to spread the icing on Betty Crocker's victory sweets.

After which he calmly toed the charity stripe and parted the twine with a solo shot.

Then there is football's Iron Toe who split the uprights with the oblate spheroid for a trey to ice the issue as the partisan filberts went berserk.

Track contributes the hurryin' harrier who led the low timber skimmers over the furlong in a spine-tingler.

Boxing has produced gems like the canvasback who got starched in the sixth heat.

You Golfers Know What I Mean

I guess the lexicon of golf, though, is the champion of them all. If you are a pasture pool divotee, then you will know what I mean when I say the weekend shanksmith crunched a duck hook off the tee, a banana ball on his second swing, then a grass cutter followed by a quail high miss into the cabbage. His next rabbit shot landed on the frog's hair, he hit a fat chip leaving him a real snake, missed a sea-goer on the pro side, then blew a knee-knocking gimme that he tried to sneak through the side door.

Come to think of it, I just may edit a book and call it "Activity! An Assemblage of Sweat-Stained Scribblings."

P.S. Lavin's book is a beaut and a must for any sportsman's library. I hope he'll autography my copy.

McLain Not Cleared By Baseball

NEW YORK (UPI)—Denny McLain stood cleared by a U.S. grand jury today leaving his future in the hands of Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

The 25-year-old Detroit Tiger pitcher was not charged and was declared "free to go as he pleases" Wednesday after voluntarily testifying before a special U.S. grand jury in Detroit which is investigating an alleged nationwide sports betting ring.

NO REASON

"I know of no reason for McLain not to show up for spring training on Friday," said James Brickley, U.S. attorney for Eastern Michigan, after McLain's testimony. McLain is scheduled to report to spring training along with the other Tiger pitchers and catchers in Lakeland, Fla., Friday.

In New York, however, Commissioner Kuhn refused by maintaining a discreet silence to give McLain a clean bill of health as far as baseball is concerned. That silence led many baseball executives to suspect that Kuhn, using the precedent of Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis' 1921 decision barring eight Chicago White Sox players from baseball for life, might take disciplinary action against the pitcher.

SAID LANDIS

"Regardless of the verdict of juries," said Landis on the same night the players were acquitted, "no player who throws a ball game, no player that undertakes or promises to throw a ball game, no player that sits in conference with a bunch of crooked players and gamblers where the ways and means of throwing a game are discussed and does not promptly tell his club about it, will ever play professional baseball again."

NO THROWN GAMES

One factor that could sway Kuhn from following Landis' precedent is that McLain has not been accused of being involved in any allegedly-thrown games.

Brickley said McLain was "very cooperative" with U.S. Assistant Attorney James Ritchie and the grand jury in Wednesday's appearance. The 23-member federal panel has been hearing testimony from sports figures and gamblers about an alleged nationwide betting ring that came to light New Year's Day.

Shula Admits Real Reason— In Dollars

MIAMI (UPI) — The Miami Dolphins went to the Baltimore Colts to get Don Shula to replace George Wilson as head coach, but they had to give him a "substantial" chunk of the ball club to do it.

Shula said he "would not be truthful" if he didn't admit that financial considerations had a great deal to do with leaving the head coaching job at Baltimore to be vice president and coach of the Dolphins.

Exact terms of the contract were not disclosed other than mention that "substantial ownership" went with the coaching job. But it was reported to be a five-year, $70,000 contract which would total more than a half-million dollars.

OPPORTUNITY

"I think this is a tremendous opportunity for me to continue to coach and also to become active in ownership—something I've always wanted to do," Shula said.

The ownership clause puts Shula's contract in a class with those of Washington Redskins' Vince Lombardi and the Washington Senators' Ted Williams. Both were lured to their jobs with part ownership offers.

Under the merger of the American and National football leagues, both Baltimore and Miami will be member of the Eastern Division of the American Conference of the NFL.

"I look forward to the intense rivalry this engenders with the Baltimore Colts," said Dolphin managing partner Joe Robbie.

The Colts will play one exhibition game in Miami and the teams meet in two regular season contests on a home and home basis.

REGRETS

Shula said he regretted replacing George Wilson, under whom he served from 1959-62 as an assistant coach for the Detroit Lions.

"George is a personal friend and my former head coach," Shula said. "I'm thankful for the years I had the opportunity to work as an assistant with him.

"I think he has done a fine job with an expanding football team and any success I could have in the future would be partly attributed to the ground work laid by George and his assistant coaches," Shula said.

Shula was the NFL coach of the year three of his seven years with the Colts. His record is the best for an active pro coach—71-23-4—and he won the NFL title in 1968 and the Western Division crown in 1964.

Shula called 1969 "the worst year of my career." It started with a Super Bowl loss to the New York Jets and wound up with a disappointing 8-5-1 regular season NFL record.

ONLY COACH

Wilson was the only coach the Dolphins have had in their four year history. He won 15, lost 39 and tied two.

Last year, the Dolphins had a 3-10-1 mark, the worst since the inaugural 1966 season's 3-11 record.

Robbie said he made the announcement at an outdoor news conference with "mixed emotions" because he regretted letting Wilson go. But he said: "George Wilson will have a place with the Dolphins, not only as long as I'm around, but as long as he is here and the Dolphins are here."

Robbie did not say what new position Wilson would be offered and the outgoing coach's immediate plans were not known.

Warriors Must Stop Their 5-Game Slide

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The San Francisco Warriors have two days off in which to figure out how to stop a headlong slide toward the Western Division cellar in the National Basketball Association.

Wednesday night's 109-102 loss to the Milwaukee Bucks before 5,807 fans at Civic Auditorium extended the Warriors losing streak to five games and left them only two games ahead of last-place San Diego.

Vs. CELTICS

The Warriors return to NBA action Saturday night in the Civic Auditorium against the Boston Celtics.

San Francisco took a 25-23 first-quarter lead over the Bucks but Milwaukee took a 51-46 halftime advantage as Lew Alcindor finished the half with 17 points.

Alcindor, who sat out seven minutes of the fourth quarter after picking up his fifth foul, led the Bucks with 26. Teammate Jon McGlocklin scored 16 in the second half and finished with 23.

MULLINS HIGH

Jeff Mullins and Jerry Lucas led the Warriors with 26 and 25, respectively.

The Warriors trailed by 15 points early in the fourth quarter but rallied to cut the margin to eight with 2:35 left.

But Alcindor's stuff shot and a field goal and two free throws by Flynn Robinson kept the Bucks out of reach.

Sikes Wins San Antonio Pro-Am: 66

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Veteran Dan Sikes shot a four under par 66 Wednesday to win the individual section in the pro-am golf tournament preceding the first round of the $100,000 San Antonio Open.

Sikes won $1,000.

Tied for second at 68 were Jim Colbert, Bruce Crampton, Lee Trevino, Orville Moody and Billy Maxwell. Each won $600.

Jack Ewing and his team of three amateurs had a best ball 55, worth $800 to Ewing.

Contra Costa Edges Marin, Wins Title

It was a case of so near but yet so far last night for College of Marin's basketball team as the Contra Costa Junior College Comets nipped the Tars 73-71 to clinch the Camino Norte Conference championship at San Pablo.

The win was Contra Costa's 11th against 1 loss while Marin is now 7-5 in conference action going into Saturday's season finale against Santa Rosa J. C. at Kentfield.

Coach John Panagakis' Tars could hold their heads high today because they lost to the league titlist twice by a grand total of only five points, dropping their first encounter by 55-52.

"We came closer than anybody else to beating Contra Costa at their home," said Panagakis after last night's thriller. The Tars, who were led by Pat Schafer's 25 points, trailed by 38-33 at halftime and pecked away at an upset bid throughout the second half before time ran out.

Marin Scoring—Pat Schafer, 10-5-15; Tom Seidenberg, 3-4-10; Bob Tait, 1-2-4; Pat Purcell, 0-1-1; Tom McCart, 5-2-12; Daryl Ravani, 5-2-12; Chip Tyson, 1-2-4; Art Goepp, 1-1-3. Totals: 26-19-71.

Seal's Marshall Out Of Action

COMBINED AP & UPI

OAKLAND—Defenseman Bert Marshall of the Oakland Seals will be out of action for at least a week with a back injury, the National Hockey League club said yesterday.

Marshall suffered a severely twisted back in Tuesday night's 3-3 tie against Boston, a Seals' spokesman said. He was taken from the ice on a stretcher after slamming into the boards following a collision with the Bruins' John McKenzie.

LOS ANGELES—Ray McLean of Roosevelt High in Los Angeles and Vic Lopez of Whittier today were named co-coaches of the South team in the 19th annual Shrine North-South Football Game to be played July 23.

Billiards

LOS ANGELES — Former champion Joe Balsis of Minersville, Pa., defeated two opponents last night and moved into fourth place in the $19.500 World Pocket Billiards tournament at the Elks Club.

The tourney ends Saturday and it appears the field has little chance of catching Irving Crane of Rochester, N.Y., who is unbeaten in 11 matches. Crane must win two of his remaining four matches to clinch the title.

Bobby Orr Changed The Game

By MILTON RICHMAN

NEW YORK (UPI)—Bobby Orr, Boston's 21-year old boy wonder, is so good he has revolutionized the game of ice hockey.

He's so good he now stands to become the first defenseman ever to lead the national hockey league in scoring.

He's so good. . .well, he earns close to $100,000 a year from the Bruins alone and he has only three seasons behind him so maybe that gives you some idea. Many people in the NHL, the people who know, claim he is the No. 1 player in the game today. Some say he's too good to be true.

SMART

Bobby Orr has another thing going for him. He's smart. Plenty smart. The last thing he's ever going to be is a prima donna. He may be super boy and all that but he still gets a chewing out occasionally from Coach Harry Sinden like all the rest of the Bruins and what's more, Bobby Orr sits there and takes it.

"Why not?" he asked. "If he's chewing me out it's for my own good. Why should I be any exception? I'd feel funny otherwise. I'd be disappointed, I think."

Traditionally, defensemen were thought of pretty much as clods on ice although don't ever call one that or he's likely to punch you in the nose. They were generally known as defenders, not scorers. Until the precocious Orr came along. He gives the Bruins four forwards when he's on the ice instead of only three and you don't have to be a hockey expert to see what trouble that means to the other clubs.

LEADER

Orr led all defensemen in scoring last season with 21 goals and 43 assists for 64 points. He finished 23rd in scoring overall and his total nunber of goals established a record for a defenseman. This season he's doing even better. He has passed his point total of last season already and the last time the league made known its scoring figures, there was Bobby Orr's name, like Abou Ben Adam's, at the top of the list by a cushy 12-point margin over teammate Phil Esposito.

Few professional athletes have had as much praise splashed on them by word of mouth or in print as Orr has during the relatively short time he has been playing professionally. He has handled all of it far better than some other superstars have.

"If I said it didn't make me feel good to hear and read some of the things which had to do with me I'd be a fibber," Orr confesses. "I look at it all a different way. I feel the Boston Bruins pay me a good salary. That means I have a job to do and I try to do it to the very best of my ability."

Hawks Aided By Friends From East

By U.P. International

The Atlanta Hawks are getting a little help from their Eastern friends in their bid for the National Basketball Association's Western title.

The top three teams in the West took on Eastern rivals Wednesday night, and only the division-leading Hawks managed to win. Atlanta beat the Cincinnati Royals, 139-125, in overtime, while the Baltimore Bullets defeated the Los Angeles Lakers, 117-103, and the Boston Celtics edged the Phoenix Suns, 116-113.

In two other games, Milwaukee defeated San Francisco, 109-102, and San Diego beat Seattle, 122-119.

Joe Caldwell pumped in 41 points and Lou Hudson added 38 to provide the Hawks with the fourth victory in their last five games. The victory put Atlanta 2½ games ahead of Los Angeles and 8½ in front of both Phoenix and idle Chicago.

Bailey Howl sank four crucial free throws and Jo Jo White added two more in the last 30 seconds to stave off a Phoenix rally. Phoenix had fought back from a 17-point deficit early in the second half to go ahead 111-110 with only two minutes left, setting the stage for Howell's and White's foul shots. John Havlicek led Boston with 30 points and Don Nelson had 26.

Earl Monroe got 24 points and Keven Loughery 23 as Baltimore defeated Los Angeles for the third straight time. Loughery sparked a second-quarter rally which carried the Bullets from a 42-41 lead to a 58-45 halftime margin. Ray Scott of the Bullets got nine points to surpass the 10,000-point mark with a total of 10,007 for his 10-year career.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

It May Be $100,000 Rose

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pete Rose, slugging outfielder for the Cincinnati Reds, may sign his 1970 baseball contract today and become the first $100,000-a-year player for the Reds.

All that is needed, says the NL batting champion for the last two years, is a call from Bob Howsam, general manager of the Reds.

Rose, who is supposed to have been paid $80,000 last season reportedly has sought $110,000 but has indicated he would settle for the 100 grand.

There has been no word from Howsam as the Reds opened their spring training camp today at Tampa.

Activities picked up at the training camps Wednesday with the world champion New York Mets, Atlanta Braves, Baltimore Orioles, Washington Senators, San Diego Padres and New York Yankees each putting in several hours of limbering up drills.

Before their workout at St. Petersburg the Mets signed catcher J.C. Martin and pitcher Danny Frisella. Manager Gil Hodges directed the workout.

The Braves drilled at West Palm Beach after pitcher Cecil Upshaw reported with his signed contract. The Braves also signed hurlers Bob Priddy, Mike McCammon and Ron Schueler.

Two unsigned pitcher, Dave McNally and Jim Palmer, were missing as the Orioles opened camp at Miami. Catcher Andy Etchebarren also was absent.

At Pompano Beach, Manager Ted Williams cautioned rookie pitcher Jeff Vollweiler about throwing too hard. The rookie replied he wasn't even at half speed.

Pat Dobson pitched 15 minutes of batting practice for the Padres at Yuma, Ariz., and Manager Preston Gomez said he couldn't think of an NL pitcher with a better curve.

The Yankees signed outfielder Roy White before opening camp at Fort Lauderdale.

Pitcher Jose Santiago of the Boston Red Sox said he cannot throw a slider any more and will have to get along without it. He underwent elbow surgery last summer. Santiago is working out early at Winter Haven where the full corps of Red Sox battery players report Friday.

DiMaggio Thinking Spaghetti

OAKLAND (AP) — Joe DiMaggio says he is stepping down as coach and executive vice president of the Oakland Athletics because he's busy starting a chain of spaghetti restaurants.

The former New York Yankee great announced yesterday that his business interests made it necessary to avoid the baseball season travel grind.

He had held the dual coaching and executive duties the two seasons the A's have been in Oakland.

But he will spend spring training with the A's, DiMaggio said.

"I just got through talking with (A's owner) Charlie Finley," DiMaggio said, "and we agreed that I would go down there (Mesa, Ariz.) strictly for spring training.

"The traveling would make it difficult for me to keep up with my business ventures."

DiMaggio, 55, also has suffered with a back ailment.

In another personnel change, publicist Val Binns resigned to join an Oakland publishing company.

The A's announced four more player signings, bringing the total of players under contract to 24.

Pitchers Ed Sprague, LaDon Boyd and Roberto Rodriguez and outfielders Bob Brooks were the latest to sign.

Among the players still unsigned are outfielders Reggie Jackson and Rick Monday, infielders Sal Bando, Dick Green and Don Mincher, and pitchers Chuck Dobson and Al Downing.

MARIN PREP NOTES

The New Jocks: Marin Mathletes

The Eggheads are turning into jocks, of sorts. They're knocking heads these days, so to speak.

They have something called Mathletes in Marin County, which in essence, is some of the top math students at Marin schools competing in marathon problem solving sessions in seven meets for the "season."

Each school has five mathletes on a team. There's individual problems and team problems to be solved within certain time limits. A team gets one point for each individual problem solved, three for each team problem.

Terra Linda reputedly has one of the top Mathlete teams around, and, since the football program there isn't doing too badly either, you can't say the kids their spend all their time in the gymn.

I don't know what the grooming rules are—perhaps something like no sinuses above the eyebrow, or fingernails can't be chewed two inches above the bone.

Someday, the group will probably have its first superstar—Cranium Triggursky, who solved 18 logrithms n 18 seconds without fogging his glasses.

THE 1970 NORTH - SOUTH all-star baseball game, featuring the cream of the preps in Northern and Southern California, has been set for Jan. 21 at Anaheim. The first game in the series was played in Candlestick Park last summer.

HERE'S SOME more statistics on San Marin super-star, 6-8 junior center Dana LaFerriere. He's hit on 153 of 310 shots from the floor this year for a 49 per cent showing, made 159 of 231 free throws for a 69 per cent average and has grabbed 299 rebounds for an average of 13.5 per game. That, of course, is not touching upon his 465 points on the season for a 21.6 average or his 26.1 Marin County Athletic League average.

MARIN CATHOLIC and Redwood are tied for the MCAL lead in the frosh cage race. Both teams have 6-2 records.

INCIDENTALLY, St. Patrick's of Vallejo seems to be doing reasonably well in the hectic and tough Catholic Athletic League. They recently knocked off St. Elizabeth of Oakland, a team that handed Redwood one of its three losses on a 24-3 season. St. Elizabeth's, however, immediately went into a tailspin, losing three in a row.

JEAN-CLAUDE KILLY

Best Way To Learn Take Skiing Lessons

Skiing is so much fun, so absorbing, that it is easy to become complacent about your progress. It amazes me to look at a slope full of weekend skiers and note how much bad skiing goes on. It's not that I object to bad skiing, it's just that I know how much more fun skiing becomes when you know how to ski well.

When you don't ski with the right techniques, you may have a terrible time on hard surfaces or on snow that is broken up or even on snow that is wonderfully deep. Yet for me and thousands of other good skiers, all these conditions are very enjoyable.

There are two ways to learn the techniques for different or unusual snow conditions. First way (the hardest to learn), is to watch better skiers than yourself and try to imitate their movement. The other way is to take a lesson from a competent, certified ski instructor. If the instructor is good, you will learn a number of very helpful things even in just one lesson, though it is usually best to give your teacher a fair chance by taking at least 3 or 4 lessons.

I would urge you to take a group or class lesson first. There you will not only profit from the instruction given you but also from seeing and listening to the errors and corrections given to the others. If you have a peculiar or special problem which would best be corrected through an hour or two of concentrated effort, your instructor will recommend a private lesson. Though it may cost 2 or 3 times as much as a group lesson, the dividends to be earned in terms of more pleasure and safety could be worth far more than the cost.

In today's illustration you see me leading down a couple of people who want to improve. I have instructed them to stay very close to me and to follow as exactly in my tracks as they can. This way, they can imitate my movements, almost without thinking of them and profit by my ability to choose the right (easiest) place to turn. An accomplished instructor will ask you to do just the same both in class and with private lessons. Do your best to follow closely when your turn comes. Lessons can teach you a great deal and help you to transcend the ordinary.

Coaching Is Family Thing For Marin's Dick Read

By RALPH CHATOIAN

For College of Marin football coach Dick Read, just say it's in the family.

Read, who has compiled a record of 46 wins, 29 losses and 2 ties during nine years at Marin, is one of three brothers in the coaching profession. Len Read is baseball coach at Santa Rosa Junior College and Don is head football coach at Portland State University.

Dick Read also coaches the Tars' tennis team and teaches physical education at the Kentfield junior college.

The 41-year-old Read spent his childhood in Los Angeles, his family moving to Santa Rosa when he was a junior in high school. At Santa Rosa High School he was a football and baseball star (All-Northern California in football and all North Bay League in baseball, playing third base in the first San Francisco Examiner All-Star game in 1947). As if that wasn't enough, he was No. 2 man on the school's golf team.

SPORTING BLOOD

Sports was in his blood, Read's father playing baseball in the Pacific Coast League in San Francisco, Los Angeles and Salt Lake City.

"I had chances to sign for pro baseball but I decided on a football scholarship instead," Read said.

He went to St. Mary's College and played football and baseball before military service interrupted his schooling in 1950. He was drafted during his junior year and spent a tour of duty in Germany.

CHANGED MIND

"I started out going to paratrooper school, but when I saw that tower we had to jump from I changed my mind," he laughed. Instead he was able to get in special services and played football and baseball on all-European Army teams. Ah, much better duty.

During his Army days he had met some people who really backed the schools in the Missouri Valley Conference, so Read decided to try University of Tulsa. He planned on getting back to football, but an injury and subsequent shoulder operation ended his playing days. While at Tulsa, before his graduation, he helped coach at a Catholic high school there.

SCOUTING, COACHING

He then came back to the Bay Area and went to San Francisco State to work for his secondary teaching credential. He did some scouting and student coaching under the late Joe Verducci, football coach.

"I learned a lot under Joe," Read said, "especially offense."

After college, Read got a job at Pleasant Hill High School in Concord and did some assistant coaching, then a year later switched to St. Mary's High in Berkeley where he was head football coach and assistant baseball coach two years. The next two years, 1959 and 1960, he was at San Rafael High School as head football coach and assistant track coach. From there it was on to College of Marin.

FOOTBALL STRUGGLING

He came to College of Marin when the football program was struggling for existence and quickly put it back on its feet. The 1959 team had lost all its games and the 1960 team lost its first five games and had to forfeit its last four because there were not enough players left on the team to even play. In Read's first year at the helm, 1961, the team rebounded to a winning record, five wins and four losses. In only two of Read's nine years has Marin failed to have a winning record.

Looking back over the years, Read feels his 1967 team, with runners like Dean Lazzarini and Tim Harr, was the best he's had. That team averaged 35 points a game and finished with an 8-1 record. He also well remembers the 1963 Tars' team, which included a pair of linemen named Martin Baccaglio and Elmer Collett.

PRO GRIDDERS

Collett is now a starting offensive guard for the San Francisco 49ers and Baccaglio is a defense end for the Cincinnati Bengals.

Read and wife Barbara have three daughters, Kathy, 8, Janet, 7, and Lisa, 5, and one son, Robert, 2.

It took three children before Dick could come up with a football player and early indications are he's gonna be a big one.

"He's only two but he already weighs 36 pounds," said Read. "Man, can that guy eat."

It's A Tide Of Upsets In Tennis

SALISBURY, Md. (AP) — Seeded players Arthur Ashe, Stan Smith, Tom Okker and Clark Graebner were swept up in a tide of upsets Wednesday in the National Indoor Open Tennis Championships.

Only three of eight seeds remain and one, Tony Roche, may be scratched due to injury.

Advancing to the quarter-finals were: world champion Rod Laver who defeated Torben Ulrich, 6-4, 6-1 in his initial match, and second domestic seed Cliff Richey, who beat Manual Santana of Spain 7-5, 6-3.

Rumanians Ilie Nastase and Ion Tiriac provided two of the big upsets. The swift Nastase tripped Ashe, America's number two player, 8-6, 5-7, 6-2, and Tiriac surprised Tom Okker of the Netherlands, 6-3, 7-5. Smith, the U.S. champion, fell to England's Roger Taylor, 8-6, 2-6, 6-3.

New Yorker Graebner won a split decision from tournament officials who wanted to eject him for "use of obscene language" but dropped a 12-10, 6-3 verdict to Ismail El Shafei of Egypt.

Pappas Takes Lead In Bowling Tourney

MILWAUKEE (AP) — George Pappas, a 23-year-old rookie from Charlotte, N.C., fired series of 1,374 and 1,364 Wednesday to grab a 42 pin lead after the first two rounds of the $70,000 Miller Open bowling tournament.

Mike Lemingelo of North Babylon, N.Y., whose 1,452 paced the first round, dropped to second with 2,696 as most scores dipped from the first bloc.

Can't Take Sports So Seriously, Says Coach

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Paul Valenti, who has resigned as head basketball coach at Oregon State University, says one of the prime reasons he is leaving the job is that too many people care too much about college athletics.

"It burns me, it really does, that so many persons take the games so seriously," Valenti said Tuesday at the Oregon Sportswriters and Sportscasters Association meeting.

Valenti, who has been involved with OSU basketball for 29 years, the last six as head coach, said he was referring to the people "with fine reputations as supporters of athletics and, when you lose, they knock you when there is no reason for it.

"If the players go out there and give it 100 per cent . . . and lose, then what of it? Nobody can dominate athletics these days. So have a bad year once in awhile; that is good for you.

"I just think that too many people put too much stock in the final score and don't recognize the effort made by the athletes," Valenti said.

Valenti, who will become assistant athletic director and tennis coach at OSU, said he thought the change would be good for him and "possibly it will be good for OSU basketball, too."

Today is Thursday, Feb. 19 the 50th day of 1970 with 315 to follow.

The moon is approaching its full phase. The morning stars are Mercury and Jupiter. The evening stars are Venus, Mars and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1922 Ed Wynn of Vaudeville and musical comedy fame became the first big name in show business to sign for a regular radio program.

In 1945 U.S. Marines landed on Iwo Jima to start one of the bloodiest battles in the Pacific during World War II.

Also in 1945 war mobilization director James Byrnes ordered a midnight curfew on all places of entertainment.

In 1964 King Constantine of Greece was named regent as the condition of his father, King Paul, worsened.

A thought for the day—David Garrick, born on this date in 1717, said, "Let others hail the rising sun; I bow to that whose courses has run."

HOW TO PLAY
WINNING BRIDGE
By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

No-Trump Principle Can Be Applied To A Trump Contract

When you play a no-trump hand you're accustomed to thinking of one opponent as dangerous and the other as safe, depending on which of them is in position to run a long suit against you. At a trump contract the same principle is important, although the reason may be different.

TEN OF CLUBS

West opens the ten of clubs, and declarer wins in dummy with the king. It doesn't happen to be important in this hand where declarer wins the first trick, but on general principles it pays to conceal the full club strength. If South takes the first trick with the queen it will be absolutely clear that he has the entire club suit locked up.

From South's point of view, East is the dangerous opponent because if East gains the lead prematurely he may lead a diamond through the king, and then the defenders may take three diamond tricks. This would surely happen if South played the trumps "normally" by taking the king and ace. East would ruff the third club and lead the queen of diamonds, defeating the contract.

ONLY ONE WAY

If South wants to finesse against the missing queen of spades he is in position to finesse either way, but on a high level it is only a one-way finesse. Declarer should take the ace of spades and then lead the ten of spades for a finesse through East.

When the finesse happens to succeed, South has no further problem. But even if the finesse lost the contract would be unbeatable. If West leads diamonds, South's king will win a trick; and if West leads anything else, declarer can discard a diamond on dummy's fourth club.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
S- A 10 9 3
H- K 8
D- 7 3 2
C- A K J 7

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one club.

If you have biddable four-card suits in clubs and spades, bid the clubs first. Partner will probably respond in hearts or diamonds, and you will have a very convenient bid of one spade. If you open with one spade, and partner bids two hearts or two diamonds, it is not nearly so convenient to show your other suit.

One Sentenced For Larkspur Burglary

Marin Superior Court Judge Harold J. Haley has sentenced one Marin City man to jail and ordered the other sent to the State Medical Facility at Vacaville for a 90-day evaluation for sentencing. Both had been convicted of burglarizing a Larkspur residence Sept. 30.

Placed on three years' probation Tuesday and ordered to jail for 10 months was Donald Ray Turner, 20. Morlin Smith(22, who has a long criminal record, was sent to Vacaville.

Marin Has Weak Start In Building

Marin County got off to a weak start for 1970 in construction activity last month, with the total value of building permits down to $1,900,951.

This was a 59.9 per cent drop from last year's first-month total of $4,744,738, according to figures from the Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau.

San Rafael incorporated and unincorporated areas, usually well over $1 million, were down to $577,640, about 80 per cent of that residential.

The Novato area was also down, leveling off at $352,000.

Kentfield and Greenbrae had $190,650; Belvedere and Tiburon Peninsula $134,600, Mill Valley $79,166. Ross had one good residential construction permit, bringing its total up to $102,360 after miscellaneous permits were added.

Other communities: Sausalito, $65,257; Larkspur, $77,420; Corte Madera, $43,550; Fairfax, $37,125; and San Anselmo $8,478. West Marin and other unincorporated areas registered permits totaling $232,705, about 70 per cent residential.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Phillips Petroleum's Prospects Look Good

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. We have shares of Phillips Petroleum. Would you advise us to sell? What is the company's future outlook?—E.B.

A. Despite an improved third and fourth quarter, Phillips Petroleum reported a slight decline in full-year 1969 earnings from $1.73 to $1.78. Weak prices in some segments and plant start-up costs were adverse influences and narrowed profit margins for much of 1969.

However, future prospects are encouraging. The company has one of the strongest positions among the major domestic oils in natural gas produced per common share. Thus, an increase in natural gas prices would greatly benefit Phillips, and with the recent reduction in the depletion allowance the FPC is hard-pressed by the industry to do just that.

Phillips' Arctic Slope holdings could boost future earnings. Significant output from this area would lessen or even abolish the company's costly crude purchases presently required to meet the demand of its West Coast marketing territory. In the meantime, the objectives set forth by the new president may spark a reawakening for Phillips: exploration and profits are expected to be stressed. Shares may be held.

Q. I have a substantial number of shares in Diversified Growth of the Anchor group. There has been a shrinkage in value. Are they worth holding?—D.F.

A. Diversified Growth, like many of the other speculative growth funds, found the going rough in the 1969 market slump. In fact, for the first time in six years, this fund suffered a loss — 16.4 per cent. While this drop in value is somewhat larger than the average decline of all growth funds, gains in prior years amply offset this. In rising markets such as 1967 and 1965, your fund achieved a 52 and 39 per cent gain respectively. A five-year record, 1964-1969, for Diversified Growth shows a total gain of 78 per cent. Although this mutual fund has an above average growth rating, its speculative portfolio is susceptible to market downturns. Given an improved market climate, this fund should work out for you.

Wall Street Rally Hit Late In Day

NEW YORK (AP) — Another stock market rally withered late this afternoon after a brief fling.

The trading pace slowed as prices eroded.

At 2 p.m., an hour before the closing bell, the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials showed a gain of 1.52 to 758.32 after having been up 5.34.

The market took off on a strong rally Wednesday, and the surge carried over into early trading today but soon subsided.

The margin of advances over declines among individual issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange contracted to about 300 from more than 400 in early trading.

Prices of Big Board issues included Marriott, off 1 to 34½; Bunker-Rmo preferred, up 1⅜ to 42¼; Control Data, off 3 to 64½; Grumman, up ⅞ to 22½; Jersey Standard, up ⅞ to 53¾; Phillips Petroleum, up 1½ to 22; U.S. Plywood, off ⅝ to 26⅞; and Caterpillar, up 1¼ to 38⅞.

Pollution Fighter

FINDLAY, Ohio (UPI)—A new split second air pollution control system, which will enable industry to predict the level of gaseous contaminants around plants and adjust operations accordingly, has been developed by Marathon Oil Company, The system which "draws" a mathematical map of the atmosphere, is called MAPS—for Marathon Atmospheric Pollution Simulator.

Dun And Bradstreet Seeking Financial Statement Copies

Manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers in Marin County this month are receiving requests for copies of their financial statements from Dun and Bradstreet, Inc.

This is an annual mailing procedure for this company which will mail out this year almost three million such requests to business concerns in all parts of the United States. In Marin County a total og 2,243 concerns are receiving letters, their names obtained from an analysis of the company's business data bank listings last November.

They are mostly manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers who seek or grant commercial credit. Not included are some of the service and professional businesses, such as beauty and barber shops, security dealers and real estate brokers, of which Marin has an ample share.

When a business fills in and mails back its financial statement it becomes a part of the Dun and Bradstreet credit report on that business and a factor in determining its credit rating. These reports are heavily used by insurance underwriters, bankers and other businessmen who want to evaluate the credit risk of a business before shipping or selling.

Total requests mailed to Marin are only about 3.5 per cent more numerous than those sent out a year ago. San Rafael has the biggest mailing list - 945. Mill Valley had 272, Novato 253, Sausalito 224, San Anselmo 148, Corte Madera 88, Belvedere and Tiburon 82, Fairfax 67 and Larkspur 49. The remaining 115 are scattered generally throughout the rest of the county.

ON THE SUBJECT of Marin business establishments, the Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau has compiled a list of organizations here that employ 50 or more persons. The toatl list adds up to 101, but 31 of these are city, county, school and civic offices, leaving a net of 70 business organizations in that category.

AND FROM the Better Business Bureau of San Francisco comes a report that written complaints in the San Francisco-Marin-Sonoma County area for 1969 from unhappy consumers totaled 4,638—a 45-per cent increase over 1968 (There is no breakdown figure for Marin alone). The three top complaint categories were TV sales and service, auto service and repair and magazine sales.

During the past year over 27,000 consumers asked the bureau for "reliability reports" - the business reputation of area firms reflected in bureau files. Increased investigation activity was shown in real estate and travel services - particularly relating to vaction contests in one category and apartment rental deposit problems in the other.

INTERNATIONAL SPORTSMAN, INC., which recently located at 26 Mark Drive, Northgate Industrial Park, San Rafael, has just issued its 1970 mail order catalog (its first) covering all kinds of fresh and salt water fishing tackle and related gear. The catalog is available upon request.

INSURANCE: Randall W. Sanders of Fairfax has been appointed an agent for the Redwood Empire district agency of Prudential Insurance Co. in San Rafael. . .Eldon Davis, who has been manager of the Marin County area for Combined Insurance Co. of America, has moved with his family to Portland, where he takes over as subregional manager. Both he and his wife (who also worked for Combined Insurance) have received the company's highest awards for outstanding sales results. They were residents of Santa Rosa.

Dutch Trade

THE HAGUE (UPI)—International goods traffic from and to Holland in the first half of 1969 was 14 per cent higher than in the corresponding period of 1968, according to the Ministry of Economic Affairs.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Grand Jury's Kind Words Should Not Be Overlooked

A county grand jury, in its role of watchdog over the county's governmental agencies, usually devotes most of its attention to those things needing improvement or correction. The 1969 Marin County Grand Jury, which filed its final report this week, was no exception; it was critical in many areas, and called for many improvements.

Getting less notice in the grand jury report, but nonetheless present, were many words of compliment to individuals and agencies in the county. Although these did not make the headlines, they are worth pointing out in the spirit of "credit where credit is due."

THE GRAND JURY was most laudatory of the district attorney's office. Foreman Alfred W. Bowman, in his letter of transmittal, expressed "sincere thanks and appreciation for the cooperation and guidance afforded us by the district attorney, Bruce B. Bales, and his staff." The law enforcement committee commended Bales "for his aggressive and unrelenting prosecution of criminal cases and hard-hitting leadership in the control and prevention of crime . . . despite lenient court decisions which seem to unreasonably restrict police in the detection of crime and apprehension of criminals."

Foreman Bowman also expressed special appreciation to the county clerk and his staff, singling out Mrs. Edmar Hicks especially for thanks..

THE AUDIT and finance committee complimented Treasurer-Tax Collector Stanley J. Fontez "for the able and efficient manner in which this office is conducted," and found Assessor Bert W. Broemmel's office "is performing its duties efficiently and equitably."

The county offices committee was "impressed by the ability" of Asst. County Administrators John Barrows and Thomas A. Campanella, gave credit to County Administrator Alan Bruce "for the efficient manner in which his office is conducted," and commended Purchasing Agent Douglas Edelen for trying to have all county purchases made on a competitive bid basis.

This committee gave a special and notable kind of compliment to Recorder Noel T. Giacomini, observing that "revenue exceeded the expense of this department."

THE EDUCATION committee complimented the county superintendent of schools for the excellence of county-operated schools for mentally retarded, physically handicapped and orthopedically handicapped children.

The law enforcement committee said Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos and his officers "are conducting a most efficient operation." It paid tribute to Mel L. Morse, director of the Marin County Humane Society; Inspector Charles Prandi and Deputy Jeannette Prandi of the sheriff's juvenile department; the county communications department, sealer of weights and measure; Warden Louis S. Nelson of San Quentin Prison, and the county's centralized police services council.

TWO SUPERVISORS came in for committee commendations: Louis H. Barr for "his great interest in juveniles" and Peter R. Arrigoni for efforts to solve lack of sufficient water in some parts of his district.

The public works committee found "the public works department is doing a good job" and the county garage is "an efficient and orderly operation."

All in all, praise was pretty well distributed by the grand jury — along with criticism and, in some cases, outright blame.

The point in reciting all this is to refresh our realization that public officials and employees are not just "tax eaters." Most of them are conscientious and of high calibre.

Close California State Fair? Little Chance It Will Be Done

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — The California State Fair, variously known as the state fair and exposition, Cal-Expo, etc, etc., again is the target of legislators who think it should be sold and the proceeds put in the state's general fund.

Attack on the fair comes from Assemblyman Kenneth Cory, D-Orange County, who has introduced legislation to wipe out the more than century-old exhibition, which has had a series of ups and downs not equalled by any other state operation.

Cory wants to "close down the ill-fated fair, sell its assets and revert the proceeds to the state general fund," a proposal that money-wise may have some merit.

"CAL-EXPO is a flop," Cory said, "which is not surprising since it is an entertainment run by bureaucrats.

"The state could lose some 27 million dollars over the next five years, and I don't think we can afford to waste that kind of money.

"Last year we were able to persuade Governor Reagan to veto most of the budget appropriation for Cal Expo. Now I think it's about time we close down this whole project, before it costs the taxpayers any more money.

"If a Broadway play is a flop, it closes its doors in short order. Since the state has embarked upon this show business venture, we should also follow the show business example of minimizing our losses."

WHAT CORY doesn't know is that the exposition is not wholly a "show," designed to bring in at least enough money to pay for the exhibition.

Had this been true, the legislature several years ago would not have appropriated funds to construct a new fair, for it has been known for many years that the fair never has been a money-maker and probably never will be.

Rather it is a mirror of the agricultural community of California, and a sort of a celebration of the harvest festival, a custom which is prevalent in many countries of the world.

NOW, WHETHER its worth in dollars and cents can be justified is another question, but it is a fact that people continue to want this festival to take place, even if they have to subsidize it with tax money. The legislature has had many opportunities to close down the fair but has failed to do so.

From all indications, the legislature is not likely to blow the whistle on Cal Expo during the 1970 session. There is too much sentiment in too many influential places to keep the show going, like the agricultural industry, horse racing interests, the carnival contingent, and others.

It's true that the state fair has lost a lot of its old-time attractiveness, has become mechanized, and is a "money-grabber." But on the other hand, the state still has nothing to offer in its place.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Does Union Want To Eliminate I-J?

I have long admired the I-J as the most fair and unbiased newspaper I know of. It, unlike most newspapers, cannot be classified as a "daily distorter"!

You have done a remarkable job of producing and distributing the paper under the most difficult of circumstances for some time. I appreciate this and admire those who have made it possible for the I-J to continue.

A question keeps hounding me during this unjust strike. Does the union wish to force the I-J to cease publication permanently, so that the Pacific Sun will be our only county-wide paper? It may not presently qualify as a "daily distorter," but it qualifies more than any publication familiar to me as a "weekly distorter"!

Timber Conservation Act Distorted

Reader Richard W. Shand's letter (I-J, Feb. 10) calling for opposition to the National Forest Timber Conservation and Management Act is as distorted and slanted as the Sierra Club material which has recently been distributed on this pending legislation.

Mr. Shand indicates that passage of the bill will be a disaster for our national forests, including scenery, wildlife and recreation. He attempts to instill fear in the reader by stating that our pure water supply will be endangered and that insect attacks will increase.

H.R. 12025, the National Forest Timber Conservation and Management Act, provides a self-funding system through which our national forests can carry out a needed program of forest planting on 4.8 million acres and thinning, pruning and cultural practices on an additional 13 million acres. The legislation specifically requires that all of this shall be carried out subject to multiple use and sustained yield principles. These activities will improve the timber-producing capacity of the national forests and help provide for decent housing for all American citizens.

This legislation has the support of the secretary of agriculture, the Forest Service, the secretary of housing and urban development, the Bureau of the Budget, the National Association of Home Builders, and the National Urban League, Inc. It should be supported by all thinking Americans.

ABM Escalates Deadly Competition

The military's position that an ABM system will not further the arms race is ridiculous. For example, the United States response to the Russian ABM system is to deploy multiple warheads on each missile, MIRV, which, when completed, will increase our number of warheads from 4,000 to 10,000 and our overkill capacity of the USSR from 15 to 40. ("The Limitation of Strategic Arms") by Rathjens and Kistiakowsky in January, 1970, issue of Scientific American). 10,000 warheads can overwhelm any kind of ABM system imaginable. The USSR is doing likewise.

In fact, any nuclear power, even small ones like China, will also design offensive missile to counteract this "purely defensive" ABM system More nuclear weapons can only mean a greater possiblity of accidental or purposeful firing. With thermonuclear bombs we must abandon the concept that it is possible to "win" an all out war, unless you believe as Senator Russell of Georgia who said, "If we have to start all over again with Adam and Eve, then I want them to be Americans and not Russians and I want them to be on this continent and not on Europe."

If Dog Nuisance, Follow The Law

Our dog, Nikki, died because of us, and we feel sorrow and guilt. No, he wasn't a hero — he was just an affectionate, appealing brown dog — who was an escape artist. We tried to make our yard escape-proof . . .

Last Wednesday, I received a call from the Humane Society telling me that our dog was dead. He had been hit by a car on Highway 101 and Lamont Avenue — over three miles from our home. Of course we were heartbroken. However, we do not feel that he had wandered that far from home, but that he was transported there in the hope that he would stay lost or be picked up as a stray. There is also the possibility that he was clubbed and then dumped. He did not die instantly, but lingered long enough to be picked up by the ambulance and taken to a pet hospital.

Now we realize that he was probably a nuisance, and we were guilty of breaking the leash law . . . We were also guilty of leniency, but I think this is a lesser evil than cruel and inhumane treatment.

How I wish that I had been notified that Nikki was in custody. I feel certain that as a result of this costly lesson we would have kept him chained in the future — no matter how sad he looked. So I have this to say to all those bothered by unattended dogs: Don't hesitate to have the dog picked up, but please, please don't take the law into your own hands.

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

It's about 11 times as easy to start something as it is to stop something, observes Robert Townsend. For an example, he cites the case of the British, who created a civil service job in 1803 calling for a man to stand on the Cliffs of Dover with a spyglass. He was instructed to ring a bell if he saw Napoleon coming. The job was abolished in 1945.

MARQUIS CHILDS

Spread Of Heroin Among Children Overwhelms Control

NEW YORK — The young carolers who stood in the gathering twilight last Christmas Eve were singing in memory of the 210 teenagers who killed themselves in New York in 1969 with overdoses of heroin. The carolers themselves, outisde the mayor's Gracie Mansion and the Fifth Avenue apartment house where Gov. Nelson Rockefeller lives, were from Odessey House where as former addicts they were being hlpd to kick the habit.

The rapid spread of the heroin habit among youngsters — 12,13 and 14 years old — is a terrifying phenomenon. At a conference here the other day of administrators and teachers from colleges on the eastern seaboard ,Dr. Donald H. Louria, president of the New York State Council on Drug Addiction, uttered a solemn warning.

At the present rate, Dr. Louria said, every high school and every college in the country will be inundated in a couple of years by heroin. He conceded that he was flabbergasted by the spread of the drug among students who were described by the top educators at the conference as alienated, suspicious, mistrustful, idealistic.

THE DIMENSIONS of this sinister growth are hard to come by and must be at best estimates. Mayor Lindsay's specialists in drug abuse put the number of heroin addicts in the city at 100,000. Although this includes some upper-and middle-class youths, they come mostly out of poverty as reflected by the estimate that 50 per cent are blacks and 25 per cent Puerto Ricans.

The arithmetic of the habit is almost as terrifying as the addition itself. The daily series of fixes for each addict costs from $50 to $70. To get that amount by theft means stealing roughly $400, since by the time merchandise passes through a fence the thief receives on-fourth its value. The guess is that the thievery of New York heroin addicts adds up to $2 billion a year.

The city is making a strenuous effort to curb the habit and cure its victims. At present 63 treatment centers are operating and 12 more will opened by June. They are staffed by more than 400 trained personnel, half of them former addicts. The long and painful cure means hardly less than restructuring a life that has been all but eroded away by the drug.

No one pretends for a moment that the attack on the evil is anything but pitifully inadequate. Peter Goldmark, one of the mayor's aids, says bitterly that the cost overrun — not the cost but the cost overrun — of the new Air Force plane, the C-5A, would be sufficient to treat every addict in the city.

THE NIXON administration is initiating the first real breakthrough to try to stop the flow of heroin into the country. The number of agents of the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs overseas, which has been absurdly small, is being doubled to 70 positions — still very small when measured against the possibility of tracing shipments and alerting port authorities in the United States. Turkey, the principal source of the opium from which heroin comes, is getting a $3 million loan from Aid to pay Turkish farmers to grow crops other than the poppy.

The tentacles of the drug traffic are deep in the underworld of a half-dozen countries because the illicit profits are so fantastic. A kilo (2.2 pounds) of heroin on the dock at Marseilles, the center of manufacture and refinement, costs $5,000. Smuggled into New York or another port of entry it is worth up to a half-million dollars. Criminal syndicates put up the cash to bring the stuff in and lay the lines to get delivery in this country. With an estimated three tons coming in annually — that is very conservative — the profits, despite occasional large seizures, are staggering.

Conceding the Nixon administration's first real effort to reduce the traffic, those fighting the spread of the heroin curse fear the program will of necessity be laggard and inadequate. As the demand for the drug grows, so will the determination and the resourcefulness of those who profit so hugely from it.

In a fourth to a third of New York City's public high schools education is a myth and custodial care a constant struggle. In these schools a kind of bourse reflects the daily price of a heroin fix as peddlers move through the halls. Here are the graduates into Hell — the hell of addiction, crime and early death.

Selassie Remains Symbol, But Regime In Trouble

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

It was in 1936 that Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia, a small figure of enormous dignity, stood before the old League of Nations to make a plea that fell on deaf ears.

Italy's 1935 invasion of Ethiopia had brought the world to a turning point in history and when the great powers turned their backs to him he became the supreme symbol of the world's failure to enforce peace through collective action.

IT WAS the beginning of the end of the League of Nations, but not for Haile Selassie, who returned to his throne five years later to make Addis Ababa, his capital, the collective capital of Africa and himself to emerge as the preeminent African leader.

When he visited Washington last July, President Nixon greeted him with:

"No visit to this house has greater historic significance."

Ethiopian troops went to South Korea to support United Nations action there. He proposed, and Washington welcomed, his proposal in 1967 that a small group of nonaligned nations attempt to set up peace talks between the combatants in Vietnam.

He tried valiantly but without success to bring an early end to the civil war in Nigeria.

IT WAS NATURAL then, in fact necessary, that Addis Ababa should become a stop on Sec. of State William P. Rogers' assignment to demonstrate a new United States interest in Africa.

Haile Selassie's Ethiopia is a nation of contradictions.

Its development has been described as an attempt to bring a country from the 15th century into the 20th.

A small but dissident student group admits the emperor has done more for his ancient kingdom than any other man.

But they describe him as an anachronism which they compare to Spain's Generalissimo Francisco Franco. Both, they say, should go.

ADDIS ABABA, headquarters of the Organization for African Unity, is one of the showplace capitals of Africa.

Yet in the provinces literacy may be no higher than one per cent. Smallpox, typhus and leprosy are commonplace.

The average income is only $65 per person annually, and the students complain that theirs is still one of the most backward countries of Africa.

In Eritrea, a former Italian colony on the Red Sea now attached to Ethiopia, breakaway rebels receive financial support from Syria, verbal help from Cairo Radio and, reportedly, training from Cubans.

And, hanging over all, is uncertainty for the future.

HAILE SELASSIE is 77 and the succession is uncertain. Crown Prince Asfa Woosen is said neither to want the job nor to be the man his father is.

The best guess now seems to be that the army will take over, probably under a figure-head monarchy.

You Can Get Prescription At Night – If You Know How

Considering how they were maligned here last Thursday, most of the many pharmacists who called in were surprisingly good-natured about it.

At any rate, we have now been advised in detail that Marin does so have a 24-hour prescription service, and it's been working well since 1966.

It's set up through the Marin County Pharmaceutical Association. Members take night call duty on a rotating basis once a month. The on-call list is provided to medical answering services, to Marin General Hospital and Ross General Hospital, and to United Ambulance.

WHEN A DOCTOR needs an emergency prescription, he calls to learn who is on duty, then calls the prescription to that druggist.

The druggist goes to his pharmacy, opens up for the customer and makes the prescription.

"If the person can't come in, we will deliver," Elvus Regalia of the Medico-Dental Pharmacy said.

But since the on-call druggist may be in one end of the county and the patient in the other, a regular delivery system "would be virtually impossible," said Novato druggist Vincent Severietti. In such a case, the prescription call may be transferred to a druggist nearer the patient, John B. Crosetti of Poehlmann Pharmacy said.

Severietti said he and his partner, Milton Nenneman, of Novato Pharmacy, in addition to the county system have been available on emergency call for their area's doctors and patients for two years.

"ANY PHARMACIST in any community will get up for his patients any time," Crosetti said. "This is something that has been built into us as part of our heritage."

One reason Mrs. Rex Wolfe was unable to find an emergency pharmacy (the incident that led to last week's column) was that she had a San Francisco physician, and out-of-county physicians are not all familiar with the Marin system.

That is being remedied, said Frederick S. Mayer of Sausalito Rexall Pharmacy. The association plans to notify the medical societies in San Francisco and other surrounding counties in the East Bay and North Bay of the Marin pharmacy setup.

Marin doctors are notified through the Marin County Medical Bulletin each month.

THE SYSTEM has built-in safeguards against non-emergency calls, would-be drug thieves and crank calls. Only doctors can get the on-call pharmacist's name from the answering service, and the druggists as standing procedure ask police in their area to stand by or accompany them on the late night service as a precaution against robberies.

The best thing for a patient to do, Mayer said, is to get to know a pharmacist in his community. Many pharmacists will open their stores at night for patients they know, he said, in addition to the county on-call system.

A couple of druggists were unhappy about what they saw as an undeserved slam, but Mayer saw a silver lining.

"I'm happy you wrote the article," he said, "because it will bring the system to more people's knowledge — even doctors."

I hope he's right.

A Street Just Isn't A Street Without A Few Potholes

WASHINGTON — I just finished attending a pothole convention in Pittsburgh, Pa. Pothole makers from all over the world jammed the city's hotels and motels, and officials of the National Pothole Association said it was the most successful meeting they ever had.

Hiram H. Patches, president of the NPA, said, "Thanks to a very bad winter, pothole production has tripled in the 1960-1970 season. We've had potholes where we've never had potholes before. At one time you only saw potholes in the poorer neighborhoods and on unpaved streets. But now, because of new technological breakthroughs, you'll find potholes on paved suburban roads as well as highways and bridges. We can't keep up with the demand."

MR. PATCHES took me to the exhibition hall where equipment as well as designs for potholes were on display.

"Most potholes used to be rectangular, but we're getting demands for potholes in every shape and form. This kidney-shaped one is very popular, and this oval one has been moving quite well, and this zigzag pothole is a winner."

"You mean you can deliver a pothole made to order?"

"Of course. When you have a pothole on a highway or a main street, you don't want one that looks ugly and doesn't fit in with the landscape."

"HOW DO YOU make a pothole?" I asked.

"It's very complicated," Mr. Patches said, "and there are many methods. The old-fashioned way of making a pothole was to dig up a street and then fill it in again with a cheaper subsurface material. Before the material hardened you would send a truck over it and it would make a pothole any size you wanted.

"But the difficulty with this method was that it was too expensive to dig up the streets just to make a pothole. So our research people attacked the problem. They discovered that if you use a cheap asphalt or a thin tar surface on the roads, all you need to make a good-sized pothole are enough vehicles passing over it. Now most of our potholes are made by using cheaper material and bad labor."

"What kind of pothole makers are those?" I asked, pointing to a very interesting display which showed what happens to the chassis of a car that hits a pothole.

"That's our freeze-and-thaw road breaker. We have discovered that by freezing a road or highway to zero temperature, and then thawing it, you can make potholes automatically. The size depends on how many heavy trucks and busses roll over the surface.

"We can make a pothole with an automobile as well, but it takes twice as long as it does with a good solid truck."

WE WALKED along and came to a theater where I noticed someone getting an award. "What's going on?"

"Every year, to publicize potholes, we give an award to the city that has the most potholes. Pittsburgh won this year, though I must say it was close: New York, Chicago, Cleveland and Detroit are all protesting that they should have got the prize."

"There seems to be a great market for potholes. Who buys them?"

"Our biggest customers are elected officials."

"I don't understand."

"MOST POLITICIANS, particularly those up for election, want to do something for the people. So they order the potholes from us. Once they've been installed, the voters complain about them and then the officials arrange for the potholes to be filled in. This way the politicians win the undying gratitude of the electorate."

"So, without your potholes it would be impossible for anyone to run for re-election in the United States?"

"Exactly. Look, there's Mayor Daley ordering a gross of potholes for the Loop."

Richardson Bay Sanitary Pension Plan Approved

A pension plan for employees of the Richardson Bay Sanitary District, who currently have no retirement program, has been accepted by the sanitary ditsrict board by a 4-1 vote, secretary Beverly Wheeler reported.

The dissenting vote Tuesday night came from Douglas De La Fontaine, board president.

Under the plan, presented by insurance broker James Hill, the district will contribute equivalent of 10 per cent of an employees salary toward the program each year, Mrs. Wheeler said.

Individuals would become eligible, including death benefits, after six months employment. Benefits and retirement pay will be determined by salary and retirement age. The board also agreed to allow district employees to work till 70.

In other action the board voted to grant employees a 3 per cent pay raise, effective March 1, to supplement a 5 per cent raise approved in November, according to Mrs. Wheeler. During salary negotiations last year, the employees had asked for a 10 per cent increase, she said.

To Superior Court

Jose Luis Lopez, 24, of Corte Madera, has been bound over to Marin Superior Court on a charge of felony drunken driving stemming from a wrong-way crash on Highway 101, north of Richardson Bay Jan. 10. He is to appear in court Tuesday for arraignment.

Rime of Ancient Mariner

It is an Ancient Mariner,
And he stoppeth one of three.
"By thy long gray beard and glittering eye,
Now wherefore stoppeth'st thou me?

The Bridegroom's doors are open wide,
And I am next of kin;
The guests are met, the feast is set;
May'st hear the merry din."

SNOW BRIGHTENS SIERRA SLOPES

Following recent storms which have deepened the pack at Squaw Valley, a cable car heads upslope, in readiness for the Washington's Birthday weekend ahead. Resorts throughout the northern and central Sierra reported very good skiing on powder and packed powder today, with at least 24 inches of snow on every slope and ranging upward to 14 feet of the white stuff. Living Costs Slowing Record Rate Of Climb

Administration Sees Inflation Peril Still

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cost of living rose four-tenths of 1 per cent in January, slightly less than in preceding two months, the Labor Department reported Thursday. The administration, however, said it found no evidence of a real decline in the rate of inflation.

When adjusted for normal seasonal trends, the January consumer price boost was still at the 7.2 per cent annual rate which prevailed in December and November — the highest since the Korean war.

The January increases boosted the consumer price index to 131.8 per cent of the 1957-59 average. That means it now takes $131.80 a week for a city family to maintain theliving standard that 10 years ago cost only $100.

Steeply higher prices for consumer services, especially transportation, and for food and costs of maintaining a household were the major factors in lifting the index to a level 6.2 per cent above January 1969. This was the largest 12-month increase since the year that ended in November 1951.

PRICE BULGE

Because of the price bulge, the purchasing power of factory workers declined for the fourth month in a row in spite of a small increase in take-home pay.

Real spendable earnings, which is the weekly take-home pay expressed in 1957-59 dollars to eliminate the inflation factor, dropped by 13 cents, to $77.78 for the worker with three dependents, the department said. The cutbacks in the automobile, aerospace and some other industries was reflected in a surprisingly large reduction in the average work-week—a half-hour shorter than in December.

Last month's four-tenths of one per cent price rise compared with six-tenths of one per cent in December, five-tenths in November, and four-tenths in October.

HIGHER RATE

Translated into seasonally adjusted figures, however, the rate of increase was six-tenths of one per cent for each month, November through January. This was a higher rate of advance than prevail during the fall.

The unchanged rate of increase in the seasonally adjusted figures for the past three months indicated at least that inflation has not accelerated.

Dr. Joel Popkin, assistant commissioner of the department's bureau of labor statistics, was asked whether this gives rise to hope that a slowdown is coming.

"I suppose so," Popkin said.

The bureau also issued a revised report on the wholesale price index, usually considered an indicator of coming trends at retail. The January climb of wholesale price was eight-tenths of one per cent, up to a level of 116 per cent of the 1957-59 average.

The increase in wholesale prices of industrial commodities was four-tenths of one per cent, about the same as the increase over the past six months.

Ex-Drug Addicts' Campaign

By MARY LEYDECKER

Two 21-year-old self-proclaimed "ex-dope fiends" have turned their San Rafael flat into a 24-hour-a-day center where young persons trying to kick drug habits or just talk about their problems can gather.

Rex Hutchinson and Raymond Menjou, who call their operation at 805 D Street, "Center Point," say that they found a crying need for such a project in Marin, where no facility exiistsed for people who wanted to quit drugs without entering an institution.

With no support from any governmental or private agency, the young men are trying to gain backing from civic groups such as the Optimist Club of Corte Madera, where Hutchinson spoke yesterday.

The youth told his middle-aged audience that he started on drugs at 15, progressing from marijuana and pills through methedrine and finally to heroin.

Stints in Juvenile Hall and jail didn't change him, Hutchinson said. Finally, when faced with commitment to the state prison hospital for addicts, the California Rehabilitation Center, Hutchinson decided to enter the drug program at Mendocino State Hospital.

"A beautiful thing" was his description of that program, called "the family," where addicts voluntarily gather to kick their habits. He said that his partner in the center, Menjou, had a similar background and finally wound up at Synanon.

"We use the techniques we learned at Mendocino and Synanon at Center Point," he explained to the Optimist. "Games" and encounter sessions are included in the methods they've found to help, but Hutchinson described Center Point as mainly a place where young people can find someone to talk to.

"Kids often can't talk to their parents because they overreact," Hutchinson said. "They can't talk to their friends because they think they have to maintain an image and they can't talk to ministers or psychiatrists because they think these people haven't been through what they have."

"Of course, these are rationalizations," Hutchinson added, "But, anyway, they know we've been through probably more than they have."

Either Hutchinson or Menjou is available at their four-bedroom flat over an antique shop all day long. How have the youngsters found them?

"Well, there's a grapevine in the world of dope fiends," Hutchinson said.

However, they hope that eventually agencies and

Two More Enter Race For Court

Attorneys A. Leonard Bjorklund Jr. and Charles R. Best declared their candidacies for the Marin Municipal Court judgeship being vacated by Alvin H. Goldstein Jr., bringing to 13 the candidates in the June 2 election.

Bjorklund, 43, is a Sausalito trial attorney and former deputy district attorney in Alameda County. He was graduated from Dartmouth College and received his law degree from Harvard University.

"A crisis exists today in our courts that is without parallel in the history of our country," he said today. "Too many of our courts, instead of carrying out their judicial responsibilities, have become timid and vacillating.

"The public has a right to demand that the judge it elects will be fearless and resolute in carrying out all of his judicial responsibilities. If elected I will meet this demand."

Bjorklund is a past president of the Sausalito Chamber of Commerce and the Marin County Heart Assn. He is a director of the Sausalito Rotary Club, and belongs to the Marin County Bar Association.

Bjorklund is engaged in private practice at 765 Bridgeway Boulevard, Sausalito. He and his wife, Marylyn, live at 6 East LaVerne Lane, Mill Valley, with their two children.

Best, 39, has offices at 35 Mitchell Boulevard, San Rafael.

He was born in San Francisco and attended the College of Marin. He received his law degree from the University of California, Hastings College of Law.

"Efficient, effective administration of justice, both civil and criminal, is a fundamental responsibility of all judges," he said today.

"I have more than the minimum qualifications required for the job I am seeking, and I will put them beside those of all other candidates for comparison. I want the job and expect to go after it vigorously."

Nixon Asks Genocide Treaty Nod

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon today urged the Senate to ratify a genocide treaty which has been gathering dust in Congress for 20 years.

The treaty on prevention and punishment of genocide was sent to the Senate in 1949 by President Harry S Truman. Senate hearings were held in 1950, but the Senate itself never acted on the treaty despite the fact that it went into force in 1951.

Seventy-four nations have become parties to the agreement, and it was unanimously adapted by the U. N. General Assembly.

Genocide is a deliberate effort to exterminate a race or people.

The treaty itself goes beyond

Senate Argues Effect Of Integration Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott said today new legislation prescribing a uniform national policy on enforcement of school desegregation is either unconstitutional or unenforceable, and will not become law.

Sen. Mike Mansfield, the Democratic leader, who supported the measure, said if it does remain part of the massive aid to education bill, the courts will have to decide what it means.

Southern senators, flushed with that major victory in their fight to slow Dixie school desegregation, then failed 49-36 to strike the power of federal courts to order busing of school children to achieve racial balance.

Scott and Mansfield discussed their interpretations of the amendment that was proposed, and won, by Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., as the Senate resumed debate on the desegregation issue.

"It either means let's not enforce any of the laws, or let's enforce all of them," said Scott. He said the first interpreation is unconstitutional, the second would be unenforceable because neither Congress nor the federal courts have yet held segregation produced by neighborhood school patterns to be illegal.

Either way, Scott said, the Stennis amendment "is impossible to accept." He said it will be stricken from the bill when House and Senate conferees work out a compromise version.

"What its effect will be I don't know," said Mansfield. "I would expect that if it remains in as it is, the court will have to make that deciseon."

Way Turns Committee Gavel In

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Sen. Howard Way, R-Exeter, deposed 10 days ago as Senate president, today resigned the Government Organization Committee chairmanship assigned him Wednesday by his successor, Sen. Jack Schrade, R-San Diego.

Way told newsmen the resignation was prompted by the fact he is a member of four other committees and lacked time to act as chairman of a fifth committee.

He said the resignation, handed Schrade personally this morning, was in no sense a commentary on Schrade's leadership.

"There just aren't enough hours in the day," said Way, president pro tem for nine months until Schrade ousted him 10 days ago. "Too heavy a workload."

Way is a member of the finance, transportation, agriculture, and revenue and taxation committees.

Sen. James Mills, D-San Diego, deposed Transportation Committee chairman and a staunch Way backer, also resigned from the Government Organization Committee.

Mills added he is considering resigning also the chairmanship of a "select committee" chairmanship on salt water intrusion into agricultural lands, an assignment he branded "a calculated insult" by Schrade who bounced him as transportation chairman.

U.S. Tries Informal Approach In Paris

PARIS (AP) — The United States dropped presentation of a formal position paper at the peace talks today in an effort to move the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong into direct discussions of the issues.

But U.S. Ambassador Phillip Habib, talking to reporters after the 55th session of the talks, said "I didn't find them willing to discuss" the issues "in any meaningful way."

Habib called the change in U.S. tactics "a major effort to engage the other side in the kind of discussions that will be meaningful and to the point."

"I moved quickly" he said "into free discussion of the issues, hoping to bring some kind of back and forth exchange."

Usual procedure has involved presentation of a formal written statement by each delegation. This was then given to the other side and later handed out to the press.

The other three delegations followed this practice today.

Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh, the Viet Cong representative, said in her statement that "the United States has waged and is waging chemical warfare in South Vietnam on an unprecedented scale in the annals of warfare." She said such tactics had brought death or illness to nearly 1.3 million people.

Binh said the tactics have continued with the Nixon administration, citing a so-called massacre at Ba Lang and in Quang Ngai province in early 1969 in which she stated toxic gases were used to kill more than 300 civilians.

The United States was hiding its use of toxic products behind statements that they were only plant killers, Mrs Binh declared.

ROTC Fuss At Syracuse

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Fifty students—including the student government president and several student body officials— occupied Syracuse University's administration building for about 3½ hours today to press demands for a campus referendum on ROTC.

The seizure ended after Chancellor John Corbally met with a student delegation and agreed to address a mass meeting of students shortly afterward.

The main issue on the 18,000-student campus appeared to be Corbally's decision to take the ROTC matter out of the hands of the University Senate. The senate, composed of students, faculty members and administrators, has been considering the Army and Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps programs for several years.

At a meeting Wednesday night a senate committee recommended that credit for ROTC courses be dropped as of 1973 and that military personnel teaching courses in the programs lose their faculty status at that time.

But Corbally rejected that idea and said further consideration of the problem by the senate would not be productive. He said he would establish a university committee to consider the future of the military programs.

Student government President David Ifshin, one of the invaders, told newsmen: "The main issue is simply the chancellor's actions."

He claimed Corbally had conducted the meeting arbitrarily and "left one with the conclusion that the senate was no more than a toy for the administrators to play with."

"We are demanding a campuswide referendum on the issue of ROTC, we will abide by the results. We are asking for democracy," Ifshin said.

Defense Rests

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — Defense attorneys in the Algiers Motel conspiracy trial have rested their case in one day after rushing four witnesses to the stand in 90 minutes.

U.S. Dist. Court Judge Stephen Roth then adjourned the trial of three suspended Detroit policemen and a private guard until Tuesday, when final arguments are expected.

The judge indicated he would consider another defense motion for acquittal. Earlier Wednesday, the judge denied a similar defense motion.

The four are charged with violating the civil rights of eight black youths and two white women at the Algiers Motel in Detroit during the 1967 riot. Three of the youths were shot to death.

Rips 'Vandalism'

MANILA (AP) — U.S. Ambassador Henry A. Byroade sharply criticized the Philippine government today for failing to protect the U.S. Embassy from a mob attack.

Protesting the "wanton vandalism" by demonstrators Wednesday night, Byroade said in a note, "The embassy is being treated as a defenseless hostage, routinely available for physical abuse by any sector of the society with a grievance."

The government closed all schools in the Manila area until Monday after about 2,000 young Filipinos invaded the embassy compound Wednesday night and broke windows, rampaged through the business district and massed near the presidential palace where six persons were killed in an antigovernment demonstration Jan. 30.

Seeks Divorce

YAKIMA, Wash. (AP) — Rep. Catherine May, R-Wash., filed suit Wednesday for divorce from her husband, James.

"There will be no contest, no scandal," Mrs. May said. "We both have a great deal of respect for each other."

The couple have been married 27 years.

Mrs. May, who is 55, asked the divorce on grounds of "separation of more than two years and personal indignities."

She and her husband have lived apart most of the 12 years since she was elected in 1958 as the state's first congresswoman.

They have a son, James, 24, a Marine officer in Vietnam and a daughter Melinda, 19, who is employed in Washington, D.C.

Heavy Casual Ties

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Heavy casualties apparently have forced the North Vietnamese and the Pathet Lao to suspend operations temporarily in their campaign to recapture the Plain of Jars, official sources reported today.

The battle area 100 miles north-northeast of Vientiane was reported "very quiet" today after seven days of hard fighting in which the Laotian government said 17 of its troops were killed and 28 wounded.

The sources said government guerrilla patrols had found the bodies of 174 North Vietnamese troops on the plain, bringing the total confirmed enemy casualties to more than 385 since the North Vietnamese offensive opened last week.

Vote Drive

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — AFL-CIO leaders are planning a get-out-the-vote drive among union members in what they view as a vital fight to keep Congress in the hands of liberal Democrats friendly to organized labor.

Political strategists of the 13.6-million member labor federation announced Wednesday they will spend $850,000 to get union members registered and to the polls on election day.

Al Barkan, director of the labor federation's Committee on Political Education said, "COPE is in a hell of a lot better shape in 1970 and will do a hell of a lot better job than most experts predict."

A survey of union members in 14 states indicated grounds for concern. It showed registration of AFL-CIO members in many areas well below the national average of 50 per cent of all eligible voters.

Marijuana Plea

William Henry McInerney, 21, of Corte Madera, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to a charge possessing marijuana Jan. 24 when arrested in front of a San Rafael motel. A preliminary hearing was set Tuesday for March 17.

Folsom Pair Nabbed; Family Held Hostage

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Two Folsom Prison inmates who escaped Tuesday while being transported to Fresno were captured without resistance Wednesday night after holding a Sacramento family hostage for more than 24 hours.

The life-term convicts, armed with a loaded .32-caliber pistol and a butcher knife, surrendered to police in the parking lot at Sacramento Metropolitan Airport. The hostages were not hurt.

Police said the convicts, Lynn Wayne Benner, 27, and Richard Mutch, 29, held the family hostage in their home since shortly after they overpowered a sheriff's deputy and escaped with his gun and car in Sacramento.

Officers said three of the hostages, Clifford Edgerly, his wife Edna and their 19-year-old son, were forced to drive the convicts to the airport.

But the escapers, described by police as "very dangerous," left the Edgerlys' daughter, Pegggy, 21, at home. She called a friend, Alex Adams, who, in turn, notified police.

Officers said Peggy told Adams she thought the convicts and her family were headed for the airport about 10 miles northeast of Sacramento.

Police said they spotted the Edgerly vehicle and trailed it to the airport.

Five officers surrounded the car after it stopped in the parking lot and the escapers surrendered.

Officers said they found handcuffs and a chain in the car. Benner and Mutch were handcuffed when they escaped and the handcuffs were attached to chains wrapped around their wrists.

The convicts were booked at city jail on kidnap, armed robbery, felony escape, assault with a deadly weapon and grand theft charges.

Benner was serving a term on kidnap and robbery convictions in Los Angeles in 1964.

Nixon Picks Labor Umpire

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has announced as his choice for chief federal umpire in company-worker disputes a Chicago lawyer who has specialized in representing management.

Strong labor opposition is expected against congressional approval of Edward B. Miller, 47, for chairman of the National Labor Relations Board.

Secretary of Labor George P. Shultz, who met with Nixon before the Miller announcement Wednesday, said the administration wants a "reasonable" NLRB and this can best be done by staffing it with reasonable people.

Miller said his labor relations work had been "exclusively with management." He had been offered legal assignments by labor unions, but declined them, he said, because they would have created a conflict of interest.

A newsman asked Miller if he thought the NLRB has been unreasonable.

"Even reasonable men can differ," he answered, adding he would not characterize recent boards as unreasonable. Shultz said he agreed with Miller.

Could he fairly assess the legitimate views of organized labor, Miller was asked. His answer: A board member should not look at each case "as a battle to be won. The real name of the game is to find some basis for agreement."

Miller is nominated for a five-year term on the board, replacing Sam Zagoria, who has been under attack by congressional critics who charge the NLRB with pro-union bias. If the nomination is approved, Nixon said, Miller will be designated chairman, succeeding Frank W. McCulloch.

The NLRB recently has been the subject of controversy both from inside the board itself and in Congress.

Order Of Garter Back In Family

LONDON (AP) — Members of the family of Lord Cornwallis, who surrendered to George Washington at Yorktown in 1781, have regained possession of the Order of the Garter decoration he received from George III.

The decoration, which had passed through various hands down the years, was sold at auction by its anonymous owner Wednesday for $1,800. A Cornwallis family group made the winning bid.

Cornwallis received the silver sash and velvet breast star of the order, highest in Britain, in 1786.

Youths Set Cleanup Of Mount Tamalpais

Mill Valley's Youth Commission last night laid the groundwork for a massive one-day cleanup of litter plagued Mount Tamalpais.

The commission tentatively set April 4 as the date for the "clean in" and indicated it hoped to mobilize up to 1,000 persons to gather litter on the mountain.

There have been several small cleanups by single organizations, but the April 4 endeavor — if it comes off as planned — will be the biggest single antilitter campaign on the mountain.

The commission said last night it hoped to get support from groups throughout Marin County, including scouting, church, ecological and civic organizations to help with the cleanup.

The commission said it planned to divide the mountain into sections and assign task forces to clean them.

Representatives from the Marin Municipal Water District and the Mount Tamalpais State Park met with the commission last night and said they would help the group identify the areas with the heaviest litter problems. Both the water district and the park representatives said they would aid in the cleanup by providing trash containers and trucks.

Robert N. Neygren, a park ranger, told the commission that the trails are fairly clean but that the lakes and areas along the roadways through the park are heavily littered. He suggested the cleanup campaign be aimed at these areas.

Also at last night's meeting were representatives from the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Commission, the Marin Ecology Center and Sludge, a group of ecology-minded students from Tamalpais High School. All supported the plan and said they would contribute manpower to the effort.

The commission's next meeting is set for March 4 and chairman Carol Prichard said she hoped representatives from other groups would appear at the meeting.

"What we will need at that meeting is a commitment of manpower," she said. Commission members will be contacting as many groups as possible and notifying them of the March 4 meeting, which is scheduled for 8 p.m. in the Mill Valley City Hall.

352s Return To Bombing Runs Over South Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. B52 bombers went back to targets in South Vietnam today after 48 hours of heavy attacks in Laos. All 75 of the Strategic Air Command's big bombers in Southeast Asia had been diverted to the Laotian front.

Sources in Saigon said B52 strikes were continuing against North Vietnamese supply depots and the Ho Chi Minh trail through eastern Laos. But the sources said the attacks were not of the magnitude of those flown Tuesday and Wednesday.

The U.S. Command announced two B52 missions in South Vietnam between midnight and 6 a.m. today, a total of 10 planes dropping 300 tons of bombs on base camps and troop concentrations in the western Mekong Delta. The targets were five miles from the Cambodian border and 125 miles southwest of Saigon.

Informed sources said the big bombers for the time being were flying their usual number of missions, about seven every 24 hours in South Vietnam and about two every 24 hours in Laos. This means 35 planes dropping about 1,000 tons of bombs in South Vietnam, and 10 planes dropping about 300 tons across the border.

The U.S. Command never announces planes lost in Laos since it does not admit that U.S. planes are flying combat missions there. But it did announce the loss of three more helicopters in South Vietnam with 19 troops killed and three injured. One was shot down 20 miles north of Saigon, one farther northeast near the Cambodian border, and the other had mechanical trouble 78 miles southeast of Da Nang.

Fourteen American helicopters have been reported lost in the past nine days. In these crashes 38 Americans and four South Vietnamese have been killed and 19 Americans and 52 Vietnamese injured.

The weekly casualty summary issued by the allied commands today showed a 25 per cent decrease in combat deaths among government troops but little change for American and enemy forces compared with the week before. The report gave these figures (previous week in parentheses):

Killed—96 (95) Americans, 222 (298) South Vietnamese, and 2,205 (2,105) North Vietnamese and Viet Cong.

Wounded—589 (637) Americans and 710 (809) South Vietnamese.

Dyk Declines; Six In Race In Sausalito

City councilman Jan Paul Dyk's announcement that he will not run for a third term and a late filing today by a candidate put six persons in the race for two seats on the Sausalito City Council in the April 14 election.

Dyk, 52, a steamship executive for the Holland-American Line in San Francisco, said "two terms are enough for one man," but indicated he will continue to take an interest in municipal affairs.

He supported the candidacy of Mayor Earl F. Dunphy, seeking a fourth term on the council April 14. "I have worked with him and I know what a fine job he does, "Dyk said.

San Francisco Attorney Michael J. Kutsko, 55 Miller Avenue, was a late entrant into the race today, but was in New York and not available for comments on his reasons for seeking a council post. Papers were filed in his behalf.

He joins Dunphy, Marsha Owen (Sally Stanford), owner of the Valhalla Inn; Stephen Fraser, a professor of government at Sonoma State College; Robert D. Bauerle, co-owner of Brotman's gift shop and artist Serge Trubach, who earlier announced their intentions to run.

killing and injuring members of a group. It also includes mental harm, enforced birth prevention and forced transfer of children from one group to another.

Nixon said he regretted having to report that since Truman submitted the treaty, "some of our detractors have sought to exploit our failure to ratify this convention to question our sincerity."

"I believe we should delay no longer in taking the final convincing step which would reaffirm that the United States remains as strongly opposed to the crime of genocide as ever," Nixon said in a message to the Senate.

It was accompanied by an explanatory report by Secretary of State William P. Rogers.

Nixon said Senate ratification would "demonstrate unequivocally our country's desire to participate in the building of international order based on law and justice."

Nixon endorsed Rogers' judgment that ratification would be in the national interest. The President also told the Senate that Rogers and Attorney General John N. Mitchell saw no constitutional obstacles to the treaty.

Weather Hurts Search For Pair

Bad weather yesterday and today hampered the search for two Hamilton Air Force Base men missing since Saturday in San Pablo Bay from their rescue vessel, according to base officials.

Missing are Assistant Fire Chief S. J. Blumberg, 45, of Fairfax and A/1 Bruce B. Scopes, 19, of the barracks.

They took the base's Boston whaler rescue vessel for a three-hour shakedown cruise about 10:30 a.m. Saturday and have not been seen since. The boat with all gear on board was found at 8 p.m. Saturday off Point Pedro.

Helicopters and small boats searched Sunday and yesterday. Only small boats were searching today.

Another In Tiburon Race

Alvin R. Kuhn, a San Francisco stockbroker, filed candidacy papers today to become the fourth candidate in a race for three seats on the Tiburon City Council.

Mayor Branwell D. Fanning, a 44-year-old advertising executive, filed yesterday for a second term. Councilmen William R. Bremer and Thomas E. Drohan have announced they will not seek reelection.

Others in the race, who announced earlier, are Donald L. Batten, president of the Belvedon Homeowners Association, and Albert H. Sennett, a 41-year-old attorney and city planning commissioner.

courts will refer people to them. They already have the whole-hearted backing of their probation officer, Charles Villareal, who says their program works.

The young men realize, however, they can't deal with all addicts.

"Hard core dope fiends we tell to go to Mendocino or Synanon," Hutchinson said yesterday. "We tell them, 'you can't make it and still stay on the streets."

They also hope to do their bit toward preventing drug addiction before it starts by talking to school children and have already set up meetings with PTA groups in the San Anselmo school district.

Hutchinson told his listeners yesterday that he feels the drug problem in Marin and everywhere else in the country is getting worse. "You get kids 10 years old now smoking marijuana and using heroin at 16," he said.

A listener asked if this couldn't be prevented by drying up the flow of drugs. Hutchinson replied that the police can't possibly stop it that much.

"How do you feel about marijuana," another man asked.

Hutchinson replied that he saw "no reason to take any kind of chemicals."

Furthermore, he said that "marijuana makes kids so they can't do anything else but sit around and smoke dope."

But the real danger, according to Hutchinson, is that it puts young people in the drug environment. "It's addictive in that sense," he explained, because sellers often try to push worse drugs at kids who use marijuana.

Hutchinson said he and Menjou have tried to allay fears of many people about their center. First, they have explained to police what they are doing and said they didn't mind being checked to make sure there were no drugs there.

"However, we don't want to be a mousetrap for catching dope fiends," he added.

Further, he is trying to assure parents that their youngsters will not fall into evil ways just because they visit a place where drug addicts are present.

Hutchinson said yesterday that Menjou, who had army medical corps training, works at a local hospital in order to help pay the rent and he himself sometimes repossesses cars to supplement their income.

However, their attorney, J. Patrick Heron, a young Mill Valley man who recently passed the bar examination, said yesterday that Center Point soon will incorporate so that donations will be tax deductible.

The youths then hope to prove themselves so they will be eligible for charitable grants and government programs.

Finally, Hutchinson was asked what does Center Point mean?

"It means looking at yourself and solving your own problems," he said.

vote a resolution of Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., to set up a special 15-member Senate committee to look into problems of equal educational opportunity all over the nation with special emphasis on de facto (neighborhood) segregation in the North.

Mondale said that there had not been a good look at this problem by Congress but that the debate on the pending bill had made it obvious that ways must be found to deal with the situation.

The committee would be directed to make an interim report Aug. 1 this year and a final series of recommendations by Jan. 31, 1971.

President Nixon met for about a half hour during the morning at the White House with Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., and later with Sen.Richard B. Russell, D-Ga.

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The state's Little Hoover Commission approved today both of Gov. Reagan's reorganization plans — to create a new State Health Department and a Department of Consumer Affairs.

The first plan would consolidate various health-related departments into the one new department.

CHICAGO VERDICT SPARKS UPROAR — Ann Arbor, Mich. police charge demonstrators after an estimated 1,800 persons marched downtown from the University of Michigan campus protesting conviction of five persons in the "Chicago 7" trial. Verdict Stirs Clashes Between Youths, Law

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

An unruly crowd of 1,800 persons clashed with city police in Ann Arbor, Mich., following a University of Michigan rally called by Students for a Democratic Society to protest the Chicago riot trial verdicts.

Five persons were arrested Wednesday night, 13 suffered minor injuries and windows were smashed at four stores, two banks and a police car.

In Lawrence, Kan., 50 demonstrators stormed the courthouse, shattered a window and painted on walls. Three were arrested.

In Iowa City, Iowa 35 teen-agers invaded a courtroom and chanted antiestablishment slogans but fled before Judge Ansel Chapman could don his robes and make good on a vow to fine them for contempt of court.

In New York City a crowd of 2,200 filled a Hunter College assembly hall to hear speakers denounce the Chicago verdicts and the New York trial of 13 Black Panthers. Plans to march to Times Square were canceled after scores of police assembled outside the hall.

The Ann Arbor street battle followed another incident in which nine University of Michigan students and four other persons were arrested trying to block General Electric Co. recruiters. SDS then called a night rally to protest both GE recruiting and the Chicago verdict. After the rally police charged into marchers, who were headed for City Hall, after someone lobbed a bottle over their heads and through a patrol car window.

Rallies to protest the verdict were planned for today in Boston, Salt Lake City and Eugene, Ore.

George Washington was a hunting enthusiast. At one time he had 140 horses in his stable.

Collision Injures Novato Bike Rider

Donald Lambrix Jr., 12, of 6 Rose Court, Novato, suffered a cut head at 3:30 p.m. Tuesday when he pedaled his bicycle in front of a car on Olive Avenue near the Novato city limits, the California Highway Patrol reported today.

The driver was not fully identified, although he stayed at the scene to aid the boy and was in touch with the youth's parents.

The first westerners to visit Japan were Portuguese traders who arrived in 1543.

Hopland, Calif., was named after the many hop fields nearby.

Francisco Boulevard Link Is Discussed

The topic of discussion at last night's meeting of the San Anselmo Homes Association was a possible road link from Francisco Boulevard in San Anselmo to San Rafael, Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. announced.

A news story in Tuesday's issue of the Independent-Journal said the discussion would be on a road connection between Sleepy Hollow and Terra Linda. "It wasn't Sleepy Hollow but Francisco Boulevard extension to connect somewhere in San Rafael," said Arrigone.

Chicago 7 Case Far From Ended

CHICAGO (AP) — The government has won a split verdict in its prosecution of seven men accused of inciting violence at the time of the 1968 Democratic National Convention, but defense lawyers plan to contest the validity of the federal anti-riot law in higher courts.

A U.S. District Court jury convicted five men Wednesday of crossing state lines with the intent to incite rioting during the convention in August 1968.

But the jury of 10 women and 2 men acquitted all seven defendants of conspiracy to promote the bloody confrontations between police and antiwar demonstrators.

Two defendants, Lee Weiner and John R. Froines, were cleared of conspiracy and of a charge of teaching the use of incendiary devices. Froines and Weiner both resided in Chicago during the summer of 1968 and were not charged in the indictment with crossing state lines to incite rioting.

Convicted were David T. Dellinger, 54; Jerry C. Rubin, 31; Thomas E. Hayden, 30; Abbott "Abbie" Hoffman, 31, and Rennard C. "Rennie" Davis, 29.

Each man could be sentenced to a maximum of five years in prison and fined $10,000.

Judge Julius J. Hoffman did not set a date for sentencing.

All seven defendants are being held in the Cook County jail on contempt sentences imposed by Judge Hoffman last weekend. The sentences ranged from 2½ months to 2½ years. The judge has refused to grant bail on the contempt charges pending appeal .

The defense lawyers, William M. Kunstler and Leonad I. Weinglass, also were given prison terms for contemptuous conduct during the five-month trial —Kunstler 4 years 13 days, Weinglass 20 months 5 days. The judge stayed execution of their sentences to May 4.

Weinglass said late Wednesday that he hoped to file a motion by Friday seeking to have admitted to bail the five men convicted of inciting to riot.

He said appeals on the convictions themselves will be filed "as soon as possible."

Although the jury acquitted all seven men on the conspiracy charge, Weinglass said the conviction on the second count would provide an equal test of the federal statute's constitutionality.

Weinglass declared the statute "is unconstitutional to begin with" and that "there were so many errors in the course of the trial" that there would be many avenues of appeal.

"For one thing," Weinglass said, "the way the jury was picked." The defense contended that since the jury was selected from voter registration lists it omitted many young persons and black persons who did not choose to vote in the 1968 election.

Weinglass said the verdict "is obviously a compromise. The jury was deadlocked and they broke the deadlock by negotiating."

Kunstler said, "I would rather have them hanged than compromised."

Neither the lawyers nor their clients were prepared to hear a verdict when they entered Judge Hoffman's courtroom Wednesday. They came to argue a defense motion that the jury be declared deadlocked and a mistrial be ordered.

Judge Hoffman's bailiff reported, "The jury has reached a verdict."

The defendants were busy reading newspapers. Weinglass repeated the statement, "A verdict."

Rubin turned toward his wife Nancy, who was sitting with newsmen in the third spectator row. He said, "A verdict." He turned his thumbs downward.

The judge then granted a government motion to remove all families of the defendants because of their past behavior. The wives of Hoffman and Rubin, Dellinger's 13-year-old daughter, Weiner's girlfriend and Froines, mother-in-law were ejected.

Anita Hoffman, Abbie's wife, shouted at the judge, "The ten (the original eight defendants and their two lawyers) will be avenged. We'll dance on your grave, Julie."

Rubin's wife shouted from the hallway, "My husband is being sentenced and they won't let me watch."

Michelle Dellinger sobbed to her father, "I love you, daddy."

After the spectators were removed, the court clerk began reading the verdicts handed to him by Edward T. Kratzke, the jury foreman.

After reading the five guilty verdicts, the clerk announced Weiner was innocent of both charges. The defendants applauded. When the clerk read the innocent verdict for Froines, the defendant sobbed openly and was comforted by Kunstler who embraced him and began crying himself.

After the verdicts, the defense requested the jurors be polled.

The strain of 40 hours of deliberation in the 4½ days since the jury retired appeared to show on at least two jurors.

Jean Fritz was visibly shaken during the reading of the verdicts and was hardly able to speak when it was her turn to affirm the verdict.

The defendants had been convinced that Mrs. Fritz, a forty-ish blonde with children in college, was sympathetic to their cause.

Kay S. Richards, 23, the youngest juror, also spoke in a wavering voice when she affirmed the verdict.

The jurors refused to discuss their deliberations or details of the trial with newsmen.

Judge Hoffman set Friday for "dealing appropriately with the matter" of trascripts containing conversations of the defendants which the government admitted were obtained by wiretapping.

The judge said prior to the trial that in the event of a conviction he would rule after the verdict on whether the government used the wiretapped information in its presentation of evidence.

Mrs. Nixon Sets Campus Visits

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Richard M. Nixon will tour five college campuses March 2-6 to help focus attention on volunteer student activities.

"I hope my visit will encourage all young people to become involved in volunteer projects in their communities," she said after the announcement of the itinerary Wednesday.

A similar trip last November was cancelled because she was ill with the flu.

Policeman Dies Of Bomb Attack Wounds

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Police Sgt. Brian McDonnell, father of three and a 20-year veteran of the department, died Wednesday of wounds suffered in a bomb attack on a Haight-Ashbury police station.

Flags were lowered to half staff throughout the city—and voices were raised throughout the state in protest against the senseless bombing, which injured even other policemen Monday night.

The bomb, packed with inch-long industrial staples, exploded on the window sill of McDonnell's office at Park Station in Golden Gate Park. His jugular vein was severed and one of the staples lodged in his brain.

The attack occurred a few hours after hundreds of demonstrators protesting the Chicago conspiracy trial rioted in downtown Berkeley, causing an estimated $163,000 damage to 100 business establishments.

A similar bombing last Friday injured two policemen and destroyed two cars at the Berkeley Police Station.

Shortly after McDonnell's death, Gov. Ronald Reagan asked Attorney General John Mitchell to investigate "cowardly acts of terrorism and destruction" in the San Francisco Bay Area.

In a letter from his Sacramento office, Reagan told Mitchell that Berkeley, home of the University of California, has suffered "from a long series of violent confrontations planned by mindless revolutionaries who are dedicated to the overthrow of our democratic system of government and free way of life."

The governor said he wanted to know if anyone involved in the "recent terrorism crossed state lines to incite riots, or for other unlawful purposes."

Mayor Alioto, who earlier offered a $5,000 reward for information leading to capture and conviction of the bomber, promised to pursue McDonnell's "murderers relentlessly and ...vigorously prosecute all those involved in terrorism and violence."

Hearing Tuesday

Michael Edward Fenn, 31, of 327 San Francisco Boulevard, San Anselmo, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of possessing a check with intent to defraud. A preliminary hearing was set for next Tuesday.

Egyptian Warplanes Again Hit Israelis Along Canal

TEL AVIV (AP) — Egyptian planes attacked Israeli positions along the Suez Canal today for the third day in succession, but an Israeli spokesman said there were no casualties.

An Egyptian broadcast claimed all the planes returned safely after hitting targets "with precision" and accomplishing "the missions with success."

A Soviet correspondent reported from Cairo today that an Egyptian air force pilot who recently shot down the first Israeli Phantom jet has been made a hero and is known popularly as "Phantom One."

Although the correspondent did not say so, the Egyptian apparently was flying a Soviet-built MIG21, one of the approximately 200 such fighters delivered to Egypt about a year ago.

Israel received its first Phantoms last December. They are considered vastly superior to the MIG21s.

U.N. Secretary-General U Thant met in Geneva with Gunnar Jarring, his special representative for the Middle East, but said today they agreed that for the moment "there is no sufficient basis" for Jarring to renew his attempts to lay the groundwork for Arab-Israeli peace.

Pierhead Line Still Big Issue

The location of a pierhead line, which has a bearing on development, is still an issue in the long-discussed central waterfront plan for Sausalito.

Sausalito planning commissioners focused on the pierhead line last night as they started reviewing 30 amendments to the plan proposed by the city council.

As planned, the pierhead line would be straight along Railroad Avenue, an underwater street. Commissioner Violette Autumn contended it would be better if the line, which would mark the outer edge of any development, were curved in the shape of a cove.

Her motion to recommend a curved line was passed by a 2-1 vote with Chairman Robert L. Nissen dissenting and Virginia Pasquinucci abstaining. Commissioner Thomas H. Gildersleeve, reportedly ill, was absent.

There was some doubt that two votes were sufficient for passage, but a check of the by-laws revealed that it was, since only a majority of those voting was necessary.

E. Elmore Hutchison, president of Sausalito Properties, contended property owners wouldn't be able to do anything under the curved pierline proposal.

At the start of the meeting Planning Director H. Eric Borgwardt explained that the council proposed maintaining the interior bulkhead line along the present shoreiine.

The new proposals change the concept of the original plan, regarding inboard and outboard use, he explained.

Under the original plan by William E. Spangle and Associates, there could have been fill jetties, piers and piles over water. The proposed change doesn't eliminate piers, but limits the amount of construction on piles over water.

Now the outboard area would be for yacht harbor, limited fueling facilities and boatels, boat rentals or charters.

Commissioners can recommend a line of demarcation between the bulkhead line and pierhead line, a line dividing high intensity use inboard and low intensity use in the water area, he said.

Commissioners agreed with the concept of limiting off-street parking in the area to serve only adjacent businesses where parking is essential to the business.

They also agreed that traffic circulation should be planned to minimize disruption to the residential area, and there should be separation of pedestrian and vehicular traffic.

They also approved a proposal by the council that the site for a city hall, library and city park be designated the Litho Street-Bridgeway area, thus indicating such facilities could be east or west of Bridgeway.

There was some dispute about whether the council intended to indicate two blocks, from Litho to Napa streets, east of Bridgeway for a city park area.

Nissen pointed out the original area designated for park was from Locust Street to Bee Street. Commissioners agreed to defer action until the proposed park boundaries were clarified.

Commissioners also agreed with a proposed change to deemphasize parking in the sandspit area, and said boat harbor use should be expanded north of the sandspit.

They also agreed that business in the Caledonia Street area should be developed primarily to serve Sausalito residents.

Commissioners also approved a series of changes in wording, that didn't change substance, and less than halfway through the list at midnight agreed to meet again at 8 p.m. Wednesday at city hall to continue reviewing the proposed amendments to the plan

The planning commission also continued until March 4 at 8 p.m. at city hall a hearing on an application by John W. and Maxine Mackey for a lot split at 65 Monte Mar Drive, which was opposed by a petition, with 17 signatures, citing traffic problems because of narrow streets in the area.

It also took under study a protest from 22 persons in the vicinity of the 500-600 block of Sausalito Boulevard against gunniting of a slide area at 529 Sausalito Boulevard.

BILLIONAIRE'S HANOI PROJECT

Marin Pilot Relives Perot Mission

BY GEORGE NEVIN

It's been said that a man can't serve two masters, but Capt. George N. Phillips of San Rafael didn't find it hard to work both for Braniff International Air Lines and Texas billionaire H. Ross Perot.

Perot is the would-be Santa whose efforts to fly 26 tons of Christmas gifts to American captives in Hanoi in December were unsuccessful, but not futile.

Phillips, of 1787 Gallinas Avenue, was the pilot who flew Perot from Hong Kong to Vientiane to Tokyo to Anchorage to Copenhagen in an attempt to deliver the goods.

"Working for Ross Perot was the easiest thing in the world," the blue-eyed, 48-year-old ex-Marine said yesterday. 'You'd never know he's worth a billion. It doesn't change his outlook one bit."

Although Perot's name was constantly in the news for almost two weeks, Phillips said that "the trip wasn't for publicity."

Instead the 39-year-old former International Business Machine salesman, said to have built a personal fortune of $1.5 billion in eight years with his Electronic Data Systems in Dallas, has made plain he did it for "purely humanitarian and non-political reasons."

Phillips, who ordinarily flies scheduled runs for Braniff, first got word that he would be involved in perhaps the year's most bizzare game of hide-and-seek when he was told to fly to Hong Kong to take over a charter flight.

There Phillips was told his part in the mercy mission: To fly the 707 jet transport with Perot, 30 members of the party and 26 tons of gifts and food to Vientiane.

Another Marin resident, Braniff stewardess Karin Freytag of Sausalito, now vacationing in Europe, played a vital role in the mission: She interpreted for Perot in French and German at various embassies.

BILLIONAIRE'S PILOT — Capt. George N. Phillips of San Rafael looks over the only relics of the 12-day, 35,000-mile flight — snapshots and newspaper clippings. "We were too busy to go out and buy souvenirs," he said.
(Independent-Journal photo)

"We hit our first snag in Laos," Phillips said. There Perot and Miss Freytag sipped tea with North Vietnamese diplomats for an hour and a-half, only to be informed that Hanoi would not permit them to deliver the presents to the Americans.

"He didn't seem too disappointed," Phillips recalled. "He just wanted to know what to do next."

The cue came from the balky North Vietnamese, who said the only way to get the gifts into the country would be to fly them to Moscow in time to mail them by Dec. 31.

"I don't think they expected us to take them up on their suggestion," Phillips said. But Perot surprised them by directing Phillips to file a flight plan to Moscow via Burma, India and Rome.

The Burmese first gave airspace clearance, and then withdrew it mysteriously. India would not even acknowledge the request.

"I'm sure they thought they had us stopped right there," Phillips said. But they hadn't reckoned with the self-made billionaire.

"We were within 260 miles of Hanoi and we had to turn around and go the other way," said Phillips. This time it was to Anchorage, Alaska, via Tokyo.

"When we got to Anchorage we stopped long enough to unload the plane, rewrap the cargo in six-pound parcels, and reload." Phillips said this was necessary to mail the packages through the Soviet postal system.

Then they were in the air again, flying the polar route to Copenhagen. "The weirdest part of the trip was the 32 hours of constant darkness from Alaska to Denmark," Phillips said. "We were just too far north to see the sun."

In Denmark Perot and friends finally discovered what they had suspected all along—the Soviets had no intention of letting them fly the 800 miles to Moscow. The mission had proved impossible.

It was a disappointed but far from silent group that flew back to the United States Jan. 1. "We celebrated the New Year with a little champagne," Phillips admitted.

Back in Dallas, Perot said his efforts hadn't ended. "The cargo is still there waiting for the Communists to change their minds," Phillips said. "Perot has a complete staff working on getting the goods to Hanoi."

Does Phillips think there will be a next time, another chance to brighten the captivity of American prisoners caught in the impersonal grip of Vietnam?

"I hope so," he said, "and I hope I'll be the pilot the next time, too."

Kidney Ailment Fells Novelist

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — Novelist Erle Stanley Gardner, whose favorite character "Perry Mason" never lost a case in court, appears to be winning a serious bout with a kidney ailment.

The 80-year-old novelist was reported much improved Wednesday night in Riverside Community Hospital.

A spokesman at the author's 3,000-acre Ranch del Paisano near Temecula, 40 miles southeast of here, said Gardner had been hospitalized about three weeks.

Peace Symbol Adorns Checks

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The peace symbol leads the American eagle in popularity as a design for "personality extension checks," says a bank check manufactuer.

Richard Hewitt, vice president and general manager of the Los Angeles firm that prints the checks for banks to sell to their customers at $2.95 for 200, added Wednesday that both designs trail a psychedelic print as the most popular check his firms prints.

One bank spokesman said "Our 276 branches in the state are introducing the peace symbol check to compete better for the huge youth market."

Jail Riot Flares In Santa Clara

SAN JOSE (UPI)—About 100 angry inmates at Santa Clara County Jail set fire to their mattresses and smashed other furnishings and windows Wednesday night.

Sheriff's Capt. Melvin Riley said the violence broke out shortly after a television news program which showed scenes of the "Chicago Seven" trial.

Eventually, about 50 officers were called to restore peace. Several deputies suffered minor injuries and one prisoner was hospitalized with a head injury.

Fall Victim Fair

Claire B. Bottleson, 81, of 2126 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael, was reported in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital with a fractured left hip substained around midnight when she fell down her back stairs, according to police.

Drinking and eating places constitute the major portion, 24.3 per cent, of Alaska's retail establishments.

Study Slated On Juvenile Delinquency

Marin County juvenile delinquency prevention commissioners agreed yesterday to develop a profile of juvenile delinquency in Marin.

The study will cover the amount, type and rate of delinquency and its variations, the extent of communication and coordination among agencies involved in dealing with delinquency, educative or preventive programs involving specific delinquency problems, dispositions and followup procedures.

The study is the first step in the development of a coordinated plan for delinquency prevention throughout Marin, the commission declared in a statement of purpose.

Commissioners joining in teams of two will gather the information by interviewing law enforcement, school, probation department and juvenile court personnel.

To get moving on the study, commissioners agreed to meet again March 4 at 4 p.m. at Room 400-A at the Marin Civic Center, two weeks eariler than the regularly scheduled meeting date.

Rare Surgery Done To Curb Blood Pressure

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A tiny artery from the groin of a 7-year-old Australian boy was transplanted to the youth's right kidney by a team of UCLA urologists in a rare operation Wednesday.

The boy, Peter Sarandopoulos of Sydney, was flown here to be cured of a rare form of high blood pressure in children. The affliction was due to a narrowing of the arteries that served his two kidneys.

Doctors said the operation appeared to be a success but indicated it would take at least a week to be certain.

The piece of the artery taken in the transplant was only a quarter-inch long, doctors said.

Immediately following the surgery, doctors said, the boy's blood pressure dropped to normal after being extremely high for the last four years

Several years ago doctors in Australia had removed Peter's left kidney in an effort to reduce the blood pressure but it soon climbed again.

"Truthfully, here's a buy worthy of my birthday."

Collier Profits In Schrade Coup

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — The Senate's old guard, back in the catbird seat with the election last week of Jack Schrade, R-San Diego, yesterday rewarded 11 supporters with committee chairmanships.

The key change was replacement of Sen. James Mills, D-San Diego, with Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, as chairman of the transportation committee.

Collier, "father of California freeways," chaired the committee for 20 years until dumped last year when a coalition of younger, urban senators displaced the old guard with Sen Howard Way, R-Exeter, who lasted 10 months.

Collier's return to the chairmanship spelled the death again of legislation to use gas taxes for transit, observers agreed.

Mills said that Collier's chairmanship meant that the "highway lobby known as 'Randy's ratpack' will ride high." It also meant that the controversial Southern Crossing from San Francisco to Alameda, opposed by conservationists and transit proponents, will be pushed through, Mills said.

Also rewarded for his support of Schrade was Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, who got the chairmanship of the Insurance and Financial Institutions Committee.

Mills, in what he termed "a calculated insult" by Schrade, was named chairman of the Senate Select Committee on Salinity Intrusion in Agricultural Soils.

Schrade also enlarged the committee system from Way's streamlined 15 to 17, a move ratified, 30-0. The new committees are the water committee, split off from the natural resources and wildlife committee, and the public utilities committee, split off from McCarthy's committee.

The chairman of the natural resources committee, Sen. Robert J. Lagomarsino, R-Ventura, said he had mixed feelings about the division of his committee, the upper house's "environmental" committee.

He said it would make his workload easier, but might lessen the importance of the committee.

Schrade named Way to chair the Government Organization Committee, but to do it bounced a Way supporter, Sen. Louis F. Sherman, R-Oakland.

Other Schrade backers named as committee chairmen were Sen. Fred Marler, R-Redding, agriculture; Sen. Alfred Song, D-Monterey, business and professions; Sen. James Whetmore, R-Garden Grove, elections and reapportionment; Sen. Alan Short, D-Stockton, industrial relations; Sen. Ralph Dills, D-Los Angeles, public utilities; and Sen. William E. Coombs, R-Rialto, water.

Way loyalists retaining posts were Sen Albert S. Rodda, D-Sacramento, education; Sen. Donald Grunsky, R-Santa Cruz, finance; Sen. Anthony C. Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills, health and welfare; and Sen. Gordon Cologne, R-Indio, judiciary.

Retaining their chairmanships were two Schrade supporters, Sen. John G. Schmitz, R-Tustin, local government, and Sen. Walter W. Stiern, D-Bakersfield, revenue and taxation.

Mayor Putnam To Accept Prize

Petaluma Mayor Helen Putnam will leave for Washington, D.C., Sunday to accept the city's distinguished achievement award for its beautification campaign.

The award will be presented Tuesday as part of the National Congress on Beautification sponsored by the National Clean-up, Paint-up, Fix-up Bureau.

Mrs. Putnam will also attend sessions of the congress and trade plans for beautification with representatives of other cities.

Petaluma won the national award for its spring and fall clean up campaigns directed by Agnes McGilvra of radio station KTOB. A scrapbook detailing community activities was prepared by James Morris, an art teacher at Petaluma Junior High School.

Jones, Allen Unopposed For Seats

Ross mayor Frederick S. Allen and Vice Mayor Roy F. Jones have filed for reelection to the Ross Town Council.

The two incumbents will be unopposed in the April 14 primary election.

Allen, 58, is a graduate of Harvard University. He was appointed to the council in 1960, and elected to four-year terms en 1962 and 1966. He was elected mayor in 1964 and 1966.

He is a member of the American Society of Naval Engineers, the American Ordinance Association, the California State Firemen's Association, the Ross Volunteer Fire Department and the Marin Audubon Society.

He and his wife, Barbara, live at 131 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Ross. They have four children.

Jones was born in San Francisco and has spent most of his life in Marin County. He has been a partner in the realty firm of Farrington Jones and Son since 1946.

He was elected to four-year terms on the council in 1962 and 1966 and has also served as a member of the Town of Ross Citizens Advisory Committee and as a director of the Town of Ross Property Owners Association.

Jones, 44, is a member and was secretary for eight years of the Marin County Real Estate Board. He belongs to the American Rights of Way Association and is a life member of the Marin County Historical Society. He and his family live at 20 Olive Avenue.

Ivy Baker Priest Set To Run For Reelection

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—State Treasurer Ivy Baker Priest, first woman elected to a California statewide office, today announced her candidacy for reelection to a second four-year term.

Mrs. Priest, a Republican, promised to fight for a "return to investment market stability" and added this depends in part on "confidence that investors have in national and state efforts to combat inflation."

"Investment managers who purchase public securities must be convinced that California's fiscal affairs are being guided by experienced leadership, a leadership dedicated to low-cost government and fiscal integrity," she said in a statement.

Mrs. Priest, treasurer of the United States under President Eisenhower, defeated Democratic incumbent Bert Betts for the state post in 1966.

She is expected to be unopposed in the Republican primary.

No Democrat has formally declared his candidacy for treasurer.

Mrs. Priest said that since 1967, investments by the treasurer's office earned more than $250 million.

She said that by the end of her term "our investment program will have realized a return of more than $350 million in interest for the four-year period. This is the highest figure in history for any state in the nation." includes previous

Parolee Booked In Drug Probe

A 44-year-old San Rafael paroled convict was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on suspicion of possessing marijuana and parole violation.

Keith George Van Bree of 637 Mission Avenue, paroled from the California Men's Colony at San Luis Obispo where he was serving a sentence for armed robbery,was to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

A parole agent investigating a fraud complaint against Van Bree discovered a plastic bag containing what was believed marijuana and cigarette papers, a butt and three pipes in his closet at 8:50 p.m., police reported.

Pair Hurt In Head-On Crash

A Sausalito motorist and his passenger were injured yesterday when their auto was involved in a head-on crash on Mount Tamalpais.

The injured, driver Gerald W. Beisler, 27, of Gate 6, and Ramond D. Moffat, 18, of 34 Catalpa Avenue, Mill Valley, said they would seek treatment by their own physicians. Beisler complained of knee pains and Moffat suffered a cut nose.

The California Highway Patrol said the accident happened at 2:40 p.m. on Panoramic Highway near the Pan Toll ranger station when a car driven by Robin F. Buckley, 16, of 625 Robin Drive, Corte Madera, swerved over the center line into Beisler's auto. Miss Buckley said she swerved to avoid a squirrel in the road.

CONSTRUCTION SITE — This is the construction site at the Bonnerplatz in Munich where the city's new subway line passes on the way to the 1972 Olympic area. There will be an 11-minute run from downtown Munich to the games. (AP Wirephoto)

DUE FOR OLYMPICS

Munich's Subway To Open April, '72

MUNICH, Germany (AP) — An important event in the 1972 Olympics will be an 11-minute run: from downtown Munich to the Olympic site 4.2 miles away.

It will be via a new subway which this centuries-old Bavarian city is building to keep from being slowly strangled by street traffic.

A test strip is already being used and hundreds of workmen are toiling to complete the section leading to the Olympics. George Sarkoezy, a spokesman for the subway authority, says 9.6 miles will be open by April 1972.

As a corollary the government-operated railway system is building a 2½-mile tunnel through the center of Munich to connect its main and east stations. The railway and the subway will cross and provide connections at Marienplatz underneath Munich's 100-year-old City Hall and near such landmarks as the Munich Hofbrauhaus.

The Marienplatz station, which will contain the electrical brains of the subway system, is now a 100-foot excavation. Workmen swarm over a structural steel skeleton in which four levels of tracks and station platforms are taking shape.

The subway construction is disrupting traffic. This is a headache to Munich officials and motorists, but a necessary one.

Munich is near Alpine vacation areas and is a gateway to Italy. It is West Germany's fastest-growing city. The population jumped from a half million in 1950 to 1.1 million in 1963 and 1.3 million today.

Lord Mayor Hans Jochen Vogel says creation of an underground transportation system "is one of the conditions for saving the city center, as the heart of Munich, from drowning in the flood of motor traffic."

The first subway section, due to open late next year, will run from Goetheplatz in the city's southern section to Marienplatz, through the university district and to Kieferngarten in the north.

Just past the university area, the line will branch off to the Olympic site. The tunnels are completed and now the finishing work has to be done.

One three-mile section is already open for testing, driver training and demonstration rides. Hundreds of visitors each month take a brief ride in cars painted blue and white—the col-

Herman C. Zwat of Mill Valley has announced his candidacy for a seat on the Marin Municipal Water District board.

Zwat, the first to file papers for the water district election June 2, seeks to represent Division 4. William A. Marcus of Kentfield, whose term is expiring, is incumbent director from that division.

Seats for Division 1, held by Dr. Leo L. Stanley of Fairfax and a Division 3, Jordan L. Martinelli Jr. of Kentfield, are also open to election.

He said he would work for responsible planning for future requirements and closer scrutiny of long term objectives and immediate needs of the district.

"As an engineer and businessman, I feel I can make a significant contribution to the plans and policies that the MMWD will be called upon to develop," Zwat said.

He is a member of the Audubon Society, Marin Conservation League, Marin County Taxpayers Association, and California Homeowners Association.

An eight year resident in the county he lives with his wife, Denise, son, Nicholas, 4, and daughter Kristin, 2, at 85 Helens Lane.

ors of the Wittelsbach dynasty that controlled Bavaria for 750 years.

The electronically driven cars are 9½ feet wide, roomier than most systems have.

Munich's system is built so it can be operated automatically without conductors or engineers on each train, but it will start out with engineers.

"It's for psychological reasons," said Sarkoezy. "Bavarians tend to be a bit conservative and if we didn't have drivers a lot of people might not climb in."

It won't be a particularly fast system such as that planned for the San Francisco area. Top speed will be 48 miles an hour but the trains can accelerate to that in 40 seconds.

Construction costs are financed from tax revenue. The first north-south section will cost the equivalent of $187 million with the federal government paying half this from taxes on gasoline and oil. Of the remaining half Munich will pay two-thirds and the state of Bavaria one-third.

The Olympic line will cost $44 million with the federal government, the state and the city each paying a third.

While the immediate goal is the Olympics, the subway system will be expanded after 1972 and is expected to reach a total length of 60 miles by 1990.

New Librarian For Petaluma Is Announced

Alice M. Hanna, Kings County librarian, has been named Petaluma city librarian effective April 1, according to Kenneth M. Wightman, president of the library board.

Miss Hanna will replace Edna R. Bovett who retired July 1. Doris Cole, who has been acting librarian, will continue in that capacity until Miss Hanna arrives.

A native of Missouri, she is a graduate of Northwestern Missouri State College with a bachelor's degree in education with an English major. She taught school for two years and attended the University of Illinois Library School for a second degree.

She moved to California in 1946 as head of the school department for the Kern County Library and later was librarian for Siskiyou County Library, Klamath County Library, Klamath Falls, Ore., and in 1955 became head librarian for Kings County.

Her salary range will be $736 to $894 per month.

Roast beef is the most popular meat dish in Britain, but a poll indicates steak is gaining favor.

Sausalito Parents Dismiss Criticism

The Marin County Grand Jury's criticism of the Sausalito School District were dismissed yesterday as "an incredible mixture of innuendo, opinion, outmoded value judgments and facts taken out of context" by a group of parents whose children attend schools in the district.

Meanwhile, Citizens for Excellence in Education, a group that has been highly critical of the Sausalito district board and administration in the past, scheduled a meeting at 8 p.m. tonight in Campbell Hall of Christ Episcopal Church, Santa Rosa Avenue and San Carlos Avenue, Sausalito.

In a statement prepared for an impromptu press conference, the parents group charged that while the jury had found no evidence of misconduct or crime in district operations, their report "had polluted the air with unsubstantiated allegations, misstatement of fact and dredging up of old anxieties."

Answering the jury's criticisms of black militant activities in district schools, Mrs Joel Kudler, who has one child in a district school, said she felt the district had dealt with the matter in a realistic way.

"Black militants are part of the scene, what's happening all around us," she said, "Can we pretend this is not happening—our children don't live or go to school in a vacuum."

"I think the Sausalito schools are attempting to reach black children in a way that no other district has tried," she said, "and I feel I and my children can deal with black militantism."

Stuart Miller, father of two children who attend schools in the district, rapped the jury's statement that Martin Luther King was the only school in Marin to fall below national and state averages in standard reading tests.

"The national average for black students is much lower than for whites, and we believe this is a condition of racism," he said, and was applauded by several members of the small audience of parents who attended the conference.

Miller said it was "ridiculous and illogical" to apply the standards applied for all white districts to integrated schools, and indicated he thought the Sausalito district was making significant educational progress and would make greater strides in the future.

He also criticized the jury's contention that enrollment in the district has dropped sharply because parents are dissatisfied with academic programs. He said most schools in the country are experiencing a drop in enrollment due to a declining birth rate and the fact that the children of the post-war baby boom are for the most part out of school.

In addition, Miller declared that Sausalito is becoming an adult community — "80 per cent of the housing built in the last ten years has been apartments"—which increases the adult population of the city but does not add substantially to the number of children. Miller went on to say that Sausalito is also becoming a community of wealthy persons who "will send their children to private schools no matter what the public schools are like."

Session On Foreign Travel Is Wednesday

Work or Study Abroad, a national firm with a Menlo Park regional office, will conduct a meeting at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday for students and parents interested in studying and traveling in foreign countries this summer.

Among the 22 trips the firm will be running, three—to Innsbruck, Austria; Oxford, England, and Nairobi, Kenya—will me staffed by Marin high school teachers.

Four Panthers Acquitted On Nuisance Count

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Municipal Court Judge Harry Low found four Black Panthers innocent Wednesday on charges they committed a nuisance by selling Panther literature on Market Street.

Those acquitted, all of San Francisco, were Dennis Rogers, 20; James Burford, 20; Rubin Scott, 17, and William Hill, 18. They waived the right of jury trial.

The judge said he based his ruling on the police report.

He said there was a basis for police to make the arrest last May for investigation, but there was insufficient evidence to bear out charges of "willfully and maliciously obstructing the free movement of people on the sidewalk."

Stop Smoking Clinic Scheduled

A smoking withdrawal clinic will be offered by the Redwood Adult School in Larkspur beginning at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Classes will also meet March 2, 3, 4, 5 and 9.

The clinic is cosponsored by the Marin Inter-Agency Council on Smoking, which is composed of the county tuberculosis and heart associations, department of mental health and the American Cancer Society.

Three previous clinics have resulted in 60 percent of the participants reducing their smoking 50 percent or more after 2 months, the school reported.

Year's Major Project: Special Viet Packages

The sending of 700 ditty bags containing gifts to servicemen in Vietnam at Christmas time was among the special programs undertaken last year by the Marin County Chapter, American National Red Cross.

In its recently released annual report for 1968-69, the chapter reported that the ditty bags were sewn by San Quentin inmates who volunteered their labor.

A shop class at Davidson Junior High School in San Rafael constructed two wooden chests for Vietnam, which were stocked with health, educational and recreational supplies by the Red Cross High School Youth Council, for use in refugee camp schools.

Listed as other highlights of the year were the creation of a new post, community programs chairman, formation of a canteen service for disasters, start of an institute to train men to become First Aid instructors, a hospital arts and crafts program at Hamilton Air Force Base and an information night program at the base to acquaint military families with Red Cross services available.

There was a $1,037 deficit in chapter operations during the fiscal year July 1, 1968-June 30, 1969, reported Charles Convis, treasurer. The chapter had $135,743 in operating income, but $51,014 was disbursed to the American National Red Cross, leaving $84,729 for chapter operation. The chapter expenditures for the fiscal year were $85,766.

The chapter noted that next month has been designated Red Cross Month by Presidential proclamation, and asked for both financial and volunteer support.

Machines Taken

A thief stole two electric adding machines valued at $200 each and a $513 movie projector from the adult education classroom at Terra Linda High School between last Wednesday and Monday, San Rafael police reported yesterday.

1,400 Will Join In National Show

More than 1,400 4-H Club members and Future Farmers of America including Marin and Sonoma County youth scheduled to enter the Grand National Junior Livestock Exposition March 21 through 25 at the Cow Palace in South San Francisco.

Deadline for arrival of steers, hogs, sheep and dairy cattle at the Cow Palace is 3 p.m. March 21, reported Graham Kislingbury, public relations director.

There will be a hog auction, March 24, lamb and cattle auctions, March 25.

Petaluma Plans Commission Asks Member Increase

A recommendation to increase its membership from five to eight members was made Tuesday night by the Petaluma Planning Commission.

The members said that if the commission were larger, a three-man board could serve as a zoning board of adjustments and hear requests for rezoning and variances.

The commission said the other five members could then be free to consider only planning matters. Members would rotate service on the two groups.

The recommendation will be considered by the city council March 2.

The Petaluma Planning Commission also:

REZONING—Approved the request of Jack Garrison to rezone 1796 East Washington Street from single family residential to professional-medical and community commercial. A restaurant, stores and medical offices are planned.

NAME CHANGE—Recommended that the city council change the name of McDowell Road to North McDowell Boulevard to conform as the extension of South McDowell Boulevard.

USE PERMIT—Deferred until March 3 the application of Vonsen Milling Co. to enlarge its building at 205 Second Street.

Candy, Coins Taken

Burglars took candy and coins from a pinball machine at the Town and Country Billiards, 29 Kentucky Street, Petaluma, sometime Tuesday morning, police reported yesterday. They said a window on a rear door had been broken to gain entry.

Richard Tam's Triple-Theme Show

By EDITH M. LEDERER

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Designer Richard Tam ushers in spring with a peek back to lush Medieval days of Camelot, a splash of current Oriental splendor and a whimsical dash into the space age of the '70s.

In his triple-theme show, which he took to Chicago yesterday, long-haired hippies in crocheted minidress vied with Kabuki-wigged mannequins in Oriental motifs and regal-looking models in cleavage-revealing ball gowns.

The 28 - year - old Chinese American designer, a native San Franciscan, says women now have total fashion freedom and will not become absolutely dependent on either the mini, midi or maxi look.

"I think the midi will become an acceptable length," he added, "but women aren't going to have all-midi wardrobes like they did after the war in 1947 because now you can wear anything you please."

In his spring collection, hemlines are mostly above the knee. As Tam explained, "I didn't think that the customers were ready for all that fabric around their ankles for spring and summer, but some hemlines certainly will be longer for fall."

"This business," Tam said, "reflects so much the momentary values of our society. Like now, society is unsure of itself and afraid so it's reflecting back and picking up the '30s length, the '20s look, the Renaissance.

"We're going into the space age, but we're not ready for it so we revert back to the past, to costumery, to some period we feel secure in.

"Eventually," Tam said, "people will catch up with the age we are living in, but we're not there yet."

'Revolution' Of The '60s Leads To New Set Of Morals

NEW YORK (UPI) — The 1960s brought right out into public erotica that would have the Victorians reeling in their graves. Openly sexual themes and acts moved onto stage and screen. New sexual permissiveness became the talk and act of youth.

All this "revolution" was in the decade just ended. What of the decades ahead? Answer: A swing into a whole new pattern of mores, a whole new set of morals in the next three decades.

SEX, JUST for procreation's sake, will be rare. It will become instead a "communicative act with another person."

A learned discussion of sex by the year 2000 shows in the current edition of the Journal of Home Economics, official publication of the American Home Economics Association, and a woman does the discussing, Dr. Marjorie East, head of the home economics education department of the College of Education at Pennsylvania State University.

Her predictions for changes in the outlook on "that ever popular topic"—sex—is part of a comprehensive article called "Family Life by the Year 2000."

Dr. East predicts that sex will get less interesting, less exciting "as a subject anyway."

SHE SAYS: "When all girls are inoculated against ovulation at, say age 10, and need to take out a baby license before they can get the pill or shot that temporarily allows fertility, then sex becomes something very different from the dangerous social explosive that we have to worry about and make moral rules about.

"Quite likely, it will become not only possible, and fashionable, but a legal necessity to control the number, the sex, the genetic inheritance of children, and also the kind of parental relationships they inherit."

". . . It seems to me," she continues, "that sex with intention to commit parenthood will be rare, but sex as an intimate communicative act with another person will not be rare, or confined to the family as we think of it today. If we define a family as a father, mother and child or children, a license representing the permission of society may be necessary before beginning a family."

But she says, "A marriage, or one of the less committing relationships between two people: engagement, being pinned, going steady, etc. may not require social approval of the same kind as the family license. Margaret Mead, the anthropologist, is suggesting such a differentiation between short-term companionship and long - term parental commitments."

DR. EAST states emphatically that, "I do believe the family is here to stay."

The educator continues, "I do not mean to slide over the importance of marriage or whatever we will choose to call that intimate commitment of two people to each other.

"It seems to me that in the interdependent, tightly populated, urban organization we will have for a society, the sense of private individuality and personal feelings of worth will be found in this close marriage of two people.

"Indeed, without this level of intensity and honest communication with another fellow human, we are less than human, less an individual temple of God or soul or person. . .

"This communication is not always with one other person for a lifetime, not always with another person of your own age group . . . in the world to come there will be private pockets of communication and oneness between people."

Dr. East concludes that the changes in the family structure will make new demands on educators who must bury hypocrisy and "be sensitive to the wide diversity of positions that are taken by people."

Madeline Pennisi Honored At USF

Madeline Pennisi, a senior at the University of San Francisco, was initiated into Gamma Pi Epsilon, the National Jesuit honor sorority, at a special ceremony Sunday at the university. Daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Vincent Pennisi of Mill Valley, she is majoring in Spanish and minoring in Italian and physical education. She is a student physical education teacher at Mount Carmel School in Mill Valley.

Madeline, a graduate of San Domenico School in San Anselmo, was chosen for the honor sorority for scholarship and participation in campus activities.

Over-The-Counter Drug Facts

By BARBARA HOSMER

Some facts and fantasies about non-prescription cough syrups, vitamins, cold pills and tiredness tonics were discussed by a Berkeley pharmacist in the consumer education series held in San Anselmo Tuesday.

"The rate that non-prescription drugs sell surprises me and often may not be connected with what is needed," said Adolph Kamil, pharmacist for the Co-op's Berkeley store.

"A substantial portion of drugs that people have in their bathrooms are of no value in their use," he said. "Vitamin C, for example, is harmless, but if you are thinking of economy you should know the facts," he told the women attending the program.

He cited the common belief that vitamin C will prevent or cure a cold.

"There is no evidence that it has any relation to colds at all. We try to give this information to the customer but it's hard because they may want to believe it helps," he said.

He said that the consumer generally gets information from television, word of mouth, books and periodicals, some which have a faddist approach and give wrong information about drugs.

The people, for instance, who say that vitamin C helped them cure a cold are honest but they don't understand that drugs react differently in different people and also differently at different times in the same person, as his physiology varies, Kamil said.

"WITH A COLD you get well anyway without taking anything," he pointed out, adding that sometimes a person may feel better simply because he has taken something and received a psychological lift.

There is wide variation on non-prescription drugs' effectiveness, said Kamil. Aspirin is a very effective and generally safe drug, he said, but he cautioned that any drug taken has some side effects, although they may be relatively harmless.

Kamil added that some decongestants can be effective, and that vitamins such as C are, of course, effective for deficiency cases, but that generally enough vitamins are taken into the body from a balanced diet. Much money is wasted on vitamin supplements, he said, and advocated vitamins be dispensed only by prescription.

He stated that the idea that an iron tonic can be remedy for tiredness is a myth, and that gelatin can strengthen fingernails is unproven in testing. But he pointed out that the psychological factors are hard to isolate in testing a drug's effectiveness. Anti-smoking capsules, for example, were difficult to test because it was hard to tell whether beneficial effects came from the drug's action or that the mere idea of taking something helped, Kamil said.

FEDERAL LAW now demands that every new drug marketed must be shown effective as well as safe. But the provision that old drugs continue to be tested in coming years has not been of much use, Kamil said, because it is difficult for the Food and Drug Administration procedurally to put it into effect. Hearings must be held on a drug's effectiveness, the FDA decides, and then the drug companies can delay withdrawal of their ineffective products through legal appeal.

"Though a prepondurance of scientific opinion may have found them ineffective, many old drugs are still on the market," the pharmacist said.

Labeling laws require that only the active ingredients of a drug be listed, not binders or fillers, and that the label does not have to say how much of an active ingredient a drug contains. But the dosage on the label must be correct—saying how often to use, how much and what the hazards may be, Kamil said.

"READ THE labels carefully before using the drug, follow the dosage and generally you will be safe," he told the audience.

Before a drug is marketed it must be proved safe, and many drugs are rejected by the FDA, he said.

He stated that sometimes a drug's safety is hard to test. Calling himself a conservative on drug use generally, the pharmacist recalled the Thalidomide disaster of a few years ago when deformed children resulted from its use during pregnancy.

"All the tests they could think of came out all right. Then some years later it was shown that severe birth defects correlated with use of Thalidomide. No one could have predicted it, nobody is to blame. It's just that drugs can have unpredictable results.

"With marijuana no serious harmful effects are showing, but risks may be evident later."

THE MOST important point, Kamil emphasized, is that there

This is a woman who doesn't want to look like her daughter.

She exists, you know. The woman who cares about fashion, but doesn't want to live in pants or discard her underwear. Perhaps you share her feelings and are wondering where to turn. If so, why not turn to us. We don't think over-29 is over-the-hill—and we have clothes to prove it. Real suits. Smashing little dresses and costumes. HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Many Happily Married People Wrote To Tell What It Takes

DEAR READERS:

When I told you last week that cats and Santa Claus stirred up the most comment in recent months, I hadn't yet received the deluge of answers to "Swinging Single" (who wondered if all young marrieds were as out-of-love as most appeared to be.)

I'll print all I can squeeze into a couple of columns and ship the rest on to SS with best wishes for an early change of heart.

Forthwith:

DEAR HELEN:

You asked to hear from happily-marrieds. I'm sure you'll get more than enough letters without mine. But I'm so deliriously, ecstatically happy I'd like to shout it, and HHU is a great microphone. Now hear this world:

We both waited for, and now work at, being happy. My husband's first marriage was not. He's the first to admit, however, that both made mistakes. RULE NO. 1: It takes two to make or break a marriage.

Second, I had gotten all my "single swinging" done before marriage. Women need this as much as men do: Bright lights, loud music, late hours, intimate dinners for two, the whole bit. Have a ball and keep an open mind. Don't look so hard for a mate. Don't worry so much about the future. Enjoy life and take your time. RULE NO. 2: If you run hysterically toward, (or from) a specific place or thing you'll miss much along the way, and be out of breath when you get there. Result: An eventual feeling of loss or resentment.

Also, my husband and I have a sense of humor about ourselves. It helps to be able to chuckle over some minor catastrophe. It also helps to know when not to laugh. The strong arms that hold you and the kisses that dry weepy eyes; and the soft gentle hand that caresses his hair, mean so much and cost so very little. RULE NO. 3: Humor and tenderness are the tranquilizers of marriage.

These things, however, need a springboard to put them into action. You've got to have human understanding and strength of character, sometimes enough for two when your partner falters, or takes out his (her) frustrations on you. You need empathy. RULE NO. 4: Use your head for more than a hatrack.

So there it is Helen. Don't know how newsworthy happiness is these days, but this is one gal's formula.—KAY

DEAR KAY:

Happiness is the best news in the world. Thanks for sharing. —H.

DEAR HELEN:

No, "Swinging Single", marriage is not a drag. Maybe your friends put on an act so they'll look more sophisticated and "married." We acted that way too, at first, to avoid kidding. Then we realized this was becoming a habit — we weren't showing affection even in private; we were putting each other down and making smart cracks when we should have said "I love you."

I'm glad we woke up in time. Now we aren't afraid to hold hands when we walk down the street, and show the world we really care, though not to the point of being soupy. To express it, without embarrassment, makes us feel it all the more. We're a lot more considerate of each other now, and getting — MORE HAPPILY MARRIED EVERY MOMENT

DEAR HELEN:

I have been married nine months to the most wonderful man. He is 21, I'm 19, and if "Swinging Single" could see us and many of our young married friends, she'd change her tune. We've found the right partner and we're proud to say so, though we don't make nuisances of ourselves about it.

Romantic couples don't just change — they mellow. Love is different before and after marriage. Romance is less passionate and more meaningful, and love grows deeper.

In November my husband left for a ten-month tour of duty in Vietnam. I knew when we married that we'd soon be separated, but I chose to wait as his wife, not as his fiancee. I'll always be thankful that I did. The relationship we share, even during separation, is beyond my greatest expectations. — MEANINGFULLY MARRIED said.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

THE BETTER HALF By Bob Barnes

"I just hope Martian invaders never realize how vulnerable we'd be on a Monday morning."

Cheese And Tuna

Blue cheese and tuna make a delicious meatless main dish salad. Combine 1 cup (about 5¼-ounces) of blue cheese, crumbled, and 1 can (about 7 ounces) of tuna, drained and flaked with 3 cups of cooked, cooled macaroni and 2 tablespoons of minced onion. Blend ¾ cup of mayonnaise with 2 tablespoons of milk or cream, 1 teaspoon of lemon juice, ½ teaspoon of salt and a dash of pepper. Mix into solid ingredients and chill well. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Age Of Aquarius

If you doubt this is the Age of Aquarius, take a look at your favorite jewelry counter. Astrological earrings, pendents, bracelets and other dangles and tinkles are all over, either spotlighting Aquarius or available in your very own birth sign.

Medicine Chest Syrups And Pills Often Useless, Says Pharmacist

is no drug that has no side effects somewhere.

"The human body is so complex that if you change one thing you are bound to change something else.

"With any drug you have to weigh the risks against what good it does. A prime example is contraceptive pills. You have to ask what's more harmful—risk of pregnancy or overpopulation versus the Pill's possible side effects.

"Side effects such as blood clotting can also be gotten through pregnancy," Kamil said.

To aid the consumer, Kamil said that there is no assurance that the higher priced brand will be better. "There is not much correlation between price and quality of non-prescription drugs. With ordinary simple compressed products such as aspirin, buy the cheapest," he advised.

And it is not economical to buy the "large economy size" drugs, he said. "You don't need that much."

COMBINATIONS OF drugs can be very dangerous, Kamil cautioned. They can interact on the central nervous system causing depressing shock "and you're gone," he said. Combinations of sleeping pills, tranquilizers and alcohol cause central nervous system reactions and may cause death, such as in the case of many Hollywood stars, Kamil stated.

"I'm even more cautious of such drugs that affect the mind," the pharmacist said.

The program was the final in the consumer education series sponsored by the Marin YWCA, the Association of California Consumers and the Marin Co-op store.

Light Important

The bathroom is used for much more than baths, showers, facewashing, and toothbrushing. It's a place for hand laundering, hair brushing, shampooing and styling, touch-ups and tinting, shaving, putting make-up on and taking it off, manicuring and pedicuring, and "doctoring" cuts and bruises. Lighting is important for all of these activities. So provide adequate lighting. The mirror is the focal point of grooming, and, therefore, the hub of lighting for the room. There should be light sources on both sides of a mirror or medicine cabinet and on the ceiling above it to obtain shadowless lighting on the head, face, and neck.

TELEVISION IN REVIEW

Anne Bancroft Is A Welcome Delight

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — "Anie, the Women in the Life of a Man," on CBS Wednesday night shaped up as the freshest, brightest hour of television entertainment since the original "Laugh-In" special.

Anne Bancroft emerged with fresh laurels as comedienne, chanteuse and tongue-in-cheek femme fatale in an hour that combined keen wit, perceptive humor and unfailing good taste.

The theme was woman and Miss Bancroft played a dozen or so different ones. She was a bride having panicky doubts in the midst of the wedding ceremony; and ex-career girl facing happily the fact that "marriage is better;" an Elizabethan lady cavorting with knights in armor; a 1920s flapper; a society lady on a psychiatrist's couch and many more.

The men in various lives obviously were chosen for their special contributions—Robert Merrill singing a passionate love song with a snapper ending; Lee J. Cobb playing a psychiatrist without a line to speak but his face expressing volumes; Dick Shawn as a nervous bridegroom, and Arthur Murray in the most dramatic role in his career.

Among the funny sketches was one serious moment. Dick Smothers, in a World War I doughboy's uniform singing an antiwar song to his mother—Miss Bancroft in a gray wig. It was effective drama.

The program arrives when television seems overgrown with variety shows featuring loud music, humor pegged on shock value and guest stars who seem to do the same thing show after show. This special may start a new and welcome trend and certainly is worth an encore.

NBC and CBS are expected to start lining up sponsors for their 1970-71 programs within days or even hours, and ABC is expected to follow along within a week or 10 days.

At this point it seems that survival is unlikely for CBS' "Get Smart," "Lancer" and — suprise — "The Red Skelton Show." Jackie Gleason, who has resumed negotiations with the network, may return in some specials instead of a weekly show.

It appears that NBC's "I Dream of Jeannie" "Debbie Reynolds Show," "Daniel Boone" and "Bronson" are soon to leave, and it is likely that "My World and Welcome to It" is likely to be a casualty at the end of the season.

ABC, whose midseason replacements have helped improve its ratings, still has a lot of decisions to make. It is expected that "The Flying Nun," "Here Come the Brides" and "Paris 7000" will be scuttled and possibly "The Englebert Humperdinck Show" and the new Pat Paulsen half hour.

Visiting Cellist Sparkling

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

SAN FRANCISCO — Jacqueline DuPre, 25-year-old English cellist, was the major success with the audience last night at the Opera House in the third of Seiji Ozawa's guest conducting weeks with the San Francisco Symphony. But there were other high points in the program, too.

Works performed were the charming Symphony in C Major written, incredibly, when Georges Bizet was only 17 years old; the Haydn Concerto in C Major for Violoncello and Orchestra, rediscovered in 1961; "Central Park in the Dark" by America's possibly first avant-garde composer Charles Ives and Ravel's Rapsodie Espagnole.

For me, Miss DuPre's performance was of great interest because I had never heard this world-renowned young artist before nor the newly discovered concerto. Had she not been playing an unmistabably Hayden work requiring classical elegance, restraint and lightness of style, I would have been surprised in view of her reputation for flamboyance as a cellist whose forte is the opulent romantic mode.

Only occasionally in her mannerisms did this show. Her tone was pure and richly colored but so fragile that it was fortunate the orchestra was reduced to chamber size for this number and that Ozawa kept the dynamic level very soft. The total impression was ethereal and dream-like. Some lightning fast fingerwork in the final allegro attested to her superlative technical skill.

It might have been more exciting to hear her play something suited to her temperament and interesting to know whether she could produce a robust tone.

"Central Park in the Dark" was brief but fascinating because of its unique polytonal and polyrhythmic fabric. Setting the mood of the night sounds and silent darkness of Central Park with a barely audible susurration of the strings, Ozawa achieved a two-orchestra effect by turning over string direction to concertmaster Jacob Krachmalnick while he stepped to the rear to direct a small group of woodwinds, brass and percussion, including two pianos, in a cross current of many kinds of noises and tunes coming from the surrounding city. The impact was electric.

Some of the most truly beautiful music was heard in the opening Bizet symphony in its song of the violins and oboe. Special commendation was due the horns (except on a brief solo passage for one instrument) and trumpets in the allegro vivo and the oboe for the hauntingly memorable refrain in the adagio. The final allegro vivace was exquisitely delicate.

Ravel's Spanish rhapsody was a brilliant finale ranging in a palette of irridescent impressionistic colors from misty evanescence to fiery corruscation.

Full Disclosure On Pollution Snagged

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO — A five-monthbattle to get full public disclosure of data on firms contributing to industrial air pollution was stymied yesterday in a 5-5 vote by Bay Area Air Pollution Control District directors.

Instead, directors voted to start releasing the data only on firms that violate district regulations.

The long battle has been waged by the Citizens Against Air Pollution,a San Jose-based citizens group critical of the district's performance. Full disclosure of the data on all firms, not just those caught for violating district regulations, would provide the only valid test of whether the regulations are effective, the citizens group has argued.

D. J. Callaghan, the district's chief administrative officer, declined to estimate how soon he could start releasing data on violators, but the point may be moot in the light of the citizens group's suit against the district.

The group filed legal action against the district last week to force it to disclose the data--now kept under wraps on the theory that this arrangement assures industry's voluntary cooperation with reporting requirements.

The first public response to yesterday's action came immediately after the vote--with the serving of notice that a second suit to force disclosure had been filed against the district.

The second suit, filed yesterday in Santa Clara County Superior Court by three University of Santa Clara law students, asked the court to issue a peremptory writ of mandate forcing the district to release all records "for each and every stationary industrial source."

It asked for a court hearing on March 4, but the district's counsel, Mathew Walker, said he would ask for a delay because that is the date of the board's next meeting.

Walker commented that "we are in some rather interesting situations as far as litigation is concerned."

Both suits were filed under the California Public Records Act of 1968, authored by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael. The act obliges challenged public agencies to justify their refusal to disclose records.

The directors did not comment as legal notices of the suit were handed to each of them by one of the students.

There was no repeat yesterday of the melee that disrupted the board's last meeting on Feb. 4, when dozens of militant youths forced adjournment of the board. None of the youths was present yesterday, but three policemen were stationed in an adjacent office with walkie-talkies to communicate with their station a block away.

A solid row of tables stretched across the open space in front of the press, as claimed by a disform, looking more like a barricade than additional seating for the press, as claimed by adistrict spokesman.

Marin's two representatives on the board split on the issue of full disclosure, with San Rafael City Councilman John A. Miskimen voting for full disclosure, and Supervisor William A. Gnoss voting against it.

There was lettle chance of the board reversing itself, since one of the missing directors, William C. Blake of San Francisco, has told newsmen he was opgood compromise."

Gnoss termed the partial disclosure, limited to violators, "a goodcompromise."

The compromise, passed 7-3 when Miskimen and another director favoring full disclosure switched to avoid a stalemate on partial disclosure, provided that the district publish monthly lists of all firms violating regulations during the previous month. Quarterly reports would link these firms to the tons of pollutants each contributed, broken down into particulates, oxides and carbon monoxide.

San Mateo County Supervisor Robert B. St. Clair, who proposed partial disclosure, said full disclosure would not be fair to firms that met district regulations. Full disclosure also would cause the district unnecessary "expense and trouble," he said.

Mountain View Mayor William R. Jelavich, a strongadvocate of fulldisclosure, blistered its opponents for "withholding enformation from the public that is theirs. We're sitting here making judgments we've no business making."

Chairman Laurence D. Kelly, Piedmont city councilman disagreed with Jelavich, saying, "there are a lot of people who approve of what we're doing, and they probably outnumber those who don't."

A motion by Jelavech that the district conform to state law by requiring all sources of pollution to report emission data to the district was tabled for two weeks. The distruct should drop its policy of solicitingindustry's cooperateon supplying the data, he said.

Belmont City Councilman Morton L. Podolsky, who moved to table Jelavich's motion, said he needed time to study the law that created the district.

Jelavich suggested that copies of the law besent all directors "so they may become familiar with the law."

More Funds For Probe Of Union

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate labor subcommittee has been given an extra quarter million dollars for staff investigators and other costs for its investigation of the United Mine Workers Union.

"This will give us the tools for a thorough investigation" of the UMW election and the union's welfare and pension fund, a subcommittee staff member said.

The Senate labor subcommittee, chaired by Sen. Harrison A. Williams Jr., D-N.J., held hearings two weeks ago into the UMW's disputed December election with testimony from the son of slain mineworkers' insurgent Joseph Yablonski.

Yablonski was one of those, both in and outside the union who have accused UMW officials of misusing and mismanaging the multimillion-dollar fund to their advantage.

A TREE GROWS AT REDWOOD HIGH

Mary Heassler (left), a tenth grader at Redwood High School, shovels dirt around a tree in the back parking lot of the school. Mary and her friend, Patti Mengel, were among a crew of students who paid for trees out of their own pockets for Plant-a-Tree Day yesterday. It's part of a project both to beautify the school and make it a source of pride and pleasure to the students, faculty and community, according to Chris Martin, student organizer of the project.

Bales Announces Reelection Hopes

Marin County Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales today announced his candidacy for reelection June 2.

Bales, 46, was first elected in 1966, after being appointed to the post by county supervisors in 1964.

"I pledge to the people of Marin County that I shall continue to prosecute vigorously but fairly, to protect the rights of all to safety of person and property, and to preserve in Marin a law enforcement climate free from organized crime or corruption," Bales said in announcing his candidacy.

Before being appointed, Bales served as chief assistant district attorney from 1960 to 1964, and as deputy district attorney from 1953 to 1960.

A graduate of the University of California and Boalt Hall Law School, he practiced law in San Rafael for four years before joining the district attorney's office.

During World War II, he served in the Navy in the Iwo Jima and Okinawa campaigns.

Critical crime problems today, he said, are "narcotics, dangerous drugs, street safety and home and property security." These problems "demand continued professional, experienced and dedicated leadership in law enforcement in Marin," he said.

"My 17-year career in the district attorney's office here has given me the training and experience required for coping with the ever-increasing problems faced by law enforcement in protecting the public," he said.

Bales lives at 16 Loma Linda Road, San Rafael, with his wife, Jo Ann, and their three children.

A past president of the Marin County Junior Chamber of Commerce, San Rafael Exchange Club and Marin County Centralized Police Services Council, Bales is vice president of the Marin County Peace Officers Association.

He also serves on the Police Science Advisory Committee of the College of Marin, the Joint Police Chiefs Association of Marin County, and Marin Council of Boy Scouts of America.

He is an active member of the Marin, California and American bar associations, California District Attorneys Association, National District Attorneys Association, Native Sons of the Golden West, Marvelous Marin Breakfast Club, San Anselmo Post of the American Legion, and Elks Club of San Rafael.

Finns On Wheels

HELSINKI (UPI)—There will be a car or truck for every fifth Finn in a few years, traffic officials predict. Ten years ago such vehicles numbered about 300,000. Now the total is approximately 750,000, the officials said. The million unit mark—Finland has a population of about 4.5 million—will be passed in the early 1970s.

Redwood's Long-Haired Runners Get Help From Tam High Staff

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO—The long-haired runners of Redwood got a lift in U. S. District Court yesterday when coaches and administrators from Tamalpais High School District testified that long hair does not hamper athletes.

The four athletes were bounced off the Redwood High School track team for violating an athletic department rule against long hair, and sued to be returned to the team. They claimed their constitutional rights were violated by the rule. "Discipline comes from within, and I don't think it's possible to achieve it by controlling the length of hair," said Bruce Grant, head track coach at rival Tamalpais High School, which has no short-hair rule.

Tamalpais runners use headbands if they need them, said Krieg S. Vezie, assistant track coach at Tamalpais.

Earlier, Supt. Robert D. Torrey and director of instruction James L. Pierce testified against the hair rule, which was voted in, 3-2, by the district board and then upheld, 4-1, when the Redwood athletes appealed against it.

Torrey testified he had advised against adopting the rule, and Pierce said he felt hair length had nothing to do with education.

The four suing students, Kevin and Brian Pusser, David Silverman and Bryan Tracy, all carry a B grade average, they testified yesterday.

Their attorney called doctors in support. Greenbrae opthalmologist William G. Filante said hair in front of the eyes might actually improve vision for a near-sighted person, rather than impeding it.

Filante said his son was thrown off the Redwood track team for long hair while a faster teammate with longer hair was not thrown off.

San Francisco physician Forbes Norris, a 1948 Olympic swimmer, said long hair presents no problem so long as it's kept clean.

"We all know what happened to Samson when Delilah cut his hair," Forbes said.

Donald Kreps, Redwood principal, was called as a defense witness and testified that grooming rules are part of the approach used by coaches to build team morale. Such measures are necessary to help the team, Kreps said.

The hearing before Judge George B. Harris was to conclude today.

Senators Cancel Out Each Other

WASHINGTON (AP) — California senators took opposite sides in both votes Wednesday on national desegregation policies.

In the first vote, Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., favored an amendment sponsored by Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., to ease a uniform national policy on school desegregation.

George Murphy, R-Calif., voted no.

The measure failed 48-46.

In the second vote, Murphy voted for an amendment by Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., requiring enforcement of school desegregration equally throughout the nation. Cranston voted against.

The measure carried 56-36.

Conviction In Petaluma Shooting

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA—Walter Lee Hale, 52, of Petaluma, was found guilty today in Sonoma County Superior Court of the Nov. 7 shooting of Petaluma police officer Vilho Ahola.

Judge Kenneth M. Eymann set sentencing for March 12 at 10 a.m. The charge of assault with a deadly weapon on a police officer carries a 1-to-15-year prison term.

Ahola was shot in the neck while assisting Hale's estranged wife, Helen, remove belongings from their home at 718 I Street. The officer remains paralyzed from the waist down.

Public Defender Marteen Miller, in the two-day trial, attempted to show that Hale was intoxicated and under great emotional strain at the time of the shooting.

He said that Hale may have had suicide in mind and that the shooting took place in a struggle for the gun and could have been accidental.

Woman Reports Assault Try

A man, about 25 or 28, assaulted a 24-year old San Rafael student in a secluded spot at the rear of a San Rafael home yesterday, police reported today.

According to police the man grabbed the woman around the neck at 8:42 p.m. while she was walking west on First Street and dragged her to the rear of a home at 17 First Street.

The man was frightened away by a witness who saw the girl struggling and stopped to investigate, police said.

Seven Hopefuls Crowd San Anselmo's Ballot

The April 14 San Anselmo city council election shaped up as a free-for-all as five more candidates filed nomination papers today and yesterday, making a field of seven competing for three council seats.

Filing this morning were incumbent Mayor Woodrow V. Capurro and long-time former councilman Arthur W. Smith.

Yesterday three candidates filed, Dr. Martin G. Blinder, Sarah Nome and Lewis W. Stewart, whose candidacy was announced earlier.

Blinder, 33, is a psychiatrist with offices in San Anselmo and San Francisco. He is a member of the San Anselmo human rights commission, the San Anselmo Homes Association, the San Anselmo Chamber of Commerce and the Sierra Club, and is a director of Travelers Aid.

He is medical director of the Family Therapy Institute in San Rafael, a consultant to the superior courts of Marin and San Francisco, and specializes in family and group therapy.

He and his wife Dorothy have one child and are expecting another. They have resided at 50 Idalia Court for 18 months, moving there from Sausalito. A native of New York, Blinder has lived in the Bay Area 10 years.

He is a clinical professor at the University of California at Berkeley, and teaches at Mendocino and Napa state hospitals and the Pacific Medical Center.

Mrs. Nome, a native of Oakland, is a museum registrar in San Francisco. She is a member of the Women's Propeller Club, the Navy League of America, the American Association of Museums, and the San Anselmo Homes Association, and worked on local Cancer Society and Heart Fund drives.

She ran for the Marin Junior College District board in 1966 and for the San Anselmo School District board last year.

A widow, she is the mother of two children.

Smith, who will be 69 next Monday, served 25 years on the council, including four terms as mayor, before being defeated for reelection in 1968. He ran Art Smith's variety store in San Anselmo for 25 years.

He was first appointed to the council in 1943 to complete an unexpired term, then was elected in 1944. He was mayor from 1946 to 1952, and later was elected mayor for three more one-year terms.

Born in Los Angeles, he moved to Marin in 1938 and opened his variety store in 1943. He sold the store in 1967 and retired, but later began working part-time at a hardware store.

Smith and his wife Alma live at 15 Bank Street. They have three grown children.

He is a member of the San Anselmo Chamber of Commerce, San Anselmo Rotary Club, and the Kentfield Lions Club, nine Masonic groups, the Elks, Native Sons of the Golden West, the Odd Fellows Lodge, the Druids, the Eagles, the Marin County Reserve Police Officers Association and the Bay County Peace Officers Association.

Capurro, 49, was elected to the council in 1962, and was appointed mayor in 1965 and 1969. He is a superintendent for Weber Plastering Co. of San Rafael.

He is a former semiprofessional baseball player, a past president of Lathers Union Local 268, a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and former coach of a San Anselmo Little League team. He is an Army veteran of World War II.

Born in San Francisco, he attended Tamalpais High School and College of Marin. He and his wife Jermaine, who live at 79 Lincoln Avenue, have two children.

Candidates who filed earlier are Warren R. Perry and incumbent Duane C. Ragan.

To Superior Court

Mayron Don McGee of an Rafael has been bound over to Marin Superior Court on two felony counts of making fraudulent insurance claims in 1968. He is to appear in court Monday for arraignment.

Play Postponed

Illness has postponed the Tamalpais Valley Players' production of "You Know I Can't Hear You When the Water's Running." It will not be staged Saturday as reported in Marin Magazine last Saturday.

Belvedere Council Races Wide Open

The contest for two seats on the Belvedere City Council was thrown wide open today when the two incumbents, Sally Mathews and John R. Moore, announced they will not run. Both have served on the council for eight years.

Left in the April 14 race were three challengers for the two seats being vacated. In the contest are Beatrice S. Mann, a member of the Belvedere Parks and Recreation Commission, who announced her candidacy Tuesday. Filing today was Vernon E. Perry. Alan Steinau filed yesterday.

Mrs. Mathews, a 15-year resident of Belvedere and the wife of a surgeon, Dr. Benton D. Mathews, said she had thoroughly enjoyed her council experience but felt "it is time to give someone else a chance."

Moore, 36, a San Francisco stockbroker, said he thinks the council needs "some new blood, persons with a lot of energy, enthusiasm and the business experience necessary to solve some of the city's problems which will require large expenditures of funds."

Perry, 35, making his first try for public office, is manager of the municipal consulting division of J. Barth and Co. in San Francisco. He is also a member of the Sierra and Lions clubs.

Because of his experience as municipal consultant, he said, he felt he could give the council "help with sound fiscal planning and financing of the city's needed capital expenditures."

Perry gave high priority to "improving relations with Tiburon."

The candidate, a resident of Belvedere for 18 months, lives with his wife and two children at 89 Bay View Avenue. He said he wants to assist in "conserving, improving and guarding the natural beauty of Belvedere."

Steinau, 43, a Belvedere architect, has lived in the city for 16 years. For two years he served as chairman of the Belvedere Parks and Recreation Commission and is a former commodore of the Belvedere Sailing Society.

He is a member of the Belvedere Lagoon Property Owners Association and was the group's president for two years. He is vice president of the Belvedere-Tiburon Landmark Society, assistant scout master for Boy Scout Troop No. 9 and a member of the Order of the Arrow, a scouting organization.

Steinau, who lives with his wife and two sons at 32 Windward Road, said he is a candidate for the council because "I have been living and working in the community for a number of years and I have a feeling about what has to be done."

He sees flood control and drainage as the city's major problems and would like to see concrete action taken to devlop a new sewer system. In addition, Steinau said he would work for more cooperation and joint action between the cities of Belvedere and Tiburon.

Homeowners Hit Deaths Decision

The San Anselmo Homes Association, shocked by loopholes in a state law allowing laymen to pronounce a person dead, fired off a letter yesterday to the Marin County Board of Supervisors asking it to review the matter.

The controversy started Feb. 11 when a Bay Cities Ambulance crew declared a coronary victim, Emilio F. Maschio of San Anselmo, dead when they found no pulse beat and refused to transport him to a hospital on the grounds that law forbade transportation of the dead.

The San Anselmo homeowners want the supervisors to study the matter recommending that death be determined only by a physician and that ambulance transportation be provided to a hospital so that a death can be verified.

College Chief Vows To Fight For Program

FRESNO (UPI)—Dr. Karl L. Falk, acting president of Fresno State College, says he will join other state college presidents to fight for the Educational Opportunity Program.

The program, which provides minority students with an opportunity to attend college, has been attacked by state officials including Gov. Ronald Reagan, who wants the State Coordinating Council for Higher Education to operate it.

Falk has been criticized by minority students for refusing to pledge "full commitment" to the program.

The acting president said Wednesday he is committed to the program and is willing to join with other state college presidents in fighting for its continuation.

Falk says the EOP at Fresno State will include more minority students next year if the state provides enough funds.

Insinsting he has little control over the number of students admitted, Falk said more than 300 applications have been sent to minority students who have expressed interest in the program.

This year Fresno State College has 182 students in EOP but was alloted only 150.

Falk said he received a memo from the state college chancellor's office which says FSC will be unable to open its doors to any more students under terms of the program until the state determines the future of EOP.

He said as many students "as we are allowed" will be able to enroll in the program next year.

Falk also pledged his support of the ethnic studies program at FSC.

Noted Comedy Actor Jules Munshin Dies

NEW YORK (UPI)—Jules Munshin, 54, an outstanding actor noted for his playing of comedy, died of a heart attack early today at his home.

He became ill Wednesday night while playing in a one-character play, "Duet for Solo Voice," at the American Place Theater, an experimental, subscription type of house, and had to leave the stage before finishing his performance. HE WASN'T TOLD TO DUCK

Truck driver Glenn Fossum, 46, of Long Beach, escaped injury when this rack of 60-foot steel girders crushed his truckload of lime water. He failed yesterday to see a 12-foot clearance warning beneath a freeway ramp under construction. On Tuesday, another truck knocked down the girders and they had been replaced two feet below the legal clearance minimum. (UPI Telephoto)

Student, 26, Leaves Note Before Fall

A 26-year-old San Francisco man apparently leaped to his death from the Golden Gate Bridge today, leaving a note which said, in effect, he "didn't want to be a burden to his family"

The California Highway Patrol said the body of Dennis John Marinos, a student at the University of San Francisco, was recovered by the Coast Guard at One Mile Rock.

The patrol said the victim's car was parked and running at 4:05 a.m. on the span. A wallet and note were found on the front seat.

The patrol said they couldn't quote the note exactly because it had been turned over to the San Francisco coroner, but that it had ended with the words, "Don't tell mother until morning."

The body was also taken to the coroner's office.

Collision Hurts Novato Driver

A 16-year old Novato youth was hospitalized with a cut head yesterday received in a two-car accident at 1:45 p.m. on Olive Avenue at Summers Street, Novato police reported.

In good condition today at Novato General Hospital was James R. Aggas of 609 Plum Street.

Police reported that the Aggas car, eastbound on Olive Avenue, hit the rear of an eastbound car driven by Patricia Ann McDonald, 35, of 1110 Rosalia Drive. The Aggas car swerved onto Summer Street and hit a utility pole. Aggas, according to police, said that he lost consciousness after hitting the McDonald car.

Guard Dog Handler Slain During Fuss

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A guard dog handler was fatally shot Wednesday night during a street argument, but patrolman James Jackson said the dying victim refused to tell what the argument was about.

Homicide Inspector Telferd Slettvett said the victim, Joe Zalaco, was delivering guard dogs in San Francisco to clients of Dog Power, Inc.

Zalaco, 27, was shot twice while arguing with two men at Potrero Avenue and 25th Street, police said. He died an hour and a half later at Mission Emergency Hospital.

Police said witnesses reported Zalaco stopped his vehicle when two men drove alongside and exchanged heated words.

Gunfire burst from the assailants' car when Zalaco started to get out of his van, police said.

He was struck in the chest and left thigh. The other car drove off as Zalaco fell to the pavement.

Small Car Stolen

A BROKEN SOFA

First-Hand Taste To Consumer Woes

By G. DAVID WALLACE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's consumer advocate is getting a first-hand taste of the citizen frustrations which pour into her office daily.

Virginia Knauer, a homemaker, mother and grandmother when she's not fielding the complaints of consumers, can't seem to get her sofa fixed.

"The buyer has the right to register his dissatisfaction and have his complaint heard and weighed when his interests are badly served," said President Nixon in his "Buyer's Bill of Rights" last October.

But Mrs. Knauer says she's had a little trouble getting satisfaction since a new sofa was delivered to her home last August.

"Can you imagine sending out a sofa with a broken leg?" she asks. "And badly . . . badly stitched together. I could have done a better job."

Mrs. Knauer is pleased with the response she gets when she approaches manufacturers about the 2,000 to 3,000 letters and complaints she gets in her office every month.

She managed to convince a floor tile firm it should replace a cracked floor for one woman. For one man she managed to get his refrigerator warranty extended because the appliance had been in repair shops for half the original three-year warranty.

But what's happened with the sofa replacement she was promised?

"Now they're not even sure that they ordered the one they promised to deliver sometime between August and the first of October. I think the first of November at the latest they would have had the new sofa," she says.

"So at this point I've gotten a little defeatist about it," she says. She jokingly suggests calling a news conference, but she doesn't mention the name of the large Washington department store involved.

"And this isn't schlock furniture. This was good furniture. Which shows that maybe I should have stuck to antiques.

"I think this is unconscionable. I'm so busy solving other people's problems, I don't have time to take care of my own."

Minor Injuries

Donald S. Williamsen, 12, of 1373 Lincoln Avenue, was treated at Marin General Hospital yesterday for a scraped and bruised right leg sustained when his bicycle struck a parked car near 1424 Lincoln Avenue around 7 p.m., San Rafael police reported today.

Glass Door Broken

A burglar who broke a glass door at Loma Verde School in Loma Verde Monday apparently took only a statue of unknown value from the school library, sheriff's deputies said yesterday.

Woman's Leg Broken In Crash

A 75-year-old San Rafael woman remained in fair condition today in Marin General Hospital with a fractured left leg suffered when her car collided Monday with another auto on northbound Highway 101 near the Richardson Bay Bridge.

Hospitalized is Augusta G. Haas of 67 Summit Avenue. The other driver, Ralph D. Bettencourt, 23, of 821 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Kentfield, was treated at the hospital for a head bruise.

The California Highway Patrol said the accident happened at 11:10 p.m. when Mrs. Haas's car spun around south of the bridge and Bettencourt was unable to avoid hitting her.

Mayors For Regional Payroll Tax Proposal

I-J Special Report

OAKLAND — A regional payroll tax has been endorsed by the mayors of four major Bay Area cities, Oakland Mayor John H. Reading said yesterday.

Mayors Joseph L. Alioto of San Francisco, Wallace Johnson of Berkeley, George Livingston of Richmond and Reading endorsed the idea during the taping of a television program, "Forum," which will be shown over KRON, Channel 4, at 10 p.m. tomorrow.

Under the proposal, designed to ease property taxes, a tax would be imposed on the gross income of all persons working in those four cities, not just on commuters.

Alioto has proposed such a tax on commuters, but it was ruled unconstitutional in a court test.

Reading yesterday requested City Atty. Edward Goggin to initiate talks with the attorneys of the other three cities over the legality of such a tax on all workers. Reading said he would push for such a tax, but only if the other three cities agreed to it.

Alioto told newsmen yesterday that such a tax would be considered only if the Legislature failed again to make good on its promise to provide tax reform this year.

Office Is Looted

Third Filing For Council In Larkspur

Raymond C. Kesner, a San Quentin Prison correctional officer, filed nomination papers today as a candidate for the April 14 Larkspur city council election.

Kesner's candidacy assures a contest for the two council posts, incumbents Alfred J. Malvino and Mayor Neil R. Brixon having filed earlier.

Kesner, a retired Army sergeant, has lived in Larkspur for 13 years. He is chairman of the Larkspur Support Your Local Police Committee, a committee of the John Birch Society.

He and his wife live at 113 Sycamore Avenue.

Loudspeaker Stolen

A $200 speaker was stolen Tuesday between 3 and 6 p.m. from the rear seat of a car owned by David R. Stohe of 1048 Los Gamos Road and parked at the Terra Linda High School parking lot, San Rafael police reported today.

Four Seek Two Novato Council Jobs

Three candidates filed yesterday and one this morning for two seats on the Novato City Council at the April 14 election.

Mayor Harley A. McAskill, Joseph Bonomolo and Betty Machado filed yesterday. F. Wayne Sartain filed his papers this morning. Mrs. Machado and Sartain had previously announced their candidacies.

The seats of McAskill and Councilman Babe Silva are up.

McAskill is running for his second term, Joseph Bonnomolo is making his third try for the council and Mrs. Machado, 45, of 1424 Dawes Street, is making her second run. Sartain of 141 San FelipeWay, is running for the first time.

McAskill, 47, of 291 San Felipe Way was a candidate for Novato's first city council at incorporation 10 years ago, running sixth among the 26 candidates then. He was the first chairman of the first planning commission. He made a successful try for the council four years ago, serving two years as councilman and two as mayor.

He is a member of the Elks, the Novato Druids, the Novato Chamber of Commerce and Novato Rotary Club.

A native of Petaluma, he graduated from Santa Rosa Junior College. During World War II he served in the Navy in the South Pacific.

He and his wife, Betty Jo, have two sons, Kevin and Scott.

"As councilman and mayor, I have worked to give the people of Novato the most for their tax dollar. At the same time, I have worked for the preservation of the creeks, trees, open spaces and general beautification of the city," McAskill said.

He said he wants more improvement to the city streets and a broadening of the tax base through proper development of the city.

"During my four years on the council, we have always had time for any citizen's criticism and complaints. I believe that the council should represent all of the citizens and we can do this better when we hear their views," he added.

Bonomolo, 53, of 201 San Felipe Way, is making his third try for the city council, having run in 1966 and 1968.

A native of New York City, he has lived in California for 31 years. He operated a garage in San Francisco prior to moving to Novato seven years ago. He is owner of B and B Richfield service station in the Novato Fair Shopping Center.

He and his wife, Celeste, have five children, Frank and George of Petaluma and three daughters, Gracetta Bullard of Pacifica and Antoinette Lear of Novato, and Carla, 16, a student at San Marin High School.

Bonomolo said that he believes that planning in Novato should be long term planning, making provisions for open space and green belt areas. It should include some compatible industry for a payroll for Novato.

"Annexation should go slow so that it will benefit all concerned," he said.

He also believes that all special districts should be consolidated into the city to eliminate double taxation.The city should plan for new public buildings.

"I would include the youth of the community in its planning for the progress for the future," said Bonomolo who was one of the organizers of the Boys'Club of Novato.

Robbery Suspect Denies Charges

John Charles Batts, 18, of 209 First Street, San Rafael, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of holding up a San Anselmo service station attendant Feb. 11 and having a switchblade knife and hypodermic needle when arrested Sunday.

A preliminary hearing was set for next Tuesday.

Batts is accused of being the person who held up an employee of the Minto and Son station at 805 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and escaped with $150.

GMC Recalling Buses For Chassis Checks

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — General Motors' GMC Truck & Coach Division said today it is recalling 4,269 school buses and 21,681 trucks with GMC chassis for inspection of possibly defective brake hose retaining springs and rear steel brake lines.

The tracks and buses involved are 1968-69 models. GMC said recall is a precautionary measure to prevent the possibility of brake line chafing which could result in the loss of hydraulic brake fluid.

The firm said some of the vehicles will require installation of new brake hose retaining springs and some will require inspection and possible alignment or replacement of a rear steel brake line.

GMC said each 1968-69 GMC chassis used for school buses and some of the trucks involved have a dual brake system and an instrument panel light that automatically signals a loss of hydraulic brake fluid in either part of the system.

Because of this dual brake system, GMC said, a loss of brake fluid at either the front brake hose or rear brake line would not result in a complete loss of hydraulic brake action.

Pleads Innocent

Michael Edward Semorile, 20, of San Francisco, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal court to charge of possessing marijuana Feb. 7. A preliminary hearing was set for March 17.

Proxmire Plans Bill Aimed At Secret Accounts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., announced today that he will sponsor in the Senate a bill aimed at stopping frauds and tax evasion by use of secret foreign bank accounts.

The bill will be similar to a measure introduced in the House by Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., he said.

At a House-Senate Economic Committee hearing, Patman described such secret accounts as permitting possible scandals equal in importance if not greater than Teapot Dome of the 1930s.

Patman's measure is designed to require reporting by bankers and people with foreign accounts in an effort to halt frauds and tax evasions through accounts in countries such as Switzerland which have bank secrecy laws.

Young Woman To Youth Authority

Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court has sent an 18-year-old Marin City woman, who was convicted of two counts of assault with a deadly weapon, to the California Youth Authority for a 90-day period of evaluation.

Patricia Ann Fusilereia was found guilty of the felony counts stemming from a stabbing in a Sausalito market May 23. She had become involved in a heated argument with a woman employee of the Big G supermarket when she thought the clerk made fun of her miniskirt.

Mrs. Fusilierea pulled a five-inch hunting knife from her purse and lunged at the clerk,, but another employee stepped between the two women and was stabbed in the left shoulder.

Bomb Threat

WASHINGTON (AP) — A telephoned bomb threat brought about clearing of maintenance personnel Wednesday night at the National Archives, Federal Trade Commission and Justice Department buildings. No bombs were found.

What is this strike all about?

For the first time in its 108-year history the Independent-Journal is faced with a work stoppage by its union employees who belong to San Francisco Typographical Union No. 21.

What is the strike all about? How did it happen? The answers to those questions are not simple because it should not have happened. We suspect the unions agree with that.

First of all let's tell you what it is not about. It is not about wages. I-J printers and all other union employees are paid the prevailing scale of wages in the Bay area, one of, if not the highest in the United States. The scale of wages was not in dispute. In addition, I-J printers participate in a generous voluntary profit-sharing plan never negotiated by the union but voluntarily initiated by the late Publisher Roy A. Brown in 1956.

It is not about hours. It is not about holidays. It is not about vacations. It is not about fringe benefits--health and welfare or pension funds or sick leave which have been agreed on and are being paid.

What then are the issues on which negotiations broke down?

First is the issue of "reproduction" or "deadhorse" or "bogus" as it is variously called. This is a practice, dating back to 1872, by which the union requires that advertising matter which is supplied to the I-J ready for publication must, after publication, be set in type, proofread, corrected, and then thrown away. The practice is archaic; it serves no useful purpose and is costly; once required in all printers' contracts by the I.T.U. general laws, it has in the past three years been removed from the I.T.U. general laws and made a negotiable item. It is universally despised by publisher and printer alike. In 1960 I.T.U. international representative Joseph Baird of San Francisco made a study of this practice for then I.T.U. President Elmer Brown and estimated that only 2 to 5 per cent of the locals he visited were actually doing "bogus" reproduction.

The I-J made a generous offer of added job security based on the elimination of reproduction. Although it continues to claim this item is negotiable, San Francisco Typographical Union No. 21 never made a single proposal in negotiations for its elimination.

Second is the matter of appeals from discharge. The past practice was that a printer discharged for cause had only to appeal to his coworkers at the unit or union local level for reinstatement. Final recourse was to the I.T.U. Executive Council and the I.T.U. convention. The publisher could plead his case but had no voice in the decision. It is sometimes called the "mother-in-law" clause because the publisher is in the position of a husband appealing to his mother-in-law to settle an argument with his wife. It is rapidly disappearing from I.T.U. contracts as being both unfair and largely unworkable.

The I-J proposed an appeals procedure similar to that in its other union contracts: Appeal to a joint standing committee consisting of representatives of both the publisher and the union with the discharge to be submitted to binding impartial arbitration if the joint committee could not resolve the issue. The union refused to budge and insisted on continuing the unfair past practice.

Third is the procedure for the settlement of other grievances. Both the I-J and the union propose that grievances be settled by appeal to a joint standing committee representing both publisher and the union with final recourse to binding arbitration. However, the I-J insists that it be entitled, as any employer would be, to control the work during the prompt settlement of the grievance; the union insists that the "status quo" be maintained. Experience has indicated that it usually is not possible during the dispute to agree on what the "status quo" is. The only union with which the I-J has ever had a formal grievance procedure is the typographical union, all other grievances having been settled by amicable conferences between representatives of the publisher and of the other unions.

Fourth is the issue of the foreman being required to be a member of the union. The National Labor Relations Act as confirmed by Federal courts says that the foreman is not properly a member of the bargaining unit. The courts have ruled that while the union may bargain on this issue it may not strike because of it. In effect, the union continues to insist on the power to fine or otherwise discipline the publisher's representative and supervisor, the foreman, for carrying out the instructions of the publisher.

There are minor issues which lend themselves to settlement by negotiation.

This then is what has caused the disruption of the production and distribution of the Independent-Journal and deprived some 60-odd union employees of their regular livelihood.

How did it happen?

The I-J's agreement with San Francisco Typographical Union No. 21 expired November 2, 1968. Prior to its expiration both the union and the publisher made comprehensive proposals. On September 13 the union notified the publisher in writing that as of November 13, 1968, "any agreement--written, oral, or implied--or any conditions of employment or other understanding now in effect between San Francisco Typographical Union No. 21 and the San Rafael Independent-Journal will terminate." Shortly after negotiations began an impasse was threatened over the issue of reproduction, and it was agreed to suspend formal negotiations while the publisher's representative and the president of the San Francisco local sought a mutually acceptable solution to this issue. Frequent informal meetings were held between the publisher's representative, the president of the union local, and later the international representative of the I.T.U. At no time did the union make any proposal other than its original one for the settlement of this issue.

At the tenth meeting on March 14, 1969, the international representative of the I.T.U. asked the publisher's representative to submit a new proposal, a "best offer" on all unresolved issues. "Let's get up to the 5-yard line." The publisher's representative acceded to the request.

The Independent-Journal then prepared and submitted a new proposal including all items then agreed and substantially modifying the proposal on unresolved issues.

On April 29, 1969, this new proposal was rejected on 14 points, the union making no counterproposal of any kind. It was agreed that an impasse in negotiations had been reached, but both parties agreed not to close the door finally on an attempt to reach a settlement.

At the request of the union, the publisher's representative on June 2, 1969, traveled to the international headquarters of the I.T.U. in Colorado Springs for informal meetings with the international officers and a formal meeting with the Executive Council and San Francisco union representatives.

The meetings were amicable, the international officers indicated that all the unresolved issues were negotiable, and the union agreed, as required by law, that the publisher could implement increases in the scale of wages paid to I-J printers to conform to the area scale. This acquiescence by the union, which had earlier been refused, was confirmed during later negotiations with the local committee of the San Francisco union and implemented by the I-J.

Negotiations were resumed and encouraging progress was made on minor issues.

On October 17, 1969, the situation began to deteriorate. An I-J printer was discharged for cause; the union insisted that past appeals practice, which had pertained under the terminated contract, be followed; and the I-J said that it would accept an interim appeals procedure consistent with its bargaining position but not the old practice. The I.T.U. international representative then said, "The union's position is that the condition for any further negotiations is unqualified acceptance by the company of all terms of the old contract on a day-to-day basis pending the final outcome of negotiations."

The publisher's representative demurred and the I.T.U. representative then concluded, "I don't know of any basis on which to schedule further meetings."

The publisher's representative said that he was disposed to meet at any time if there is any remote possibility of a basis on which to proceed, and negotiations were ended.

At the request of other unions with which the I-J had contracts the publisher's representative twice met with a committee of the other unions and the printers' union. The printers' union rejected proposals for interim ground rules both from the other unions and from the I-J.

The publisher's representative met twice more with the international representative of the I.T.U. and the president of another union who offered to serve as a mediator. The meetings were not fruitful. The publisher's representative also offered to meet with an international vice president of the I.T.U. in a last-ditch effort to avoid a strike, but this offer was ignored.

On the evening of January 6, 1970, the Independent-Journal was informed that the San Francisco printers' union was organizing pickets and would picket the I-J the following morning.

A prompt check of composing room equipment revealed that wiring and electronic controls had been damaged and that electronic circuitry had been sprayed with epoxy. During the night tires were slashed on I-J delivery trucks and one radiator was smashed.

The I-J called in executive and supervisory personnel and other employees to repair damaged equipment. When I.T.U. pickets appeared at the I-J at 6:40 the following morning, the I-J proceeded to publish the Wednesday, January 7, 1970, edition using executive and supervisory personnel and other employees. Some union employees reported for work, but members of the stereotypers' and pressmen's union refused to cross the picket line. The 44-page edition was published from 4 to 6 hours late.

Some violence occurred when other employees reported for work and when I-J delivery trucks left the plant. One delivery truck was later forced from the road and damaged with personal injury to an occupant.

On Thursday, January 8, the I-J obtained a temporary restraining order limiting picketing and forbidding violence and threats of violence. The effect of this order was to reduce violence except that slashing of tires on I-J trucks and employees' cars and threatening phone calls continued. On Saturday, January 17, a mass demonstration in violation of the restraining order was held at the I-J plant.

The rally finally dissipated, but picketers returned to the I-J plant and threatened to prevent distribution of the Saturday edition. At the request of the police the I-J delayed distribution for more than two hours, but it was finally determined to start distribution and the police were required to restrain unruly picketers.

Eggs and paint were spread on the building and tires were slashed.

Since the beginning of the strike no attempt has been made by officers of the printers' union or other unions involved to initiate discussions designed to bring an early halt to the strike.

I-J publisher Wishard A. Brown has said: "We have full legal rights and moral obligations to continue publishing the Independent-Journal without interruption."

Teacher Has Sports Book Hot Off Press

Albert "Cap" Lavin, Supervisor of English for the Tamalpais High School District, has authored a book hot off the Harcourt, Brace & World, Inc. presses titled "Action! An Anthology of Writing About Sports."

Cappy's collector's item (that's an anthology, Agnes) includes some of the fanciest chronicling in the annals of sweat and strain, with the likes of John Steinbeck, William Faulkner, Federico Garcia Lorca, E. B. White, Budd Schulberg, Irwin Shaw, Edmund Hillary, James Thurber and Heywood Broun among 28 contributors.

The English text book, highly readable and suitable for upper-grade high school students, is splendidly illustrated by photographs selected by Robert Creamer, Senior Editor of Sports Illustrated.

It's a dandy book and Lavin, a former basketball star at USF (1951-52 vintage), is to be congratulated on his excellent taste of printed English.

Can Become Lost In This World

However, students who use it as their guide may become lost in the real sports world where the King's English takes an awful beating.

To further prepare Lavin's students who might stumble into the vivid colloquy of sportsdom, here are some foreign phrases they may encounter:

The portside pill projector ogled the enemy willow wielder through orbs of Bethlehem, then burned a high hard one across the dish for the final whiff in the initial stanza.

The banjo batsmen, who strokes dying quails and rainmakers as a rule, suddenly turned tiger in the fourth heat and ripped a clothesline shot through the keystone and followed it up in the sixth canto by muscling a Ruthian four-ply swat just beyond the outstretched 14 karat receptacle of the starboard pasture security officer.

What About The Elongated Rook

Editor Lavin, well-versed in basketball, should at least have found room in his English book to tell about the elongated rook who stuffed a deuce in the waning ticks of the final canto to give the home heroes the coveted gonfolan, or about the court magician with the slick mitts and fleet feet who ripped the cords with the casaba at the business end of the rapid fracture to spread the icing on Betty Crocker's victory sweets.

After which he calmly toed the charity stripe and parted the twine with a solo shot.

Then there is football's Iron Toe who split the uprights with the oblate spheroid for a trey to ice the issue as the partisan filberts went berserk.

Track contributes the hurryin' harrier who led the low timber skimmers over the furlong in a spine-tingler.

You Golfers Know What I Mean

I guess the lexicon of golf, though, is the champion of them all. If you are a pasture pool divotee, then you will know what I mean when I say the weekend shanksmith crunched a duck hook off the tee, a banana ball on his second swing, then a grass cutter followed by a quail high miss into the cabbage. His next rabbit shot landed on the frog's hair, he hit a fat chip leaving him a real snake, missed a sea-goer on the pro side, then blew a knee-knocking gimme that he tried to sneak through the side door.

Come to think of it, I just may edit a book and call it "Activity! An Assemblage of Sweat-Stained Scribblings."

P.S. Lavin's book is a beaut and a must for any sportsman's library. I hope he'll autography my copy.

McLain Not Cleared By Baseball

NEW YORK (UPI)—Denny McLain stood cleared by a U.S. grand jury today leaving his future in the hands of Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

The 25-year-old Detroit Tiger pitcher was not charged and was declared "free to go as he pleases" Wednesday after voluntarily testifying before a special U.S. grand jury in Detroit which is investigating an alleged nationwide sports betting ring.

NO REASON

"I know of no reason for McLain not to show up for spring training on Friday," said James Brickley, U.S. attorney for Eastern Michigan, after McLain's testimony. McLain is scheduled to report to spring training along with the other Tiger pitchers and catchers in Lakeland, Fla., Friday.

In New York, however, Commissioner Kuhn refused by maintaining a discreet silence to give McLain a clean bill of health as far as baseball is concerned. That silence led many baseball executives to suspect that Kuhn, using the precedent of Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis' 1921 decision barring eight Chicago White Sox players from baseball for life, might take disciplinary action against the pitcher.

SAID LANDIS

"Regardless of the verdict of juries," said Landis on the same night the players were acquitted, "no player who throws a ball game, no player that undertakes or promises to throw a ball game, no player that sits in conference with a bunch of crooked players and gamblers where the ways and means of throwing a game are discussed and does not promptly tell his club about it, will ever play professional baseball again."

NO THROWN GAMES

One factor that could sway Kuhn from following Landis' precedent is that McLain has not been accused of being involved in any allegedly-thrown games.

Brickley said McLain was "very cooperative" with U.S. Assistant Attorney James Ritchie and the grand jury in Wednesday's appearance. The 23-member federal panel has been hearing testimony from sports figures and gamblers about an alleged nationwide betting ring that came to light New Year's Day.

Shula Admits Real Reason— In Dollars

MIAMI (UPI) — The Miami Dolphins went to the Baltimore Colts to get Don Shula to replace George Wilson as head coach, but they had to give him a "substantial" chunk of the ball club to do it.

Shula said he "would not be truthful" if he didn't admit that financial considerations had a great deal to do with leaving the head coaching job at Baltimore to be vice president and coach of the Dolphins.

Exact terms of the contract were not disclosed other than mention that "substantial ownership" went with the coaching job. But it was reported to be a five-year, $70,000 contract which would total more than a half-million dollars.

OPPORTUNITY

"I think this is a tremendous opportunity for me to continue to coach and also to become active in ownership—something I've always wanted to do," Shula said.

The ownership clause puts Shula's contract in a class with those of Washington Redskins' Vince Lombardi and the Washington Senators' Ted Williams. Both were lured to their jobs with part ownership offers.

Under the merger of the American and National football leagues, both Baltimore and Miami will be member of the Eastern Division of the American Conference of the NFL.

"I look forward to the intense rivalry this engenders with the Baltimore Colts," said Dolphin managing partner Joe Robbie.

The Colts will play one exhibition game in Miami and the teams meet in two regular season contests on a home and home basis.

REGRETS

Shula said he regretted replacing George Wilson, under whom he served from 1959-62 as an assistant coach for the Detroit Lions.

"George is a personal friend and my former head coach," Shula said. "I'm thankful for the years I had the opportunity to work as an assistant with him.

"I think he has done a fine job with an expanding football team and any success I could have in the future would be partly attributed to the ground work laid by George and his assistant coaches," Shula said.

Shula was the NFL coach of the year three of his seven years with the Colts. His record is the best for an active pro coach—71-23-4—and he won the NFL title in 1968 and the Western Division crown in 1964.

Shula called 1969 "the worst year of my career." It started with a Super Bowl loss to the New York Jets and wound up with a disappointing 8-5-1 regular season NFL record.

ONLY COACH

Wilson was the only coach the Dolphins have had in their four year history. He won 15, lost 39 and tied two.

Last year, the Dolphins had a 3-10-1 mark, the worst since the inaugural 1966 season's 3-11 record.

Robbie said he made the announcement at an outdoor news conference with "mixed emotions" because he regretted letting Wilson go. But he said: "George Wilson will have a place with the Dolphins, not only as long as I'm around, but as long as he is here and the Dolphins are here."

Robbie did not say what new position Wilson would be offered and the outgoing coach's immediate plans were not known.

Warriors Must Stop Their 5-Game Slide

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The San Francisco Warriors have two days off in which to figure out how to stop a headlong slide toward the Western Division cellar in the National Basketball Association.

Wednesday night's 109-102 loss to the Milwaukee Bucks before 5,807 fans at Civic Auditorium extended the Warriors losing streak to five games and left them only two games ahead of last-place San Diego.

Vs. CELTICS

The Warriors return to NBA action Saturday night in the Civic Auditorium against the Boston Celtics.

San Francisco took a 25-23 first-quarter lead over the Bucks but Milwaukee took a 51-46 halftime advantage as Lew Alcindor finished the half with 17 points.

Alcindor, who sat out seven minutes of the fourth quarter after picking up his fifth foul, led the Bucks with 26. Teammate Jon McGlocklin scored 16 in the second half and finished with 23.

MULLINS HIGH

Jeff Mullins and Jerry Lucas led the Warriors with 26 and 25, respectively.

The Warriors trailed by 15 points early in the fourth quarter but rallied to cut the margin to eight with 2:35 left.

But Alcindor's stuff shot and a field goal and two free throws by Flynn Robinson kept the Bucks out of reach.

Sikes Wins San Antonio Pro-Am: 66

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Veteran Dan Sikes shot a four under par 66 Wednesday to win the individual section in the pro-am golf tournament preceding the first round of the $100,000 San Antonio Open.

Sikes won $1,000.

Tied for second at 68 were Jim Colbert, Bruce Crampton, Lee Trevino, Orville Moody and Billy Maxwell. Each won $600.

Jack Ewing and his team of three amateurs had a best ball 55, worth $800 to Ewing.

Contra Costa Edges Marin, Wins Title

It was a case of so near but yet so far last night for College of Marin's basketball team as the Contra Costa Junior College Comets nipped the Tars 73-71 to clinch the Camino Norte Conference championship at San Pablo.

The win was Contra Costa's 11th against 1 loss while Marin is now 7-5 in conference action going into Saturday's season finale against Santa Rosa J. C. at Kentfield.

Coach John Panagakis' Tars could hold their heads high today because they lost to the league titlist twice by a grand total of only five points, dropping their first encounter by 55-52.

"We came closer than anybody else to beating Contra Costa at their home," said Panagakis after last night's thriller. The Tars, who were led by Pat Schafer's 25 points, trailed by 38-33 at halftime and pecked away at an upset bid throughout the second half before time ran out.

Marin Scoring—Pat Schafer, 10-5-15; Tom Seidenberg, 3-4-10; Bob Tait, 1-2-4; Pat Purcell, 0-1-1; Tom McCart, 5-2-12; Daryl Ravani, 5-2-12; Chip Tyson, 1-2-4; Art Goepp, 1-1-3. Totals: 26-19-71.

Seal's Marshall Out Of Action

COMBINED AP & UPI

OAKLAND—Defenseman Bert Marshall of the Oakland Seals will be out of action for at least a week with a back injury, the National Hockey League club said yesterday.

Marshall suffered a severely twisted back in Tuesday night's 3-3 tie against Boston, a Seals' spokesman said. He was taken from the ice on a stretcher after slamming into the boards following a collision with the Bruins' John McKenzie.

Bobby Orr Changed The Game

By MILTON RICHMAN

NEW YORK (UPI)—Bobby Orr, Boston's 21-year old boy wonder, is so good he has revolutionized the game of ice hockey.

He's so good he now stands to become the first defenseman ever to lead the national hockey league in scoring.

He's so good. . .well, he earns close to $100,000 a year from the Bruins alone and he has only three seasons behind him so maybe that gives you some idea. Many people in the NHL, the people who know, claim he is the No. 1 player in the game today. Some say he's too good to be true.

SMART

Bobby Orr has another thing going for him. He's smart. Plenty smart. The last thing he's ever going to be is a prima donna. He may be super boy and all that but he still gets a chewing out occasionally from Coach Harry Sinden like all the rest of the Bruins and what's more, Bobby Orr sits there and takes it.

"Why not?" he asked. "If he's chewing me out it's for my own good. Why should I be any exception? I'd feel funny otherwise. I'd be disappointed, I think."

Traditionally, defensemen were thought of pretty much as clods on ice although don't ever call one that or he's likely to punch you in the nose. They were generally known as defenders, not scorers. Until the precocious Orr came along. He gives the Bruins four forwards when he's on the ice instead of only three and you don't have to be a hockey expert to see what trouble that means to the other clubs.

LEADER

Orr led all defensemen in scoring last season with 21 goals and 43 assists for 64 points. He finished 23rd in scoring overall and his total nunber of goals established a record for a defenseman. This season he's doing even better. He has passed his point total of last season already and the last time the league made known its scoring figures, there was Bobby Orr's name, like Abou Ben Adam's, at the top of the list by a cushy 12-point margin over teammate Phil Esposito.

Few professional athletes have had as much praise splashed on them by word of mouth or in print as Orr has during the relatively short time he has been playing professionally. He has handled all of it far better than some other superstars have.

"If I said it didn't make me feel good to hear and read some of the things which had to do with me I'd be a fibber," Orr confesses. "I look at it all a different way. I feel the Boston Bruins pay me a good salary. That means I have a job to do and I try to do it to the very best of my ability."

Hawks Aided By Friends From East

By U.P. International

The Atlanta Hawks are getting a little help from their Eastern friends in their bid for the National Basketball Association's Western title.

The top three teams in the West took on Eastern rivals Wednesday night, and only the division-leading Hawks managed to win. Atlanta beat the Cincinnati Royals, 139-125, in overtime, while the Baltimore Bullets defeated the Los Angeles Lakers, 117-103, and the Boston Celtics edged the Phoenix Suns, 116-113.

In two other games, Milwaukee defeated San Francisco, 109-102, and San Diego beat Seattle, 122-119.

Joe Caldwell pumped in 41 points and Lou Hudson added 38 to provide the Hawks with the fourth victory in their last five games. The victory put Atlanta 2½ games ahead of Los Angeles and 8½ in front of both Phoenix and idle Chicago.

Bailey Howl sank four crucial free throws and Jo Jo White added two more in the last 30 seconds to stave off a Phoenix rally. Phoenix had fought back from a 17-point deficit early in the second half to go ahead 111-110 with only two minutes left, setting the stage for Howell's and White's foul shots. John Havlicek led Boston with 30 points and Don Nelson had 26.

Earl Monroe got 24 points and Keven Loughery 23 as Baltimore defeated Los Angeles for the third straight time. Loughery sparked a second-quarter rally which carried the Bullets from a 42-41 lead to a 58-45 halftime margin. Ray Scott of the Bullets got nine points to surpass the 10,000-point mark with a total of 10,007 for his 10-year career.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

It May Be $100,000 Rose

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pete Rose, slugging outfielder for the Cincinnati Reds, may sign his 1970 baseball contract today and become the first $100,000-a-year player for the Reds.

All that is needed, says the NL batting champion for the last two years, is a call from Bob Howsam, general manager of the Reds.

Rose, who is supposed to have been paid $80,000 last season reportedly has sought $110,000 but has indicated he would settle for the 100 grand.

There has been no word from Howsam as the Reds opened their spring training camp today at Tampa.

Activities picked up at the training camps Wednesday with the world champion New York Mets, Atlanta Braves, Baltimore Orioles, Washington Senators, San Diego Padres and New York Yankees each putting in several hours of limbering up drills.

Before their workout at St. Petersburg the Mets signed catcher J.C. Martin and pitcher Danny Frisella. Manager Gil Hodges directed the workout.

The Braves drilled at West Palm Beach after pitcher Cecil Upshaw reported with his signed contract. The Braves also signed hurlers Bob Priddy, Mike McCammon and Ron Schueler.

Two unsigned pitcher, Dave McNally and Jim Palmer, were missing as the Orioles opened camp at Miami. Catcher Andy Etchebarren also was absent.

At Pompano Beach, Manager Ted Williams cautioned rookie pitcher Jeff Vollweiler about throwing too hard. The rookie replied he wasn't even at half speed.

Pat Dobson pitched 15 minutes of batting practice for the Padres at Yuma, Ariz., and Manager Preston Gomez said he couldn't think of an NL pitcher with a better curve.

The Yankees signed outfielder Roy White before opening camp at Fort Lauderdale.

Pitcher Jose Santiago of the Boston Red Sox said he cannot throw a slider any more and will have to get along without it. He underwent elbow surgery last summer. Santiago is working out early at Winter Haven where the full corps of Red Sox battery players report Friday.

DiMaggio Thinking Spaghetti

OAKLAND (AP) — Joe DiMaggio says he is stepping down as coach and executive vice president of the Oakland Athletics because he's busy starting a chain of spaghetti restaurants.

The former New York Yankee great announced yesterday that his business interests made it necessary to avoid the baseball season travel grind.

He had held the dual coaching and executive duties the two seasons the A's have been in Oakland.

But he will spend spring training with the A's, DiMaggio said.

"I just got through talking with (A's owner) Charlie Finley," DiMaggio said, "and we agreed that I would go down there (Mesa, Ariz.) strictly for spring training.

"The traveling would make it difficult for me to keep up with my business ventures."

DiMaggio, 55, also has suffered with a back ailment.

In another personnel change, publicist Val Binns resigned to join an Oakland publishing company.

The A's announced four more player signings, bringing the total of players under contract to 24.

Pitchers Ed Sprague, LaDon Boyd and Roberto Rodriguez and outfielders Bob Brooks were the latest to sign.

Among the players still unsigned are outfielders Reggie Jackson and Rick Monday, infielders Sal Bando, Dick Green and Don Mincher, and pitchers Chuck Dobson and Al Downing.

MARIN PREP NOTES

The New Jocks: Marin Mathletes

The Eggheads are turning into jocks, of sorts. They're knocking heads these days, so to speak.

They have something called Mathletes in Marin County, which in essence, is some of the top math students at Marin schools competing in marathon problem solving sessions in seven meets for the "season."

Each school has five mathletes on a team. There's individual problems and team problems to be solved within certain time limits. A team gets one point for each individual problem solved, three for each team problem.

Terra Linda reputedly has one of the top Mathlete teams around, and, since the football program there isn't doing too badly either, you can't say the kids their spend all their time in the gymn.

I don't know what the grooming rules are—perhaps something like no sinuses above the eyebrow, or fingernails can't be chewed two inches above the bone.

Someday, the group will probably have its first superstar—Cranium Triggursky, who solved 18 logrithms n 18 seconds without fogging his glasses.

THE 1970 NORTH - SOUTH all-star baseball game, featuring the cream of the preps in Northern and Southern California, has been set for Jan. 21 at Anaheim. The first game in the series was played in Candlestick Park last summer.

HERE'S SOME more statistics on San Marin super-star, 6-8 junior center Dana LaFerriere. He's hit on 153 of 310 shots from the floor this year for a 49 per cent showing, made 159 of 231 free throws for a 69 per cent average and has grabbed 299 rebounds for an average of 13.5 per game. That, of course, is not touching upon his 465 points on the season for a 21.6 average or his 26.1 Marin County Athletic League average.

MARIN CATHOLIC and Redwood are tied for the MCAL lead in the frosh cage race. Both teams have 6-2 records.

INCIDENTALLY, St. Patrick's of Vallejo seems to be doing reasonably well in the hectic and tough Catholic Athletic League. They recently knocked off St. Elizabeth of Oakland, a team that handed Redwood one of its three losses on a 24-3 season. St. Elizabeth's, however, immediately went into a tailspin, losing three in a row.

JEAN-CLAUDE KILLY

Best Way To Learn Take Skiing Lessons

Skiing is so much fun, so absorbing, that it is easy to become complacent about your progress. It amazes me to look at a slope full of weekend skiers and note how much bad skiing goes on. It's not that I object to bad skiing, it's just that I know how much more fun skiing becomes when you know how to ski well.

When you don't ski with the right techniques, you may have a terrible time on hard surfaces or on snow that is broken up or even on snow that is wonderfully deep. Yet for me and thousands of other good skiers, all these conditions are very enjoyable.

There are two ways to learn the techniques for different or unusual snow conditions. First way (the hardest to learn), is to watch better skiers than yourself and try to imitate their movement. The other way is to take a lesson from a competent, certified ski instructor. If the instructor is good, you will learn a number of very helpful things even in just one lesson, though it is usually best to give your teacher a fair chance by taking at least 3 or 4 lessons.

I would urge you to take a group or class lesson first. There you will not only profit from the instruction given you but also from seeing and listening to the errors and corrections given to the others. If you have a peculiar or special problem which would best be corrected through an hour or two of concentrated effort, your instructor will recommend a private lesson. Though it may cost 2 or 3 times as much as a group lesson, the dividends to be earned in terms of more pleasure and safety could be worth far more than the cost.

In today's illustration you see me leading down a couple of people who want to improve. I have instructed them to stay very close to me and to follow as exactly in my tracks as they can. This way, they can imitate my movements, almost without thinking of them and profit by my ability to choose the right (easiest) place to turn. An accomplished instructor will ask you to do just the same both in class and with private lessons. Do your best to follow closely when your turn comes. Lessons can teach you a great deal and help you to transcend the ordinary.

Coaching Is Family Thing For Marin's Dick Read

By RALPH CHATOIAN

For College of Marin football coach Dick Read, just say it's in the family.

Read, who has compiled a record of 46 wins, 29 losses and 2 ties during nine years at Marin, is one of three brothers in the coaching profession. Len Read is baseball coach at Santa Rosa Junior College and Don is head football coach at Portland State University.

Dick Read also coaches the Tars' tennis team and teaches physical education at the Kentfield junior college.

The 41-year-old Read spent his childhood in Los Angeles, his family moving to Santa Rosa when he was a junior in high school. At Santa Rosa High School he was a football and baseball star (All-Northern California in football and all North Bay League in baseball, playing third base in the first San Francisco Examiner All-Star game in 1947). As if that wasn't enough, he was No. 2 man on the school's golf team.

SPORTING BLOOD

Sports was in his blood, Read's father playing baseball in the Pacific Coast League in San Francisco, Los Angeles and Salt Lake City.

"I had chances to sign for pro baseball but I decided on a football scholarship instead," Read said.

He went to St. Mary's College and played football and baseball before military service interrupted his schooling in 1950. He was drafted during his junior year and spent a tour of duty in Germany.

CHANGED MIND

"I started out going to paratrooper school, but when I saw that tower we had to jump from I changed my mind," he laughed. Instead he was able to get in special services and played football and baseball on all-European Army teams. Ah, much better duty.

During his Army days he had met some people who really backed the schools in the Missouri Valley Conference, so Read decided to try University of Tulsa. He planned on getting back to football, but an injury and subsequent shoulder operation ended his playing days. While at Tulsa, before his graduation, he helped coach at a Catholic high school there.

SCOUTING, COACHING

He then came back to the Bay Area and went to San Francisco State to work for his secondary teaching credential. He did some scouting and student coaching under the late Joe Verducci, football coach.

"I learned a lot under Joe," Read said, "especially offense."

After college, Read got a job at Pleasant Hill High School in Concord and did some assistant coaching, then a year later switched to St. Mary's High in Berkeley where he was head football coach and assistant baseball coach two years. The next two years, 1959 and 1960, he was at San Rafael High School as head football coach and assistant track coach. From there it was on to College of Marin.

FOOTBALL STRUGGLING

He came to College of Marin when the football program was struggling for existence and quickly put it back on its feet. The 1959 team had lost all its games and the 1960 team lost its first five games and had to forfeit its last four because there were not enough players left on the team to even play. In Read's first year at the helm, 1961, the team rebounded to a winning record, five wins and four losses. In only two of Read's nine years has Marin failed to have a winning record.

Looking back over the years, Read feels his 1967 team, with runners like Dean Lazzarini and Tim Harr, was the best he's had. That team averaged 35 points a game and finished with an 8-1 record. He also well remembers the 1963 Tars' team, which included a pair of linemen named Martin Baccaglio and Elmer Collett.

PRO GRIDDERS

Collett is now a starting offensive guard for the San Francisco 49ers and Baccaglio is a defense end for the Cincinnati Bengals.

Read and wife Barbara have three daughters, Kathy, 8, Janet, 7, and Lisa, 5, and one son, Robert, 2.

It took three children before Dick could come up with a football player and early indications are he's gonna be a big one.

"He's only two but he already weighs 36 pounds," said Read. "Man, can that guy eat."

It's A Tide Of Upsets In Tennis

SALISBURY, Md. (AP) — Seeded players Arthur Ashe, Stan Smith, Tom Okker and Clark Graebner were swept up in a tide of upsets Wednesday in the National Indoor Open Tennis Championships.

Only three of eight seeds remain and one, Tony Roche, may be scratched due to injury.

Advancing to the quarter-finals were: world champion Rod Laver who defeated Torben Ulrich, 6-4, 6-1 in his initial match, and second domestic seed Cliff Richey, who beat Manual Santana of Spain 7-5, 6-3.

Rumanians Ilie Nastase and Ion Tiriac provided two of the big upsets. The swift Nastase tripped Ashe, America's number two player, 8-6, 5-7, 6-2, and Tiriac surprised Tom Okker of the Netherlands, 6-3, 7-5. Smith, the U.S. champion, fell to England's Roger Taylor, 8-6, 2-6, 6-3.

New Yorker Graebner won a split decision from tournament officials who wanted to eject him for "use of obscene language" but dropped a 12-10, 6-3 verdict to Ismail El Shafei of Egypt.

Pappas Takes Lead In Bowling Tourney

MILWAUKEE (AP) — George Pappas, a 23-year-old rookie from Charlotte, N.C., fired series of 1,374 and 1,364 Wednesday to grab a 42 pin lead after the first two rounds of the $70,000 Miller Open bowling tournament.

Mike Lemingelo of North Babylon, N.Y., whose 1,452 paced the first round,dropped to second with 2,696 as most scores dipped from the first bloc.

Can't Take Sports So Seriously, Says Coach

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Paul Valenti, who has resigned as head basketball coach at Oregon State University, says one of the prime reasons he is leaving the job is that too many people care too much about college athletics.

"It burns me, it really does, that so many persons take the games so seriously," Valenti said Tuesday at the Oregon Sportswriters and Sportscasters Association meeting.

Valenti, who has been involved with OSU basketball for 29 years, the last six as head coach, said he was referring to the people "with fine reputations as supporters of athletics and, when you lose, they knock you when there is no reason for it.

"If the players go out there and give it 100 per cent . . . and lose, then what of it? Nobody can dominate athletics these days. So have a bad year once in awhile; that is good for you.

"I just think that too many people put too much stock in the final score and don't recognize the effort made by the athletes," Valenti said.

Valenti, who will become assistant athletic director and tennis coach at OSU, said he thought the change would be good for him and "possibly it will be good for OSU basketball, too."

Today is Thursday, Feb. 19 the 50th day of 1970 with 315 to follow.

The moon is approaching its full phase. The morning stars are Mercury and Jupiter. The evening stars are Venus, Mars and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1922 Ed Wynn of Vaudeville and musical comedy fame became the first big name in show business to sign for a regular radio program.

In 1945 U.S. Marines landed on Iwo Jima to start one of the bloodiest battles in the Pacific during World War II.

Also in 1945 war mobilization director James Byrnes ordered a midnight curfew on all places of entertainment.

In 1964 King Constantine of Greece was named regent as the condition of his father, King Paul, worsened.

A thought for the day—David Garrick, born on this date in 1717, said, "Let others hail the rising sun; I bow to that whose courses has run."

HOW TO PLAY
WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

No-Trump Principle Can Be Applied To A Trump Contract

When you play a no-trump hand you're accustomed to thinking of one opponent as dangerous and the other as safe, depending on which of them is in position to run a long suit against you. At a trump contract the same principle is important, although the reason may be different.

TEN OF CLUBS

West opens the ten of clubs, and declarer wins in dummy with the king. It doesn't happen to be important in this hand where declarer wins the first trick, but on general principles it pays to conceal the full club strength. If South takes the first trick with the queen it will be absolutely clear that he has the entire club suit locked up.

From South's point of view, East is the dangerous opponent because if East gains the lead prematurely he may lead a diamond through the king, and then the defenders may take three diamond tricks. This would surely happen if South played the trumps "normally" by taking the king and ace. East would ruff the third club and lead the queen of diamonds, defeating the contract.

ONLY ONE WAY

If South wants to finesse against the missing queen of spades he is in position to finesse either way, but on a high level it is only a one-way finesse. Declarer should take the ace of spades and then lead the ten of spades for a finesse through East.

When the finesse happens to succeed, South has no further problem. But even if the finesse lost the contract would be unbeatable. If West leads diamonds, South's king will win a trick; and if West leads anything else, declarer can discard a diamond on dummy's fourth club.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
S- A 10 9 3
H- K 8
D- 7 3 2
C- A K J 7

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one club.

If you have biddable four-card suits in clubs and spades, bid the clubs first. Partner will probably respond in hearts or diamonds, and you will have a very convenient bid of one spade. If you open with one spade, and partner bids two hearts or two diamonds, it is not nearly so convenient to show your other suit.

Marin Has Weak Start In Building

Marin County got off to a weak start for 1970 in construction activity last month, with the total value of building permits down to $1,900,951.

This was a 59.9 per cent drop from last year's first-month total of $4,744,738, according to figures from the Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau.

San Rafael incorporated and unincorporated areas, usually well over $1 million, were down to $577,640, about 80 per cent of that residential.

The Novato area was also down, leveling off at $352,000.

Kentfield and Greenbrae had $190,650; Belvedere and Tiburon Peninsula $134,600, Mill Valley $79,166. Ross had one good residential construction permit, bringing its total up to $102,360 after miscellaneous permits were added.

Other communities: Sausalito, $65,257; Larkspur, $77,420; Corte Madera, $43,550; Fairfax, $37,-125; and San Anselmo $8,478. West Marin and other unincorporated areas registered permits totaling $232,705, about 70 per cent residential.

Fund Growth

NEW YORK (UPI)—Mutual fund assets increased by nearly 400 per cent during the past decade, according to Wiesenberger Financial Services, a major reporter on the mutual fund industry. With assets soaring from $13 billion in 1960 to more than $50 billion today, mutual funds have had the fastest growth rate of any major investment medium in the past decade.

Phillips Petroleum's Prospects Look Good

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. We have shares of Phillips Petroleum. Would you advise us to sell? What is the company's future outlook?—E.B.

A. Despite an improved third and fourth quarter, Phillips Petroleum reported a slight decline in full-year 1969 earnings from $1.73 to $1.78. Weak prices in some segments and plant start-up costs were adverse influences and narrowed profit margins for much of 1969.

However, future prospects are encouraging. The company has one of the strongest positions among the major domestic oils in natural gas produced per common share. Thus, an increase in natural gas prices would greatly benefit Phillips, and with the recent reduction in the depletion allowance the FPC is hard-pressed by the industry to do just that.

Phillips' Arctic Slope holdings could boost future earnings. Significant output from this area would lessen or even abolish the company's costly crude purchases presently required to meet the demand of its West Coast marketing territory. In the meantime, the objectives set forth by the new president may spark a reawakening for Phillips: exploration and profits are expected to be stressed. Shares may be held.

Q. I have a substantial number of shares in Diversified Growth of the Anchor group. There has been a shrinkage in value. Are they worth holding?—D.F.

A. Diversified Growth, like many of the other speculative growth funds, found the going rough in the 1969 market slump. In fact, for the first time in six years, this fund suffered a loss — 16.4 per cent. While this drop in value is somewhat larger than the average decline of all growth funds, gains in prior years amply offset this. In rising markets such as 1967 and 1965, your fund achieved a 52 and 39 per cent gain respectively. A five-year record, 1964-1969, for Diversified Growth shows a total gain of 78 per cent. Although this mutual fund has an above average growth rating, its speculative portfolio is susceptible to market downturns. Given an improved market climate, this fund should work out for you.

Dun And Bradstreet Seeking Financial Statement Copies

Manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers in Marin County this month are receiving requests for copies of their financial statements from Dun and Bradstreet, Inc.

This is an annual mailing procedure for this company which will mail out this year almost three million such requests to business concerns in all parts of the United States. In Marin County a total og 2,243 concerns are receiving letters, their names obtained from an analysis of the company's business data bank listings last November.

They are mostly manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers who seek or grant commercial credit. Not included are some of the service and professional businesses, such as beauty and barber shops, security dealers and real estate brokers, of which Marin has an ample share.

When a business fills in and mails back its financial statement it becomes a part of the Dun and Bradstreet credit report on that business and a factor in determining its credit rating. These reports are heavily used by insurance underwriters, bankers and other businessmen who want to evaluate the credit risk of a business before shipping or selling.

Total requests mailed to Marin are only about 3.5 per cent more numerous than those sent out a year ago. San Rafael has the biggest mailing list - 945. Mill Valley had 272, Novato 253, Sausalito 224, San Anselmo 148, Corte Madera 88, Belvedere and Tiburon 82, Fairfax 67 and Larkspur 49. The remaining 115 are scattered generally throughout the rest of the county.

ON THE SUBJECT of Marin business establishments, the Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau has compiled a list of organizations here that employ 50 or more persons. The toatl list adds up to 101, but 31 of these are city, county, school and civic offices, leaving a net of 70 business organizations in that category.

AND FROM the Better Business Bureau of San Francisco comes a report that written complaints in the San Francisco-Marin-Sonoma County area for 1969 from unhappy consumers totaled 4,638—a 45-per cent increase over 1968 (There is no breakdown figure for Marin alone). The three top complaint categories were TV sales and service, auto service and repair and magazine sales.

During the past year over 27,000 consumers asked the bureau for "reliability reports" - the business reputation of area firms reflected in bureau files. Increased investigation activity was shown in real estate and travel services - particularly relating to vaction contests in one category and apartment rental deposit problems in the other.

INTERNATIONAL SPORTSMAN, INC., which recently located at 26 Mark Drive, Northgate Industrial Park, San Rafael, has just issued its 1970 mail order catalog (its first) covering all kinds of fresh and salt water fishing tackle and related gear. The catalog is available upon request.

INSURANCE: Randall W. Sanders of Fairfax has been appointed an agent for the Redwood Empire district agency of Prudential Insurance Co. in San Rafael. . .Eldon Davis, who has been manager of the Marin County area for Combined Insurance Co. of America, has moved with his family to Portland, where he takes over as subregional manager. Both he and his wife (who also worked for Combined Insurance) have received the company's highest awards for outstanding sales results. They were residents of Santa Rosa.

Dutch Trade

THE HAGUE (UPI)—International goods traffic from and to Holland in the first half of 1969 was 14 per cent higher than in the corresponding period of 1968, according to the Ministry of Economic Affairs.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

42 EDITORIAL PAGE San Rafael, Calif. Thursday, Feb. 19, 1970

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Grand Jury's Kind Words Should Not Be Overlooked

A county grand jury, in its role of watchdog over the county's governmental agencies, usually devotes most of its attention to those things needing improvement or correction. The 1969 Marin County Grand Jury, which filed its final report this week, was no exception; it was critical in many areas, and called for many improvements.

Getting less notice in the grand jury report, but nonetheless present, were many words of compliment to individuals and agencies in the county. Although these did not make the headlines, they are worth pointing out in the spirit of "credit where credit is due."

THE GRAND JURY was most laudatory of the district attorney's office. Foreman Alfred W. Bowman, in his letter of transmittal, expressed "sincere thanks and appreciation for the cooperation and guidance afforded us by the district attorney, Bruce B. Bales, and his staff." The law enforcement committee commended Bales "for his aggressive and unrelenting prosecution of criminal cases and hard-hitting leadership in the control and prevention of crime . . . despite lenient court decisions which seem to unreasonably restrict police in the detection of crime and apprehension of criminals."

Foreman Bowman also expressed special appreciation to the county clerk and his staff, singling out Mrs. Edmar Hicks especially for thanks..

THE AUDIT and finance committee complimented Treasurer-Tax Collector Stanley J. Fontez "for the able and efficient manner in which this office is conducted," and found Assessor Bert W. Broemmel's office "is performing its duties efficiently and equitably."

The county offices committee was "impressed by the ability" of Asst. County Administrators John Barrows and Thomas A. Campanella, gave credit to County Administrator Alan Bruce "for the efficient manner in which his office is conducted," and commended Purchasing Agent Douglas Edelen for trying to have all county purchases made on a competitive bid basis.

This committee gave a special and notable kind of compliment to Recorder Noel T. Giacomini, observing that "revenue exceeded the expense of this department."

THE EDUCATION committee complimented the county superintendent of schools for the excellence of county-operated schools for mentally retarded, physically handicapped and orthopedically handicapped children.

The law enforcement committee said Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos and his officers "are conducting a most efficient operation." It paid tribute to Mel L. Morse, director of the Marin County Humane Society; Inspector Charles Prandi and Deputy Jeannette Prandi of the sheriff's juvenile department; the county communications department, sealer of weights and measure; Warden Louis S. Nelson of San Quentin Prison, and the county's centralized police services council.

TWO SUPERVISORS came in for committee commendations: Louis H. Barr for "his great interest in juveniles" and Peter R. Arrigoni for efforts to solve lack of sufficient water in some parts of his district.

The public works committee found "the public works department is doing a good job" and the county garage is "an efficient and orderly operation."

All in all, praise was pretty well distributed by the grand jury — along with criticism and, in some cases, outright blame.

The point in reciting all this is to refresh our realization that public officials and employees are not just "tax eaters." Most of them are conscientious and of high calibre.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

Close California State Fair? Little Chance It Will Be Done

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — The California State Fair, variously known as the state fair and exposition, Cal-Expo, etc, etc., again is the target of legislators who think it should be sold and the proceeds put in the state's general fund.

Attack on the fair comes from Assemblyman Kenneth Cory, D-Orange County, who has introduced legislation to wipe out the more than century-old exhibition, which has had a series of ups and downs not equalled by any other state operation.

Cory wants to "close down the ill-fated fair, sell its assets and revert the proceeds to the state general fund," a proposal that money-wise may have some merit.

"CAL-EXPO is a flop," Cory said, "which is not surprising since it is an entertainment run by bureaucrats.

"The state could lose some 27 million dollars over the next five years, and I don't think we can afford to waste that kind of money.

"Last year we were able to persuade Governor Reagan to veto most of the budget appropriation for Cal Expo. Now I think it's about time we close down this whole project, before it costs the taxpayers any more money.

"If a Broadway play is a flop, it closes its doors in short order. Since the state has embarked upon this show business venture, we should also follow the show business example of minimizing our losses."

WHAT CORY doesn't know is that the exposition is not wholly a "show," designed to bring in at least enough money to pay for the exhibition.

Had this been true, the legislature several years ago would not have appropriated funds to construct a new fair, for it has been known for many years that the fair never has been a money-maker and probably never will be.

Rather it is a mirror of the agricultural community of California, and a sort of a celebration of the harvest festival, a custom which is prevalent in many countries of the world.

NOW, WHETHER its worth in dollars and cents can be justified is another question, but it is a fact that people continue to want this festival to take place, even if they have to subsidize it with tax money. The legislature has had many opportunities to close down the fair but has failed to do so.

From all indications, the legislature is not likely to blow the whistle on Cal Expo during the 1970 session. There is too much sentiment in too many influential places to keep the show going, like the agricultural industry, horse racing interests, the carnival contingent, and others.

It's true that the state fair has lost a lot of its old-time attractiveness, has become mechanized, and is a "money-grabber." But on the other hand, the state still has nothing to offer in its place.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Does Union Want To Eliminate I-J?

I have long admired the I-J as the most fair and unbiased newspaper I know of. It, unlike most newspapers, cannot be classified as a "daily distorter"!

You have done a remarkable job of producing and distributing the paper under the most difficult of circumstances for some time. I appreciate this and admire those who have made it possible for the I-J to continue.

A question keeps hounding me during this unjust strike. Does the union wish to force the I-J to cease publication permanently, so that the Pacific Sun will be our only county-wide paper? It may not presently qualify as a "daily distorter," but it qualifies more than any publication familiar to me as a "weekly distorter"!

Timber Conservation Act Distorted

Reader Richard W. Shand's letter (I-J, Feb. 10) calling for opposition to the National Forest Timber Conservation and Management Act is as distorted and slanted as the Sierra Club material which has recently been distributed on this pending legislation.

Mr. Shand indicates that passage of the bill will be a disaster for our national forests, including scenery, wildlife and recreation. He attempts to instill fear in the reader by stating that our pure water supply will be endangered and that insect attacks will increase.

H.R. 12025, the National Forest Timber Conservation and Management Act, provides a self-funding system through which our national forests can carry out a needed program of forest planting on 4.8 million acres and thinning, pruning and cultural practices on an additional 13 million acres. The legislation specifically requires that all of this shall be carried out subject to multiple use and sustained yield principles. These activities will improve the timber-producing capacity of the national forests and help provide for decent housing for all American citizens.

This legislation has the support of the secretary of agriculture, the Forest Service, the secretary of housing and urban development, the Bureau of the Budget, the National Association of Home Builders, and the National Urban League, Inc. It should be supported by all thinking Americans.

ABM Escalates Deadly Competition

The military's position that an ABM system will not further the arms race is ridiculous. For example, the United States response to the Russian ABM system is to deploy multiple warheads on each missile, MIRV, which, when completed, will increase our number of warheads from 4,000 to 10,000 and our overkill capacity of the USSR from 15 to 40. ("The Limitation of Strategic Arms") by Rathjens and Kistiakowsky in January, 1970, issue of Scientific American). 10,000 warheads can overwhelm any kind of ABM system imaginable. The USSR is doing likewise.

In fact, any nuclear power, even small ones like China, will also design offensive missile to counteract this "purely defensive" ABM system More nuclear weapons can only mean a greater possiblity of accidental or purposeful firing. With thermonuclear bombs we must abandon the concept that it is possible to "win" an all out war, unless you believe as Senator Russell of Georgia who said, "If we have to start all over again with Adam and Eve, then I want them to be Americans and not Russians and I want them to be on this continent and not on Europe."

If Dog Nuisance, Follow The Law

Our dog, Nikki, died because of us, and we feel sorrow and guilt. No, he wasn't a hero — he was just an affectionate, appealing brown dog — who was an escape artist. We tried to make our yard escape-proof . . .

Last Wednesday, I received a call from the Humane Society telling me that our dog was dead. He had been hit by a car on Highway 101 and Lamont Avenue — over three miles from our home. Of course we were heartbroken. However, we do not feel that he had wandered that far from home, but that he was transported there in the hope that he would stay lost or be picked up as a stray. There is also the possibility that he was clubbed and then dumped. He did not die instantly, but lingered long enough to be picked up by the ambulance and taken to a pet hospital.

Now we realize that he was probably a nuisance, and we were guilty of breaking the leash law . . . We were also guilty of leniency, but I think this is a lesser evil than cruel and inhumane treatment.

How I wish that I had been notified that Nikki was in custody. I feel certain that as a result of this costly lesson we would have kept him chained in the future — no matter how sad he looked. So I have this to say to all those bothered by unattended dogs: Don't hesitate to have the dog picked up, but please, please don't take the law into your own hands.

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

It's about 11 times as easy to start something as it is to stop something, observes Robert Townsend. For an example, he cites the case of the British, who created a civil service job in 1803 calling for a man to stand on the Cliffs of Dover with a spyglass. He was instructed to ring a bell if he saw Napoleon coming. The job was abolished in 1945.

MARQUIS CHILDS

Spread Of Heroin Among Children Overwhelms Control

NEW YORK — The young carolers who stood in the gathering twilight last Christmas Eve were singing in memory of the 210 teenagers who killed themselves in New York in 1969 with overdoses of heroin. The carolers themselves, outisde the mayor's Gracie Mansion and the Fifth Avenue apartment house where Gov. Nelson Rockefeller lives, were from Odessey House where as former addicts they were being hlpd to kick the habit.

The rapid spread of the heroin habit among youngsters — 12,13 and 14 years old — is a terrifying phenomenon. At a conference here the other day of administrators and teachers from colleges on the eastern seaboard ,Dr. Donald H. Louria, president of the New York State Council on Drug Addiction, uttered a solemn warning.

At the present rate, Dr. Louria said, every high school and every college in the country will be inundated in a couple of years by heroin. He conceded that he was flabbergasted by the spread of the drug among students who were described by the top educators at the conference as alienated, suspicious, mistrustful, idealistic.

THE DIMENSIONS of this sinister growth are hard to come by and must be at best estimates. Mayor Lindsay's specialists in drug abuse put the number of heroin addicts in the city at 100,000. Although this includes some upper-and middle-class youths, they come mostly out of poverty as reflected by the estimate that 50 per cent are blacks and 25 per cent Puerto Ricans.

The arithmetic of the habit is almost as terrifying as the addition itself. The daily series of fixes for each addict costs from $50 to $70. To get that amount by theft means stealing roughly $400, since by the time merchandise passes through a fence the thief receives on-fourth its value. The guess is that the thievery of New York heroin addicts adds up to $2 billion a year.

The city is making a strenuous effort to curb the habit and cure its victims. At present 63 treatment centers are operating and 12 more will opened by June. They are staffed by more than 400 trained personnel, half of them former addicts. The long and painful cure means hardly less than restructuring a life that has been all but eroded away by the drug.

No one pretends for a moment that the attack on the evil is anything but pitifully inadequate. Peter Goldmark, one of the mayor's aids, says bitterly that the cost overrun — not the cost but the cost overrun — of the new Air Force plane, the C-5A, would be sufficient to treat every addict in the city.

THE NIXON administration is initiating the first real breakthrough to try to stop the flow of heroin into the country. The number of agents of the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs overseas, which has been absurdly small, is being doubled to 70 positions — still very small when measured against the possibility of tracing shipments and alerting port authorities in the United States. Turkey, the principal source of the opium from which heroin comes, is getting a $3 million loan from Aid to pay Turkish farmers to grow crops other than the poppy.

The tentacles of the drug traffic are deep in the underworld of a half-dozen countries because the illicit profits are so fantastic. A kilo (2.2 pounds) of heroin on the dock at Marseilles, the center of manufacture and refinement, costs $5,000. Smuggled into New York or another port of entry it is worth up to a half-million dollars. Criminal syndicates put up the cash to bring the stuff in and lay the lines to get delivery in this country. With an estimated three tons coming in annually — that is very conservative — the profits, despite occasional large seizures, are staggering.

Conceding the Nixon administration's first real effort to reduce the traffic, those fighting the spread of the heroin curse fear the program will of necessity be laggard and inadequate. As the demand for the drug grows, so will the determination and the resourcefulness of those who profit so hugely from it.

In a fourth to a third of New York City's public high schools education is a myth and custodial care a constant struggle. In these schools a kind of bourse reflects the daily price of a heroin fix as peddlers move through the halls. Here are the graduates into Hell — the hell of addiction, crime and early death.

Selassie Remains Symbol, But Regime In Trouble

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

It was in 1936 that Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia, a small figure of enormous dignity, stood before the old League of Nations to make a plea that fell on deaf ears.

Italy's 1935 invasion of Ethiopia had brought the world to a turning point in history and when the great powers turned their backs to him he became the supreme symbol of the world's failure to enforce peace through collective action.

IT WAS the beginning of the end of the League of Nations, but not for Haile Selassie, who returned to his throne five years later to make Addis Ababa, his capital, the collective capital of Africa and himself to emerge as the preeminent African leader.

When he visited Washington last July, President Nixon greeted him with:

"No visit to this house has greater historic significance."

Ethiopian troops went to South Korea to support United Nations action there. He proposed, and Washington welcomed, his proposal in 1967 that a small group of nonaligned nations attempt to set up peace talks between the combatants in Vietnam.

He tried valiantly but without success to bring an early end to the civil war in Nigeria.

IT WAS NATURAL then, in fact necessary, that Addis Ababa should become a stop on Sec. of State William P. Rogers' assignment to demonstrate a new United States interest in Africa.

Haile Selassie's Ethiopia is a nation of contradictions.

Its development has been described as an attempt to bring a country from the 15th century into the 20th.

A small but dissident student group admits the emperor has done more for his ancient kingdom than any other man.

But they describe him as an anachronism which they compare to Spain's Generalissimo Francisco Franco. Both, they say, should go.

ADDIS ABABA, headquarters of the Organization for African Unity, is one of the showplace capitals of Africa.

Yet in the provinces literacy may be no higher than one per cent. Smallpox, typhus and leprosy are commonplace.

The average income is only $65 per person annually, and the students complain that theirs is still one of the most backward countries of Africa.

In Eritrea, a former Italian colony on the Red Sea now attached to Ethiopia, breakaway rebels receive financial support from Syria, verbal help from Cairo Radio and, reportedly, training from Cubans.

And, hanging over all, is uncertainty for the future.

HAILE SELASSIE is 77 and the succession is uncertain. Crown Prince Asfa Woosen is said neither to want the job nor to be the man his father is.

The best guess now seems to be that the army will take over, probably under a figure-head monarchy.

You Can Get Prescription At Night - If You Know How

Considering how they were maligned here last Thursday, most of the many pharmacists who called in were surprisingly good-natured about it.

At any rate, we have now been advised in detail that Marin does so have a 24-hour prescription service, and it's been working well since 1966.

It's set up through the Marin County Pharmaceutical Association. Members take night call duty on a rotating basis once a month. The on-call list is provided to medical answering services, to Marin General Hospital and Ross General Hospital, and to United Ambulance.

WHEN A DOCTOR needs an emergency prescription, he calls to learn who is on duty, then calls the prescription to that druggist.

The druggist goes to his pharmacy, opens up for the customer and makes the prescription.

"If the person can't come in, we will deliver," Elvus Regalia of the Medico-Dental Pharmacy said.

But since the on-call druggist may be in one end of the county and the patient in the other, a regular delivery system "would be virtually impossible," said Novato druggist Vincent Severietti. In such a case, the prescription call may be transferred to a druggist nearer the patient, John B. Crosetti of Poehlmann Pharmacy said.

Severietti said he and his partner, Milton Nenneman, of Novato Pharmacy, in addition to the county system have been available on emergency call for their area's doctors and patients for two years.

"ANY PHARMACIST in any community will get up for his patients any time," Crosetti said. "This is something that has been built into us as part of our heritage."

One reason Mrs. Rex Wolfe was unable to find an emergency pharmacy (the incident that led to last week's column) was that she had a San Francisco physician, and out-of-county physicians are not all familiar with the Marin system.

That is being remedied, said Frederick S. Mayer of Sausalito Rexall Pharmacy. The association plans to notify the medical societies in San Francisco and other surrounding counties in the East Bay and North Bay of the Marin pharmacy setup.

Marin doctors are notified through the Marin County Medical Bulletin each month.

THE SYSTEM has built-in safeguards against non-emergency calls, would-be drug thieves and crank calls. Only doctors can get the on-call pharmacist's name from the answering service, and the druggists as standing procedure ask police in their area to stand by or accompany them on the late night service as a precaution against robberies.

The best thing for a patient to do, Mayer said, is to get to know a pharmacist in his community. Many pharmacists will open their stores at night for patients they know, he said, in addition to the county on-call system.

A couple of druggists were unhappy about what they saw as an undeserved slam, but Mayer saw a silver lining.

"I'm happy you wrote the article," he said, "because it will bring the system to more people's knowledge — even doctors."

I hope he's right.

A Street Just Isn't A Street Without A Few Potholes

WASHINGTON — I just finished attending a pothole convention in Pittsburgh, Pa. Pothole makers from all over the world jammed the city's hotels and motels, and officials of the National Pothole Association said it was the most successful meeting they ever had.

Hiram H. Patches, president of the NPA, said, "Thanks to a very bad winter, pothole production has tripled in the 1960-1970 season. We've had potholes where we've never had potholes before. At one time you only saw potholes in the poorer neighborhoods and on unpaved streets. But now, because of new technological breakthroughs, you'll find potholes on paved suburban roads as well as highways and bridges. We can't keep up with the demand."

MR. PATCHES took me to the exhibition hall where equipment as well as designs for potholes were on display.

"Most potholes used to be rectangular, but we're getting demands for potholes in every shape and form. This kidney-shaped one is very popular, and this oval one has been moving quite well, and this zigzag pothole is a winner."

"You mean you can deliver a pothole made to order?"

"Of course. When you have a pothole on a highway or a main street, you don't want one that looks ugly and doesn't fit in with the landscape."

"HOW DO YOU make a pothole?" I asked.

"It's very complicated," Mr. Patches said, "and there are many methods. The old-fashioned way of making a pothole was to dig up a street and then fill it in again with a cheaper subsurface material. Before the material hardened you would send a truck over it and it would make a pothole any size you wanted.

"But the difficulty with this method was that it was too expensive to dig up the streets just to make a pothole. So our research people attacked the problem. They discovered that if you use a cheap asphalt or a thin tar surface on the roads, all you need to make a good-sized pothole are enough vehicles passing over it. Now most of our potholes are made by using cheaper material and bad labor."

"What kind of pothole makers are those?" I asked, pointing to a very interesting display which showed what happens to the chassis of a car that hits a pothole.

"That's our freeze-and-thaw road breaker. We have discovered that by freezing a road or highway to zero temperature, and then thawing it, you can make potholes automatically. The size depends on how many heavy trucks and busses roll over the surface.

"We can make a pothole with an automobile as well, but it takes twice as long as it does with a good solid truck."

WE WALKED along and came to a theater where I noticed someone getting an award. "What's going on?"

"Every year, to publicize potholes, we give an award to the city that has the most potholes. Pittsburgh won this year, though I must say it was close; New York, Chicago, Cleveland and Detroit are all protesting that they should have got the prize."

"There seems to be a great market for potholes. Who buys them?"

"Our biggest customers are elected officials."

"I don't understand."

"MOST POLITICIANS, particularly those up for election, want to do something for the people. So they order the potholes from us. Once they've been installed, the voters complain about them and then the officials arrange for the potholes to be filled in. This way the politicians win the undying gratitude of the electorate."

"So, without your potholes it would be impossible for anyone to run for re-election in the United States?"

"Exactly. Look, there's Mayor Daley ordering a gross of potholes for the Loop."

Richardson Bay Sanitary Pension Plan Approved

A pension plan for employees of the Richardson Bay Sanitary District, who currently have no retirement program, has been accepted by the sanitary ditsrict board by a 4-1 vote, secretary Beverly Wheeler reported.

The dissenting vote Tuesday night came from Douglas De La Fontaine, board president.

Under the plan, presented by insurance broker James Hill, the district will contribute equivalent of 10 per cent of an employees salary toward the program each year, Mrs. Wheeler said.

Individuals would become eligible, including death benefits, after six months employment. Benefits and retirement pay will be determined by salary and retirement age. The board also agreed to allow district employees to work till 70.

In other action the board voted to grant employees a 3 per cent pay raise, effective March 1, to supplement a 5 per cent raise approved in November, according to Mrs. Wheeler. During salary negotiations last year, the employees had asked for a 10 per cent increase, she said.

Jose Luis Lopez, 24, of Corte Madera, has been bound over to Marin Superior Court on a charge of felony drunken driving stemming from a wrong-way crash on Highway 101, north of Richardson Bay Jan. 10. He is to appear in court Tuesday for arraignment.

Rime of Ancient Mariner

It is an Ancient Mariner,
And he stoppeth one of three.
"By thy long gray beard and glittering eye,
Now wherefore
stoppeth'st thou me?

The Bridegroom's doors are open wide,
And I am next of kin;
The guests are met,
the feast is set;
May'st hear the merry din."
